40 MORE U. S. PRISONERS FREED

South Korean Soldiers Tell Of Brutality

U. S. Prisoners Say Treatment Better In Recent Weeks

FREEDOM VILLAGE, Korea, Friday, April 24 (AP)—The latest U. S. exchanged sick and wounded—only recently swept up in battle—told Thursday of better Red treatment but from the lips of South Korean prisoners tumbled the same old story of wholesale brutality and neglect.

A South Korean sergeant said more than 1,000 of Allied prisoners died in his camp high in North Korea during January and February of 1951 of typhoid or brutality. Bodies piled up in a nearby valley and were left unburied for a long period.

"More Than Hell"

The sergeant did not give the nationality of the Allies, but presumably most were South Koreans.

"It was more than hell," said the sergeant, Park Chon Soo. He said his captors also killed "a lot of Allied prisoners" in the preceding December.

This would bring to more than 2,500 the number of Allied prisoners killed or dead of neglect and disease, as reported by prisoners in the first four days of the exchange.

Official Allied estimates, as reported to the United Nations, have put the American figure alone at about 8,000 killed from the start of the war until the fall of 1951.

Sgt. Kim Ya Sung, captured by North Koreans, showed his hands from which all fingers were missing, and said doctors cut them off with a saw and a knife without an anesthetic. He related that doctors used as an excuse that circulation had stopped in his fingers.

Kim said he was the only prisoner tortured in this camp—he had tried to escape—and that the Communists forced him to drink water in great amounts and poured hot pepper in his nose and mouth.

Relate Brighter Side

Lt. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Eighth Army commander, called Kim's report "a scandalous case."

Sgt. Han Myuhd Dong, a captive more than two years, said seven of 60 South Koreans on a death march were shot and killed because they could not walk fast.

Some of the returned South Koreans confirmed reports that many of their comrades were forced into the North Korean Army. The United Nations Command has put the total figure at 50,000.

The returned Americans related a little brighter story than those of mistreatment and neglect told by Americans exchanged Monday and Tuesday. But these latest returned prisoners were captured only recently and none had been in prison camps in the far north.

Some of the U. S. Marines returned Thursday were captured on Outposts Vegas and Reno on the Western Front last month.

Quakes Shake New Guinea As Damage Is Great

RABAUL, New Guinea, April 24—(Friday) — (INS) — A series of earthquakes shook Rabaul and the area within a 30-mile radius today, causing heavy landslides nd extensive. damage.

Officials said that routes from Rabaul were still open and that in many cases a single line of traffic was leaving the area. There were no immediate reports of casualty.

The forces of the tremors jammed seismographs.

Luce Remains In Background

ROME, April 23 (AP)—Henry R. Luce, forgotten man in the welcome of his blonde wife as U. S. ambassador, went to work today less than 24 hours after their arrival in Italy.

The publisher of Time and Life magazines rented a suite of offices on the Corso d'Italia—Rome's Wall Street.

This set off speculation that he plans to try out an Italian-language news and picture weekly or to start an English-language newspaper aimed at Europe-wide circulation.

The Rome offices of Time and Life said there was no confirmation. It was pointed out that Luce in any case intends to spend half of each year here.

Associates said "he wants to stay in the background."

The publisher's wife, Clare Boothe Luce, started work preliminary to her task as the first woman ambassador to a Latin land that has had full woman's suffrage for only six years.

She visited the U. S. Embassy on the Via Veneto, shook hands with her staff, had buffet supper tonight with a dozen top officials of the embassy—and crowded in more lessons in Italian.

Red Shell Strikes Destroyer, 9 Hurt

WASHINGTON, April 23 (INS)—The Navy announced today that a Communist shell exploded Sunday on the main deck of the U. S. destroyer Kyes, injuring nine men.

The hit was scored off Wonsan, Korea. All the injured were members of an ammunition handling party.

President Hopes To Cut Defense, State Budgets

WASHINGTON, April 23 (AP) — President Eisenhower is working on a broad-scale reorganization of the State and Defense Departments with a twofold purpose: 1. to tighten up their efficiency and, 2. to make them less costly.

The President told his news conference today he is confident that the 46 billion dollar defense budget submitted by former President Truman for the fiscal year starting July 1 can be reduced. He said he was not ready to estimate by how much, however.

Plans for streamlining two of the government's biggest departments were outlined at a White House breakfast conference with congressional leaders prior to the session with newsmen.

There has been much congressional criticism of waste and inefficiency in both agencies.

Sen. Taft (R-Ohio), after hearing the plans for reorganizing the Defense Department, said:

"Broadly speaking, it would substitute individuals for certain boards, effect a greater efficiency and cut down on the personnel."

Taft said the discussion covered new procedures in the department to give the secretary of defense and the civilian secretaries of the armed services a tighter grip on "what is going on."

One of the boards that may be abolished, Taft said, is the Munitions Board, which is in charge of the government's program of stockpiling strategic materials.

Suggested changes in the State Department included these possibilities, Taft said:

1. Taking the Voice of America and association information programs out of the department and setting them up as an independent agency.

2. Transferring the Point Four program of providing technical skill to underdeveloped areas of the world to the Mutual Security Agency.

Nominations Approved

WASHINGTON, April 23 (INS)—The Senate unanimously confirmed today the nominations of Frederick B. Lee as civil aeronautics administrator and of Jerome K. Kuykendall, of Washington, as a federal power commissioner.

Yen For Dancing Girl Gets Stage Manager In Trouble

CANNES, France, April 23 (AP)—A yen to cover a nude dancing girl with jewels and furs brought disaster today to Pierre Parys, stage manager of the Folies Bergere.

Parys was arrested on charges of fraud as he consorted with starlets at the Cannes Film Festival, passing himself off as head of a concern making movie shorts.

French police told this story:

Several months ago a pretty new girl joined the Folies chorus line and Parys—married and the father of two children—fell for her hard.

For seven years a model worker at the Folies, he began extorting money from other chorus girls, threatening them with loss of their jobs. He forged requests by girls for advances on their pay, advances he pocketed.

With the money, Parys showered expensive dresses, jewels and fur coats on his girl friend.

He collected millions of francs from acquaintances to be invested, he said, in a television studio he was going to build.

Later, he began signing bad checks.

He obtained the franc equivalent of about $30,000 in all.

When his girl friend got wind of how he obtained his money she returned all his gifts and left him.

Assembly Adjourns With Prayers For Korean Armistice

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., April 23 (AP) — The U. N. Assembly recessed indefinitely today with a hope and a prayer for an early Korean armistice. It also called overwhelmingly for an impartial investigation of Red germ warfare charges and unanimously urged joint action to get 12,000 Chinese guerrillas out of Burma.

Sir Gladwyn Jebb, British chief delegate and acting Assembly president, pounded the final gavel at 11:57 a.m. with this declaration:

"Let us all hope it will not be long before we meet again to discuss the organization of peace following the conclusion of an armistice in Korea."

Hope For Armistice

Delegates are hopeful that an armistice will be achieved in a few weeks. When it comes, or when a majority of delegates decide any Korean development warrants a meeting, the Assembly will be called back.

Ambassador Ernest A. Gross, who is retiring as U. S. deputy delegate, clashed bitterly with Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky on the germ warfare issue. The Assembly voted 51-5 (Soviet bloc) for an impartial investigation by a five-member commission of the Communist charges against the United States and its U. N. Allies in Korea, but delegates acknowledged that Russian opposition made the chances of such a probe nil. Burma, India, Indonesia and Saudi Arabia abstained.

Gross said that the Russian vote against an impartial investigation "is a condemnation of the fairness with which the representatives of these five countries might be expected to investigate these charges." He referred to the commission members: Brazil, Egypt, Pakistan, Sweden and Uruguay.

"The course followed by the Soviet government," Gross said, ". . . compounds two crimes—speaking evil and concealing evil."

Compromise On Guerillas

The terms of the germ warfare resolution call for the commission to begin functioning only after all parties concerned have agreed to co-operate. Since the Chinese Communists and the North Korean regime have served notice that they will not do so, the commission is expected never to start work.

The delegates went into a more harmonious mood on the issue of the Chinese guerrillas in Burma. The Political Committee yesterday approved, 58-0, with Burma and Nationalist China abstaining, a compromise resolution calling on all countries to help Burma get rid of 12,000 Chinese guerrillas operating in Burmese jungles.

Nation To Give Atomic Lessons

WASHINGTON, April 23 (AP)—The Defense Department disclosed today this nation is going to give its allies lessons on atomic warfare, beginning next week.

Key military leaders of the NATO forces in Europe will get training in the "use of atomic weapons in tactical situations," the department said.

No restricted material will be divulged, a spokesman said. This means the U. S. is keeping the lid clamped tightly over its secrets on the production of atomic weapons.

U. S. military leaders have long called for the removal of some barriers against disclosure of atomic information. They argued that leaders of NATO—the North Atlantic Treaty Organization—must be taught how to defend themselves against atomic attack and how to launch a counter-attack with A-weapons.

Adviser Disappears With Soviet Secrets

LONDON, April 24—(Friday) — (INS)—A London newspaper reported today the disappearance of a key Soviet adviser with many of the Kremlin's top secrets.

A London Daily Sketch columnist said iron curtain sources reported that Maj. Gen. Alexander Poskrebyshev, a close friend of the late Premier Stalin, vanished two weeks ago with a copy of Stalin's last will and testament.

The 52-year-old general also was said to have taken with him documents concerning the highest Soviet leaders.

House Passes Rental Controls Extension

New Measure Would Expire July 31

WASHINGTON, April 23—(INS)—The House voted today to extend federal rent controls for three months in about 1,400 so-called non-critical housing areas having an estimated 4,300,000 dwellings.

The action would carry forward until July 31 rent ceilings due to expire April 30.

As passed by the House, the bill makes separate provision for extending controls in critical areas which also are scheduled to expire at the end of this month. As of Feb. 1, there were 131 such areas having about 1,300,000 dwelling units.

Goes To Senate

The measure now goes to the Senate where long debate over the tidelands oil bill may prevent action before the present rent measure expires. This difficulty might be overcome by a brief, stop-gap extension of the present law.

The measure was first passed by voice vote. Upon objection that a quorum was not present, it then was adopted by a non-recorded vote of 187 to 66.

Other parts of the Wolcott measure would:

1. Re-define critical defense areas to include only places affected by military installations, leaving out those where housing shortages exist because of defense plant expansion.

2. End controls in places now classified as critical areas on July 1 unless they can qualify under the new standard.

Act Abolishes ORS

3. Extend federal controls in newly designated critical areas until April 30, 1954.

4. Abolish the office of rent stabilization and give its functions to other agencies.

The July 31 compormise, worked out Wednesday, virtually eliminated Democratic opposition based on the contention that President Eisenhower had asked for a five-month extension in order that state legislatures might have time to work out substitute controls.

Ike Now Awaits Russian Moves In Korea Peace

WASHINGTON, April 23 (AP) — President Eisenhower said today reported atrocities in Korea weigh heavily on one's heart. Something obviously has been wrong, he said, with Communist treatment of war prisoners.

But in an evident effort to avoid any move that might jeopardize the exchange of additional prisoners, Eisenhower told a news conference he is not prepared at the moment to express any sweeping conclusions.

The President also said he can't say what the chances are for a prompt truce in Korea—that he is just waiting.

The world peace and disarmament program with which he challenged Russia a week ago, Eisenhower said, has produced reaction only through the press—nothing from Moscow through diplomatic channels.

In reply to a question pegged to Korea and the Far East, the Chief Executive said he was ready to do anything or confer anywhere to bring peace. He attached his previously expressed proviso—that the American people approve the idea and that any agreement reached would be self-enforcing.

On other news conference topics, Eisenhower had this to say:

Jobs—So far as he has any knowledge, nobody has been discharged from government position for patronage purposes—something he says has no appeal for him whatsoever. But he believes people he has placed in Cabinet positions or those of equivalent rank are the best available and are fully responsible for operations of their agencies.

Housing—House action in voting to end the low cost public housing program by July 1 didn't agree with Eisenhower's personal opinion as to the wise and convenient way of handling the matter. He said he thought the program should have been kept in status quo until a proposed commission works out recommendation on the proper division of federal and state responsibility in this and other fields.

Tidelands—He sees by the papers that opponents of the bill to give states title to oil-rich offshore submerged lands are claiming they aren't filibustering in the Senate. But he thinks that after four weeks we ought to be getting pretty well educated on the facts, even as seen by someone diametrically opposed to his own viewpoint.

Atomic Power — The President hopes and expects something will be done about developing atomic energy as a source of industrial power. Legislation probably will be needed.

Reciprocal Trade—The President favors a straight one-year extension of the present trade law, again pending results of a study of the program by representatives of the government's legislative and executive branches.

The awards will include 1,316 bachelor degrees, 431 higher degrees and 342 professional degrees.

The Graduate School will award 431 degrees, the College of Arts and Sciences 366, Business and Public Administration 283, Education 209, Military Science 134, Engineering 130, Agriculture 106, Home Economics 47 and Physical Education 41.

Bishops From Five States To Meet

BALTIMORE, April 23 (AP) — Twelve Episcopal bishops from five states, making up the House of Bishops of the Province of Washington, met here today to discuss administrative details.

The Rt. Rev. Noble C. Powell, Bishop of Maryland and president of the province, called the interim meeting for a discussion of clergy placement, financial structure of parishes, social service and missionary work.

TESTIFIES—Alexander R. Novikoff, University of Vermont professor, testifies before the Senate Internal Security subcommittee, telling the group that he cannot be an informer in the group's probe of campus communism. He refused to answer the query if he was a Red.

1,200 Attend GOP Women's Conference

WASHINGTON, April 23 (AP) — Twelve hundred Republican women from all parts of the country got an inside look at the Eisenhower administration today—plus a pep talk on "selling" the GOP program to the voters in the 1954 and 1956 elections.

In the opening day of a two-day conference at the Statler Hotel, the party workers were addressed by top administration officials including Atty. Gen. Brownell, who called for a "one step at a time" approach to ending the cold war.

By implication Brownell disagreed with the view recently expressed by Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) that a Korean armistice should be negotiated only as part of a general Asiatic settlement.

"I would not urge that we settle all our problems before we agree to an armistice in Korea," Brownell said. "It should be enough to take one step at a time.

"Let us achieve an armistice in Korea—then move on to Indochina and try for an armistice there, and then perhaps a general armistice."

Eisenhower's chief assistant, Sherman Adams, told the conference—sponsored by the GOP National Committee's Women's Division—that the President and his associates already have shown they can "get this country and the people in it to believe again in themselves."

Adams said no problem is getting more attention from the administration than the matter of cutting taxes.

He said, too, that Congress for the first time in many years is being treated by the White House "as a co-equal partner in government."

On the whole, added the former New Hampshire governor, Democrats in Congress are proving themselves "Americans first and partisans second" in co-operating with the administration.

Today's pre-election pep talk came from Secretary of the Interior Douglas McKay. Pointing to Eisenhower's selection of business men and industrialists for the highest ranking posts in government, McKay declared:

"Business is on trial today. We're here on trial. We'll be thrown out just as easily as we were put in office if we fail to do the job. We've got a selling job to do and you're the gals to do it."

President Eisenhower and GOP National Chairman Leonard A. Hall will address the group tomorrow.

Man Is Killed In Plane Crash

OLYMPIA, Wash., April 23 (INS) The Washington State Patrol in Olympia reported tonight that the body of one man was found in the wreckage of a crippled air force C-97 cargo plane which crashed in flames 10 miles northeast of Centralia, Wash., after being abandoned by its crew.

Identification found on the body, the patrol said, indicated the victim's name was Roger Ronbeau and that he was a plant workman.

There was no immediate explanation of his presence aboard the plane which soared 40 miles without human control today after it was crippled in air by an explosion and abandoned by its 10-man crew.

The Washington State Patrol said members of the crew reported they were not aware anyone was aboard the plane except those persons listed for the training flight.

Services Are Held

PRINCE FREDERICK, Md., April 23 (AP)—Funeral services will be held here Saturday for Benjamin Hance, attorney, former chairman of the Maryland Board of Motion Picture Censors, former member of the House of Delegates, and a leader in Calvert County Democratic politics.

He died after a heart attack at his home here last night. He was 65.

It's Getting Very Difficult To Enter DAR Organization

WASHINGTON, April 23 (AP)—It's getting harder and harder to become a daughter of the American Revolution. Even having an ancestor who marched with G. Washington himself is no guarantee of DAR membership.

This, and related facts, came out today in a talk with two honorary president generals of the DAR: Mrs. Julius Y. Talmadge of Athens, Ga., and Mrs. Roscoe C. O'Bryne of Brookville, Ind.

They're both former presidents of the organization, and, along with 3,500 other women, are here for the DAR Convention.

"In the old days," Mrs. O'Bryne said, "we used to accept evidence of ancestry we won't accept now. Now we demand proof."

"Sometimes it takes years to establish proof that your ancestor really fought in the war," Mrs. T. said.

"Similarity in names makes it especially confusing," Mrs. O'B. said.

"Furthermore," Mrs. Talmadge said, "no one can simply join the DAR. She must be invited. She must not only be eligible; she must be desirable. We're getting more particular all the time."

Mrs. Talmadge says she can trace her ancestry back to the Revolution in several directions—"I can't even remember how many"—but she came in on a line that led back to Col. Arthur Erwin of Pennsylvania.

Mrs. O'Bryne is more direct. Her grandmother was what is called a "real" daughter of the American Revolution. Meaning her father actually served in the war.

"His name was Phillip Young," she said. "He went in at 17. He was a spy."

They both spent years coming up the DAR ladder, as officers in local chapters, as state officials, as national officers, and, finally, as president of an organization which now has 176,000 members.

Total Swells To 119 With Latest Swap

Allies Thank Reds For Added Exchange Of Sick, Wounded

PANMUNJOM, Friday, April 24 (AP)—The Allies thanked the Communists today for agreeing to return more disabled captives than pledged originally, announced the U. N. Command would do likewise and pressed for a stretch-out of the current sick and wounded exchange for the duration of the Korean fighting.

Forty more Americans crossed the line to freedom here today, swelling to 119 the number of U. S. sick and wounded liberated in five days.

Answered Quickly

The Communists also handed over four British, four Turks, one Dutch, one Canadian and 50 South Koreans.

The Red thaw yesterday on swapping disabled captives and the quick Allied response today meant that more sick and wounded prisoners would be released by both sides than the 605 Allies and 5,800 Communists promised in the historic exchange pact.

At the same time, the Reds asked a one-day postponement until 2 p.m. Sunday (8 p.m., EST, Saturday) for the resumption of full armistice negotiations.

No reason was given immediately. The truce talks were suspended Oct. 8 and have been deadlocked for a year over the last remaining issue of an over-all prisoner exchange.

The Allied statement to the Reds on exchanging more disabled captives was given at an eight-minute liaison meeting here today.

Rear Adm. John C. Daniel told the Communists:

"We note with gratification the indication given by your side (yesterday) .. that all sick and injured captured personnel in your custody will be repatriated . . ."

The first group released today at Panmunjom for the most part broke out in broad smiles but had little to say.

Rushed To Village

Some were rushed to Freedom Village near Panmunjom by helicopter. Others were taken there in ambulances.

While the exchange was going on, artillery was booming and shells crumped into the ground just outside the neutral circle.

And 40 miles to the south, a huge Globemaster transport took off for Tokyo from an airport near Seoul with 12 American and six Colombian repatriates who had been released yesterday. Nine were litter cases.

Allied liaison officers met with Red officers here today, presumably to seek more information on the "bonus" repatriates. They adjourned after eight minutes at Allied requests.

While it appeared that the original agreement to exchange 605 Allied disabled for 5,800 Red sick and injured would be increased by the Communists, there was no immediate indication of exactly how many.

The Communists in a surprise move Thursday announced the increase and said it would include sick and wounded captured only recently. Actually, as they spoke they already had begun to return the newly captured.

The 14 U. S. Marines, naval medical corpsmen and soldiers of the U. S. 2nd and 7th Divisions who came back Thursday were captured only last month in bitter fighting on the Western Front. So were six Colombians. Five returned Australians were captured in January.

May Increase Total

Some observers believed the Allies had intended to call on the Communists to increase the exchange totals but after hearing the Communist statement had decided to await developments.

In Tokyo, United Nations Command headquarters issued a statement saying: "Gen. Clark is gratified that the Communists, in response to repeated requests from the United Nations Command, have agreed to return not only additional sick and wounded captured United Nations Command personnel in this category."

The emphasis seemed to be on the word "all." Despite repeated Communist assurances there were fears on the Allied side that the Reds were holding back many sick and wounded.

Today's Chuckle

The only reason many American families don't own an elephant is that they have never been offered an elephant for a dollar flown and a dollar a week.

Sen. Taft (R-Ohio), after hearing the plans for reorganizing the Defense Department, said:

"Broadly speaking, it would substitute individuals for certain boards, effect a greater efficiency and cut down on the personnel."

Taft said the discussion covered new procedures in the department to give the secretary of defense and the civilian secretaries of the armed services a tighter grip on "what is going on."

One of the boards that may be abolished, Taft said, is the Munitions Board, which is in charge of the government's program of stockpiling strategic materials.

Suggested changes in the State Department included these possibilities, Taft said:

1. Taking the Voice of America and association information programs out of the department and setting them up as an independent agency.

2. Transferring the Point Four program of providing technical skill to underdeveloped areas of the world to the Mutual Security Agency.

Yen For Dancing Girl Gets Stage Manager In Trouble

CANNES, France, April 23 (AP)—A yen to cover a nude dancing girl with jewels and furs brought disaster today to Pierre Parys, stage manager of the Folies Bergere.

Parys was arrested on charges of fraud as he consorted with starlets at the Cannes Film Festival, passing himself off as head of a concern making movie shorts.

French police told this story:

Several months ago a pretty new girl joined the Folies chorus line and Parys—married and the father of two children—fell for her hard.

For seven years a model worker at the Folies, he began extorting money from other chorus girls, threatening them with loss of their jobs. He forged requests by girls for advances on their pay, advances he pocketed.

With the money, Parys showered expensive dresses, jewels and fur coats on his girl friend.

He collected millions of francs from acquaintances to be invested, he said, in a television studio he was going to build.

Later, he began signing bad checks.

He obtained the franc equivalent of about $30,000 in all.

When his girl friend got wind of how he obtained his money she returned all his gifts and left him.

Assembly Adjourns With Prayers For Korean Armistice

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., April 23 (AP) — The U. N. Assembly recessed indefinitely today with a hope and a prayer for an early Korean armistice. It also called overwhelmingly for an impartial investigation of Red germ warfare charges and unanimously urged joint action to get 12,000 Chinese guerrillas out of Burma.

Sir Gladwyn Jebb, British chief delegate and acting Assembly president, pounded the final gavel at 11:57 a.m. with this declaration:

"Let us all hope it will not be long before we meet again to discuss the organization of peace following the conclusion of an armistice in Korea."

Hope For Armistice

Delegates are hopeful that an armistice will be achieved in a few weeks. When it comes, or when a majority of delegates decide any Korean development warrants a meeting, the Assembly will be called back.

Ambassador Ernest A. Gross, who is retiring as U. S. deputy delegate, clashed bitterly with Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky on the germ warfare issue. The Assembly voted 51-5 (Soviet bloc) for an impartial investigation by a five-member commission of the Communist charges against the United States and its U. N. Allies in Korea, but delegates acknowledged that Russian opposition made the chances of such a probe nil. Burma, India, Indonesia and Saudi Arabia abstained.

Gross said that the Russian vote against an impartial investigation "is a condemnation of the fairness with which the representatives of these five countries might be expected to investigate these charges." He referred to the commission members: Brazil, Egypt, Pakistan, Sweden and Uruguay.

"The course followed by the Soviet government," Gross said, "... compounds two crimes—speaking evil and concealing evil."

Compromise On Guerillas

The terms of the germ warfare resolution call for the commission to begin functioning only after all parties concerned have agreed to co-operate. Since the Chinese Communists and the North Korean regime have served notice that they will not do so, the commission is expected never to start work.

The delegates went into a more harmonious mood on the issue of the Chinese guerrillas in Burma. The Political Committee yesterday approved, 58-0, with Burma and Nationalist China abstaining, a compromise resolution calling on all countries to help Burma get rid of 12,000 Chinese guerrillas operating in Burmese jungles.

Nation To Give Atomic Lessons

WASHINGTON, April 23 (AP)—The Defense Department disclosed today this nation is going to give its allies lessons on atomic warfare, beginning next week.

Key military leaders of the NATO forces in Europe will get training in the "use of atomic weapons in tactical situations," the department said.

No restricted material will be divulged, a spokesman said. This means the U. S. is keeping the lid clamped tightly over its secrets on the production of atomic weapons.

U. S. military leaders have long called for the removal of some barriers against disclosure of atomic information. They argued that leaders of NATO—the North Atlantic Treaty Organization—must be taught how to defend themselves against atomic attack and how to launch a counter-attack with A-weapons.

Adviser Disappears With Soviet Secrets

LONDON, April 24—(Friday)—(INS)—A London newspaper reported today the disappearance of a key Soviet adviser with many of the Kremlin's top secrets.

A London Daily Sketch columnist said iron curtain sources reported that Maj. Gen. Alexander Poskrebyshev, a close friend of the late Premier Stalin, vanished two weeks ago with a copy of Stalin's last will and testament.

The 52-year-old general also was said to have taken with him documents concerning the highest Soviet leaders.

New Measure Would Expire July 31

WASHINGTON, April 23—(INS)—The House voted today to extend federal rent controls for three months in about 1,400 so-called non-critical housing areas having an estimated 4,300,000 dwellings.

The action would carry forward until July 31 rent ceilings due to expire April 30.

As passed by the House, the bill makes separate provision for extending controls in critical areas which also are scheduled to expire at the end of this month. As of Feb. 1, there were 131 such areas having about 1,300,000 dwelling units.

Goes To Senate

The measure now goes to the Senate where long debate over the tidelands oil bill may prevent action before the present rent measure expires. This difficulty might be overcome by a brief, stop-gap extension of the present law.

The measure was first passed by voice vote. Upon objection that a quorum was not present, it then was adopted by a non-recorded vote of 187 to 66.

Other parts of the Wolcott measure would:

1. Re-define critical defense areas to include only places affected by military installations, leaving out those where housing shortages exist because of defense plant expansion.

2. End controls in places now classified as critical areas on July 1 unless they can qualify under the new standard.

Act Abolishes ORS

3. Extend federal controls in newly designated critical areas until April 30, 1954.

4. Abolish the office of rent stabilization and give its functions to other agencies.

The July 31 compromise, worked out Wednesday, virtually eliminated Democratic opposition based on the contention that President Eisenhower had asked for a five-month extension in order that state legislatures might have time to work out substitute controls.

Ike Now Awaits Russian Moves In Korea Peace

WASHINGTON, April 23 (AP) — President Eisenhower said today reported atrocities in Korea weigh heavily on one's heart. Something obviously has been wrong, he said, with Communist treatment of war prisoners.

But in an evident effort to avoid any move that might jeopardize the exchange of additional prisoners, Eisenhower told a news conference he is not prepared at the moment to express any sweeping conclusions.

The President also said he can't say what the chances are for a prompt truce in Korea—that he is just waiting.

The world peace and disarmament program with which he challenged Russia a week ago, Eisenhower said, has produced reaction only through the press—nothing from Moscow through diplomatic channels.

In reply to a question pegged to Korea and the Far East, the Chief Executive said he was ready to do anything or confer anywhere to bring peace. He attached his previously expressed proviso—that the American people approve the idea and that any agreement reached would be self-enforcing.

On other news conference topics, Eisenhower had this to say:

Jobs—So far as he has any knowledge, nobody has been discharged from government position for patronage purposes—something he says has no appeal for him whatsoever. But he believes people he has placed in Cabinet positions or those of equivalent rank are the best available and are fully responsible for operations of their agencies.

Housing—House action in voting to end the low cost public housing program by July 1 didn't agree with Eisenhower's personal opinion as to the wise and convenient way of handling the matter. He said he thought the program should have been kept in status quo until a proposed commission works out recommendation on the proper division of federal and state responsibility in this and other fields.

Tidelands—He sees by the papers that opponents of the bill to give states title to oil-rich offshore submerged lands are claiming they aren't filibustering in the Senate. But he thinks that after four weeks we ought to be getting pretty well educated on the facts, even as seen by someone diametrically opposed to his own viewpoint.

Atomic Power — The President hopes and expects something will be done about developing atomic energy as a source of industrial power. Legislation probably will be needed.

Reciprocal Trade—The President favors a straight one-year extension of the present trade law, again pending results of a study of the program by representatives of the government's legislative and executive branches.

Bishops From Five States To Meet

BALTIMORE, April 23 (AP) — Twelve Episcopal bishops from five states, making up the House of Bishops of the Province of Washington, met here today to discuss administrative details.

The Rt. Rev. Noble C. Powell, Bishop of Maryland and president of the province, called the interim meeting for a discussion of clergy placement, financial structure of parishes, social service and missionary work.

TESTIFIES—Alexander R. Novikoff, University of Vermont professor, testifies before the Senate Internal Security subcommittee, telling the group that he cannot be an informer in the group's probe of campus communism. He refused to answer the query if he was a Red.

1,200 Attend GOP Women's Conference

WASHINGTON, April 23 (AP) — Twelve hundred Republican women from all parts of the country got an inside look at the Eisenhower administration today—plus a pep talk on "selling" the GOP program to the voters in the 1954 and 1956 elections.

In the opening day of a two-day conference at the Statler Hotel, the party workers were addressed by top administration officials including Atty. Gen. Brownell, who called for a "one step at a time" approach to ending the cold war.

By implication Brownell disagreed with the view recently expressed by Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) that a Korean armistice should be negotiated only as part of a general Asiatic settlement.

"I would not urge that we settle all our problems before we agree to an armistice in Korea," Brownell said. "It should be enough to take one step at a time.

"Let us achieve an armistice in Korea—then move on to Indochina and try for an armistice there, and then perhaps a general armistice."

Eisenhower's chief assistant, Sherman Adams, told the conference—sponsored by the GOP National Committee's Women's Division—that the President and his associates already have shown they can "get this country and the people in it to believe again in themselves."

Adams said no problem is getting more attention from the administration than the matter of cutting taxes.

He said, too, that Congress for the first time in many years is being treated by the White House "as a co-equal partner in government."

On the whole, added the former New Hampshire governor, Democrats in Congress are proving themselves "Americans first and partisans second" in co-operating with the administration.

Today's pre-election pep talk came from Secretary of the Interior Douglas McKay. Pointing to Eisenhower's selection of business men and industrialists for the highest ranking posts in government, McKay declared:

"Business is on trial today. We're here on trial. We'll be thrown out just as easily as we were put in office if we fail to do the job. We've got a selling job to do and you're the gals to do it."

President Eisenhower and GOP National Chairman Leonard A. Hall will address the group tomorrow.

Man Is Killed In Plane Crash

OLYMPIA, Wash., April 23 (INS) The Washington State Patrol in Olympia reported tonight that the body of one man was found in the wreckage of a crippled air force C-97 cargo plane which crashed in flames 10 miles northeast of Centralia, Wash., after being abandoned by its crew.

Identification found on the body, the patrol said, indicated the victim's name was Roger Ronbeau and that he was a plant workman.

There was no immediate explanation of his presence aboard the plane which soared 40 miles without human control today after it was crippled in air by an explosion and abandoned by its 10-man crew.

The Washington State Patrol said members of the crew reported they were not aware anyone was aboard the plane except those persons listed for the training flight.

Services Are Held

PRINCE FREDERICK, Md., April 23 (AP)—Funeral services will be held here Saturday for Benjamin Hance, attorney, former chairman of the Maryland Board of Motion Picture Censors, former member of the House of Delegates, and a leader in Calvert County Democratic politics.

He died after a heart attack at his home here last night. He was 65.

It's Getting Very Difficult To Enter DAR Organization

WASHINGTON, April 23 (AP)—It's getting harder and harder to become a daughter of the American Revolution. Even having an ancestor who marched with G. Washington himself is no guarantee of DAR membership.

This, and related facts, came out today in a talk with two honorary president generals of the DAR: Mrs. Julius Y. Talmadge of Athens, Ga., and Mrs. Roscoe C. O'Bryne of Brookville, Ind.

They're both former presidents of the organization, and, along with 3,500 other women, are here for the DAR Convention.

"In the old days," Mrs. O'Bryne said, "we used to accept evidence of ancestry we won't accept now. Now we demand proof."

"Sometimes it takes years to establish proof that your ancestor really fought in the war," Mrs. T. said.

"Similarity in names makes it especially confusing," Mrs. O'B. said.

"Furthermore," Mrs. Talmadge said, "no one can simply join the DAR. She must be invited. She must not only be eligible; she must be desirable. We're getting more particular all the time."

Mrs. Talmadge says she can trace her ancestry back to the Revolution in several directions—"I can't even remember how many"—but she came in on a line that led back to Col. Arthur Erwin of Pennsylvania.

Mrs. O'Bryne is more direct. Her grandmother was what is called a "real" daughter of the American Revolution. Meaning her father actually served in the war.

"His name was Phillip Young," she said. "He went in at 17. He was a spy."

They both spent years coming up the DAR ladder, as officers in local chapters, as state officials, as national officers, and, finally, as president of an organization which now has 176,000 members.

Total Swells To 119 With Latest Swap

Allies Thank Reds For Added Exchange Of Sick, Wounded

PANMUNJOM, Friday, April 24 (AP)—The Allies thanked the Communists today for agreeing to return more disabled captives than pledged originally, announced the U. N. Command would do likewise and pressed for a stretch-out of the current sick and wounded exchange for the duration of the Korean fighting.

Forty more Americans crossed the line to freedom here today, swelling to 119 the number of U. S. sick and wounded liberated in five days.

Answered Quickly

The Communists also handed over four British, four Turks, one Dutch, one Canadian and 50 South Koreans.

The Red thaw yesterday on swapping disabled captives and the quick Allied response today meant that more sick and wounded prisoners would be released by both sides than the 605 Allies and 5,800 Communists promised in the historic exchange pact.

At the same time, the Reds asked a one-day postponement until 2 p.m. Sunday (8 p.m., EST, Saturday) for the resumption of full armistice negotiations.

No reason was given immediately. The truce talks were suspended Oct. 8 and have been deadlocked for a year over the last remaining issue of an over-all prisoner exchange.

The Allied statement to the Reds on exchanging more disabled captives was given at an eight-minute liaison meeting here today.

Rear Adm. John C. Daniel told the Communists:

"We note with gratification the indication given by your side (yesterday) .. that all sick and injured captured personnel in your custody will be repatirated . . ."

The first group released today at Panmunjom for the most part broke out in broad smiles but had little to say.

Rushed To Village

Some were rushed to Freedom Village near Panmunjom by helicopter. Others were taken there in ambulances.

While the exchange was going on, artillery was booming and shells crumped into the ground just outside the neutral circle.

And 40 miles to the south, a huge Globemaster transport took off for Tokyo from an airport near Seoul with 12 American and six Colombian repatriates who had been released yesterday. Nine were litter cases.

Allied liaison officers met with Red officers here today, presumably to seek more information on the "bonus" repatriates. They adjourned after eight minutes at Allied requests.

While it appeared that the original agreement to exchange 605 Allied disabled for 5,800 Red sick and injured would be increased by the Communists, there was no immediate indication of exactly how many.

The Communists in a surprise move Thursday announced the increase and said it would include sick and wounded captured only recently. Actually, as they spoke they already had begun to return the newly captured.

The 14 U. S. Marines, naval medical corpsmen and soldiers of the U. S. 2nd and 7th Divisions who came back Thursday were captured only last month in bitter fighting on the Western Front. So were six Colombians. Five returned Australians were captured in January.

May Increase Total

Some observers believed the Allies had intended to call on the Communists to increase the exchange totals but after hearing the Communist statement had decided to await developments.

In Tokyo, United Nations Command headquarters issued a statement saying: "Gen. Clark is gratified that the Communists, in response to repeated requests from the United Nations Command, have agreed to return not only additional sick and wounded captured United Nations Command personnel in this category."

The emphasis seemed to be on the word "all." Despite repeated Communist assurances there were fears on the Allied side that the Reds were holding back many sick and wounded.

Jury To Probe Blackjack Case

SNOW HILL, Md., April 23 (AP)—The grand jury was called back into special session here today to look into a disabled war veteran's complaint that he was blackjacked by the Pocomoke City police chief.

Addressing the Worcester County jury, Judge E. MacMaster Duer said the recall was necessary "because a matter has arisen which affects the integrity of certain of the law enforcement officials of this county."

The complaint against Police Chief Arthur Brittingham came from John O. Blades of Snow Hill. The 28-year-old veteran of World War II accused Brittingham of blackjacking him April 4 during an argument over a traffic charge.

Blades, now a press operator at a stationery manufacturing firm, was wounded by machine gun fire overseas. He lost four inches of bone in his upper right leg and draws 90 per cent disability compensation.

The altercation leading to the charge against Brittingham also was followed by placement of several charges against Blades. He was accused of drunken driving, resisting arrest and disorderly conduct.

Brittingham said after the incident he struck Blades with a blackjack only because the veteran had grabbed him by the ear and refused to release his hold.

Pickpocket 'Champion' Displays His Skill In Police Headquarters

BALTIMORE, April 23 (AP) — Roevaughn Woolridge, by his own modest admission the "greatest pickpocket in the East,' displayed his skill in police headquarters recently.

He relieved the elevator operator's pocket of a billfold and replaced it during the short ride up to detective headquarters.

Arrested in a bus station after police saw him loitering and heard of his boasting about his deft touch, Woolridge was charged with being a common thief and pickpocket.

The young Negro was given 48 hours to leave town and warned by Judge James K. Cullen in Criminal court that he would be jailed for one year if he returned within 12 months.

Through his attorney, Joseph Rosenthal, Woolridge announced he was leaving for a swanky Canadian resort, then gave some advice to guards at the jail:

"If you got a big roll in your pocket, mix some peanut shells in with the dough."

Accuses Enemy

PVT. JOSEPH PICERNO, exchanged POW, told newsmen at Freedom Village, Korea, that more seriously wounded and sick prisoners were not being released by the Reds. Such reports from repatriated Americans stirred Washington demands for a Congressional investigation before resumption of armistice talks with the Reds.

New Elections Asked

WASHINGTON, April 23 (AP)—The National Labor Relations Board ordered new representation elections by May 21 at the Caroline Poultry Farms, Inc., of Federalsburg and Denton, Md.

The board said the two unions—the AFL Teamsters and the AFL Meat cutters—had used threatening tactics against employes in campaigning prior to an earlier election last Jan. 5.

Runaway Bulldozer Halted By Two Women Unassisted

FREDERICK, Md., April 23 (AP)—To Mrs. Bernice Trout and her cousin, Mrs. Catherine Hahn, something seemed lacking about the big bulldozer heading across the Trout farm toward historic Mt. Olivet Cemetery.

The operator's seat was empty.

Behind the lumbering monster lay a trail of broken fences and crushed vegetation stretching a quarter of a mile. All the way to road construction project.

Ahead lay the cemetery, with the graves and monuments of such bright names in American history as Francis Scott Key and Barbara Fritchie.

"We knew it would ruin things over in the cemetery," said Mrs. Trout later. "There wasn't anything to do but to try to stop it."

So she and Mrs. Hahn, both about 38 and strange to the ways of bulldozers, clambered aboard the runaway and began tugging at the gadgets.

"I never saw so many levers in my life," said Mrs. Trout primly.

Less than 200 yards from the cemetery, the huge machine coughed, sputtered—and jerked to a halt.

Within a few moments a red-faced construction superintendent appeared on the farm.

"I see you stopped it," he said.

Then he made arrangements to get the bulldozer back to work, and left, without giving Mrs. Trout and Mrs. Hahn his name or an explanation.

Burglar Arrested Mannequin Moved

BALTIMORE, April 23 (AP) — Patrolman Ernest O'Connor absent-mindedly waved his night stick in the direction of a dresser's mannequin in the window of an Army surplus store.

The mannequin flinched.

The officer's conclusion that here was no mannequin was confirmed in Southwestern Police Court when Philip E. Shepperson, 28, entered a plea of guilty to a charge of burglary.

Street Named For First Lady

BOONE, Ia., April 23 (AP)—This Central Iowa city where the wife of President Eisenhower was born has named one of its chief streets "Mamie Eisenhower Avenue."

After voting unanimously last night to give Fourth Street the new name, the City Council immediately began discussion of plans to make it "one of the state's nicest two miles."

The street renamed in honor of the first lady is the route of transcontinental highway U. S. 30 through Boone.

"We plan to modernize the avenue," said Mayor William Johnstone. "We hope to have trees removed, curbs set back and the most modern of street lighting fixtures."

No plans for formal dedication have been made but it is known Mrs. Eisenhower has given tacit acquiescence to the move to honor her.

Five Youngsters' Bodies Are Found

MILWAUKEE, April 23 (AP)—The bodies of all of the five youngsters who drowned yesterday in Mud Lake on the outskirts of Milwaukee had been recovered today.

Found last night in the lake were the bodies of Bernice Groves, 11; Ronald Kilpack, 14, and Charlotte Pringle, 11.

Coast Guardsmen and sheriff's deputies today recovered the bodies of Rita Pringle, 9, Charlotte's sister, and Sharon Baker, 10.

Delmar Groves, 14, brother of Bernice, told authorities the Kilpack boy drowned while trying to save the four girls who had tumbled from a rickety raft.

Nixon Urges Soviet Peace

NEW YORK, April 23 (INS)—Vice-President Nixon fired another salvo in the Eisenhower freedom offensive tonight by calling on Russia to "quit blockading the road that leads to peace."

Underscoring President Eisenhower's peace appeal of a week ago, Nixon laid down six "deeds" by which he said the Soviets could demonstrate their desire for peace.

Unless there is some such demonstration, Nixon declared that the "defenses of the United States and of the free world will under no circumstances be relaxed."

Addressing the Bureau of Advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, Nixon outlined the "deeds" as follows:

1. Settlement of the Austrian treaty question, 2. Cooperation in a "real disarmament program," 3. withdrawal of support for Red forces in Indo-China, 4. release of World War II prisoners and political prisoners since jailed, including newsman William Oatis, 5. settlement of the Korean issue and 6. free elections and self-determination for the Soviet-dominated peoples of Central and Eastern Europe.

Refuses To Go Back

NEW YORK, April 23—(NS)—CBS radio correspondent George Herman reported tonight in a broadcast from Munsan that one North Korean scheduled for exchange today changed his mind at the last minute.

Herman said only 499 communists will be turned over in the fifth day of exchange as a result.

Jury To Probe Blackjack Case

SNOW HILL, Md., April 23 (AP)—The grand jury was called back into special session here today to look into a disabled war veteran's complaint that he was blackjacked by the Pocomoke City police chief.

Addressing the Worcester County jury, Judge E. MacMaster Duer said the recall was necessary "because a matter has arisen which affects the integrity of certain of the law enforcement officials of this county."

The complaint against Police Chief Arthur Brittingham came from John O. Blades of Snow Hill. The 28-year-old veteran of World War II accused Brittingham of blackjacking him April 4 during an argument over a traffic charge.

Blades, now a press operator at a stationery manufacturing firm, was wounded by machine gun fire overseas. He lost four inches of bone in his upper right leg and draws 90 per cent disability compensation.

The altercation leading to the charge against Brittingham also was followed by placement of several charges against Blades. He was accused of drunken driving, resisting arrest and disorderly conduct.

Brittingham said after the incident he struck Blades with a blackjack only because the veteran had grabbed him by the ear and refused to release his hold.

The young son of Mr. and Mrs. Blaine was baptized Sunday in Salem Evangelical and Reformed Church by Rev. George L. Wehler, pastor. The child was named James Vincent Blaine, Jr.

Following the baptismal ceremony, Mrs. Everline entertained with a family dinner at her home. The visitors returned to Tacoma Park, Monday.

Promotions Ordered

WASHINGTON, April 23 (INS)—The Defense Department ordered the army, navy and air force today to consider for immediate promotion the 11,521 Americans who are officially listed as missing in Korea.

Henna leaves, used in ancient Egypt and Asia to color the hair and skin, are said to be the oldest cosmetic in history.

There are some 33 million automobiles in America running on three million miles of paved roads.

Pickpocket 'Champion' Displays His Skill In Police Headquarters

Accuses Enemy

PVT. JOSEPH PICERNO, exchanged POW, told newsmen at Freedom Village, Korea, that more seriously wounded and sick prisoners were not being released by the Reds. Such reports from repatriated Americans stirred Washington demands for a Congressional investigation before resumption of armistice talks with the Reds.

BALTIMORE, April 23 (AP)—Roevaughn Woolridge, by his own modest admission the "greatest pickpocket in the East," displayed his skill in police headquarters recently.

He relieved the elevator operator's pocket of a billfold and replaced it during the short ride up to detective headquarters.

Arrested in a bus station after police saw him loitering and heard of his boasting about his deft touch, Woolridge was charged with being a common thief and pickpocket.

The young Negro was given 48 hours to leave town and warned by Judge James K. Cullen in Criminal court that he would be jailed for one year if he returned within 12 months.

Through his attorney, Joseph Rosenthal, Woolridge announced he was leaving for a swanky Canadian resort, then gave some advice to guards at the jail:

"If you got a big roll in your pocket, mix some peanut shells in with the dough."

The shells, he explained, make it impossible for pickpockets—even the best—to ply their trade silently.

WASHINGTON, April 23 (AP)—The National Labor Relations Board ordered new representation elections by May 21 at the Caroline Poultry Farms, Inc., of Federalsburg and Denton, Md.

Runaway Bulldozer Halted By Two Women Unassisted

FREDERICK, Md., April 23 (AP)—To Mrs. Bernice Trout and her cousin, Mrs. Catherine Hahn, something seemed lacking about the big bulldozer heading across the Trout farm toward historic Mt. Olivet Cemetery.

The operator's seat was empty.

Behind the lumbering monster lay a trail of broken fences and crushed vegetation stretching a quarter of a mile. All the way to road construction project.

Ahead lay the cemetery, with the graves and monuments of such bright names in American history as Francis Scott Key and Barbara Fritchie.

"We knew it would ruin things over in the cemetery," said Mrs. Trout later. "There wasn't anything to do but to try to stop it."

So she and Mrs. Hahn, both about 38 and strange to the ways of bulldozers, clambered aboard the runaway and began tugging at the gadgets.

"I never saw so many levers in my life," said Mrs. Trout primly.

Less than 200 yards from the cemetery, the huge machine coughed, sputtered—and jerked to a halt.

Within a few moments a red-faced construction superintendent appeared on the farm.

"I see you stopped it," he said.

Then he made arrangements to get the bulldozer back to work, and left, without giving Mrs. Trout and Mrs. Hahn his name or an explanation.

Burglar Arrested Mannequin Moved

BALTIMORE, April 23 (AP)—Patrolman Ernest O'Connor absent-mindedly waved his night stick in the direction of a dresser's mannequin in the window of an Army surplus store.

The mannequin flinched.

The officer's conclusion that there was no mannequin was confirmed in Southwestern Police Court when Philip E. Shepperson, 28, entered a plea of guilty to a charge of burglary.

Street Named For First Lady

BOONE, Ia., April 23 (AP)—This Central Iowa city where the wife of President Eisenhower was born has named one of its chief streets "Mamie Eisenhower Avenue."

After voting unanimously last night to give Fourth Street the new name, the City Council immediately began discussion of plans to make it "one of the state's nicest two miles."

The street renamed in honor of the first lady is the route of transcontinental highway U. S. 30 through Boone.

"We plan to modernize the avenue," said Mayor William Johnstone. "We hope to have trees removed, curbs set back and the most modern of street lighting fixtures."

No plans for formal dedication have been made but it is known Mrs. Eisenhower has given tacit acquiescence to the move to honor her.

Five Youngsters' Bodies Are Found

MILWAUKEE, April 23 (AP)—The bodies of all of the five youngsters who drowned yesterday in Mud Lake on the outskirts of Milwaukee had been recovered today.

Found last night in the lake were the bodies of Bernice Groves, 11; Ronald Kilpack, 14, and Charlotte Pringle, 11.

Coast Guardsmen and sheriff's deputies today recovered the bodies of Rita Pringle, 9, Charlotte's sister, and Sharon Baker, 10.

Delmar Groves, 14, brother of Bernice, told authorities the Kilpack boy drowned while trying to save the four girls who had tumbled from a rickety raft.

Nixon Urges Soviet Peace

NEW YORK, April 23 (INS)—Vice-President Nixon fired another salvo in the Eisenhower freedom offensive tonight by calling on Russia to "quit blockading the road that leads to peace."

Underscoring President Eisenhower's peace appeal of a week ago, Nixon laid down six "deeds" by which he said the Soviets could demonstrate their desire for peace.

Unless there is some such demonstration, Nixon declared that the "defenses of the United States and of the free world will under no circumstances be relaxed."

Addressing the Bureau of Advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, Nixon outlined the "deeds" as follows:

1. Settlement of the Austrian treaty question. 2. Cooperation in a "real disarmament program." 3. withdrawal of support for Red forces in Indo-China. 4. release of World War II prisoners and political prisoners since jailed, including newsman William Oatis. 5. settlement of the Korean issue and 6. free elections and self-determination for the Soviet-dominated peoples of Central and Eastern Europe.

Refuses To Go Back

NEW YORK, April 23—(INS)—CBS radio correspondent George Herman reported tonight in a broadcast from Munsan that one North Korean scheduled for exchange today changed his mind at the last minute.

Herman said only 499 communists will be turned over in the fifth day of exchange as a result.

Truck Wrecked Home But Couple Denied Damages

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 23 (AP)—The Court of Appeals notes with sympathy the misfortune which befell a Baltimore couple whose home was wrecked by a tractor-trailer, but it has ruled Mr. and Mrs. Louis Nezbed were not entitled to $21,000 awarded them by a lower court.

A 19,000-pound truck owned by Hickory Transfer Co., Inc. of Hickory, N. C., collided with an automobile at the intersection of Milton Ave. and Orleans St. on March 17, 1951, and then crashed into a building occupied by the Nezbeds.

The impact jarred the couple from their beds and tore a hole in the wall. The gas tank on the truck started to burn and set fire to the building.

Both husband and wife were injured, the house and the household effects heavily damaged and the plumbing supply store which Nezbed operated on the first floor was demolished.

A Baltimore Superior Court jury found the truck driver, Lloyd Dewitt Shank, guilty of negligence and awarded damages which the transfer company appealed.

Counsel for the trucking firm said the accident occurred because of a defective traffic light which failed to show the red signal for traffic eastbound on Orleans St.

The signal was dark, they said, so Shank went through the intersection thinking he was entitled to the right of way because Orleans Street is a boulevard. The car traveling on Milton Avenue entered the intersection on a green light.

"It seems to us," Chief Judge Simon E. Sobeloff said in the court's opinion, "plain enough that the collision at the intersection occurred because Shank innocently thought himself entitled to the right of way. . . ."

"We perceive no evidence of negligence on his part to which the collision between the two vehicles may fairly be attributed."

"No one can study this case without a feeling of sympathy for the appellees whose misfortune resulted from no fault of theirs," Sobeloff concluded, "but we are not free on this record to permit an award against the appellants, whose negligence is likewise not shown."

The court also reversed a judgment of Washington County Circuit Court which sentenced Daniel Linkins to not more than 18 months in the Reformatory for assault with intent to rob, larceny and assault and awarded Linkins a new trial.

Covered Wagon, 1953

Traveling is so easy and fast today it is a monotonous undertaking in comparison with the hazards and delays the pioneers faced. Today people cross the continent in luxury in a few hours by air or a few days by train, with little to fear from hostile Indians, outlaws or wild animals. But the pioneer spirit is not altogether dead in this hemisphere.

Twenty-one months ago, in July 1951, three residents of Paraguay left Ascuncion. Two weeks ago four of them arrived in New York. The married pair of the trio had produced a son, Henry Ford Echauri, born March 4, 1952, in Cali, Colombia.

The trip was made in a sort of covered wagon. The Paraguayans built a body of canvas, wood and tin on to a 1927 Ford, which added 16,875 miles en route to its already impressive mileage record. The travelers didn't complain of mechanical troubles, either—perhaps because the bachelor member of the party is a mechanic—but they did mention one inconvenience that never bothered the pioneers: They had 31 flat tires.

It was quite a trip. In the Andes en route to Chile, 15,000 feet above sea level, the road disappeared and the Ford had to follow old cart tracks through the wilderness far above timber line. They found it very cold at night, sleeping in the car bundled in blankets.

In Ecuador's tropic jungles their gallant Ford balked at steep hills on soft roads. Three times they had to unload everything, carry it over the rise on their backs, and then push the car up. Then they were told they were on the wrong road and went back—only to learn they had been right and would now have to repeat the performance. In Colombia, they were robbed of everything but their car. They stopped, worked and saved money before going on.

Passing through South and Central America they encountered new hazards in United States traffic. In Atlanta their Ford was badly smashed. Put back together again it chugged on to New York. But they had had quite a trip by then.

Debt To Approach Limit

The present statutory limit on the public debt is $275 billion. As of April 15 the gross debt was around $264 billion. The Truman budget submitted last January 9 put it at $264 billion on June 30, 1953, at $274 billion on June 30, 1954.

The Eisenhower administration is confident that its economies will keep the debt well under that $274 billion estimate by the time June 30, 1954, rolls around. However, the debt could very well approach that level at some point early in the fiscal year 1954. That would be because:

(1) Less of the corporation tax is paid during the first half than during the second half of a fiscal year; (2) The first half gets the only one of the quarterly personal income-tax payments, with three coming in the second half (in January, March, June); (3) Expenditures cuts won't really begin to bear fruit until later in the coming fiscal year. Also, Congress may reduce taxes sooner than the administration wants.

The highest point ever reached by the debt was $279 billion, in February, 1946, when the population was 13 per cent smaller than it is today. The debt was then around $2,000 per capita, is something like $1700 per capita today.

The statutory debt limit was only $25 billion during the depression of 1929-33. With deficit spending, the limit had risen to $65 billion at the time of the attack on Pearl Harbor in 1941. It was raised to $125 billion in 1942, to $210 billion in 1943, to $260 billion in 1944, to $300 billion in 1945. Congress lowered the limit to the present $275 billion in 1946.

Chairmanship And Seniority

Representative Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr. (D., N.Y.) is unlikely to get it reported out of committee, much less to get a vote on it in the House. "It" is his resolution to have Representative Harold H. Velde (R., Ill.) replaced as chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

For one thing, the furor has died down somewhat over Velde's suggestion, offered offhand over the radio, to have the clergy looked into by his committee. Secondly, many or most members of the House would be afraid that if they voted against Velde, their votes would be misinterpreted by voters back home as favoring the subversive groups and individuals being investigated under Velde's direction.

More important, Velde got his chairmanship by seniority—that is, by being the Republican of longest tenure on the Un-American Activities Committee—and most members of Congress, whether Republicans or Democrats, support the seniority system. They say it keeps a chairmanship from going to a fledgling and unpredictable member without much experience in the field covered by the committee.

They hold that to abandon seniority would be to disrupt Congress, also the party in power, by the log-rolling, favoritism, and animosities that would result from wide-open competition for chairmanships. And they argue that if a chairman proves incompetent and irresponsible, the whole committee can guide, direct and supervise him.

Plugging Education

For 22 consecutive Sunday afternoons beginning early in October, television audiences are expected to be shown in half-hour programs how higher education has advanced individual and national welfare. Already 22 universities have agreed to aid in dramatizing phases of how research and training have contributed to general well-being.

On the campus of each of these universities a special film will be made, at a cost of $20,000. Though some of the subjects will be highly technical and vocational this propaganda project will stress the importance of higher education.

Glut Of Beef

Chicago and other leading stockyards have been filled to overflowing with the biggest run of beef to market since the days of drouth of the early thirties. Prices are 40 per cent lower than two years ago.

The present beef situation is the direct result of high prices for steers in recent years. Stockmen built up their herds because of the favorable market and others went into the beef raising business because it looked promising. Current prospects are not quite so rosy, but consumers have registered no complaint.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Useful First Aid

All of us should know something about first aid. Accidents occur suddenly and, while awaiting the physician, a few simple maneuvers may prevent disability and occasionally save a life. This concerns such mishaps as take place in the home, on the street, and in the office or factory.

Accidents vary from simple scratches to concussions and fractures. Those with no medical training will profit from the adage, "The less done, the better." Hemorrhage is the exception. But anyone who has been knocked down by a car, is unconscious, or who may have sustained a fracture is better left alone until competent help arrives. Such individuals should be made comfortable and kept warm. There are times when common sense enters the picture. If Tommy comes home with a black eye there is more to be done than telling him to duck the next time he gets into a fight. Have him lie down and apply cold towels or an ice bag to stop bleeding beneath the skin. The same applies to bruises elsewhere on the body.

The first aid treatment of burns follows a hands-off policy except for the first degree burn which is best treated with soap and water and covered with a clean bandage. The application of petroleum jelly offers relief. Second and third degree burns leave scars, more so when they become infected. Unless this is appreciated the first aider does more harm than good by smearing with salves that often are dirty. The experts have learned to treat such lesions with meticulous care. The burned area is cleansed thoroly and then covered with a sterile layer of petroleum jelly around which a tight pressure bandage is bound.

Bleeding is not difficult to control when pressure can be applied over the bleeding spot. A simple way is to make a thick wad of cloth and forced it against the open cut. When bound in place it usually holds long enough to seal the oozing surface. Knowing the various pressure points may be useful but is not as practicable as the pictures in first aid books lead us to believe. Tourniquets are tricky to use and unless the person knows how, an increase rather than a decrease in hemorrhage may ensue.

It is easier to prevent accidents than to treat the consequences. Prudence begins with awareness of the usual hazards and eliminating them promptly. Such little things as a wobbly stepladder, a bare electric wire, an unprotected knife, a scatter rug on a highly polished floor, and objects left on stairways are potentially dangerous. A more than average blow or twist may lead to sprain or fracture. When there is a question of a broken bone it is not advisable to move the part. While waiting for a physician, or whenever it is necessary to transport the victim, a simple splint may be made of wood or even a folded newspaper. These hints will help ease distress and prevent additional damage.

The first aider also can come to the rescue in case of poisoning. First try to discover the nature of the poison because, when it is known, a specific antidote usually can be found. Hence look for an open bottle or box that might have been used. If the kind of poison cannot be detected, dilute the toxic material by having the victim drink a glass of water containing soap or salt or induce vomiting by tickling the back of the throat. A glass of milk or the whites of two or three eggs act as good universal antidotes.

Tomorrow: Leg cramps and the calcium-phosphorus level of the body.

STUPEFIED

B. C. writes: Is an alcoholic sleep as good as natural sleep?

REPLY

Yes and at times sleep is so deep the individual cannot waken even in an emergency. Intoxicated men and women have fallen asleep with a lighted cigaret in the hand and have burned to death because they could not arouse sufficiently to escape. Blame the alcohol rather than the stupor for the hangover that follows.

GIVE UP READING?

H. B. writes: Should a person with hardening of the eye arteries spare his eyes by not reading, which he enjoys so much?

REPLY

Eye strain affects muscles rather than the circulation. Arteriosclerosis may be detected in the eyes two or more decades before manifestations develop. In this respect there is no need to give up reading.

LESION ON HARD PALATE

M. D. writes: Does a cyst on the roof of the mouth mean anything?

REPLY

This depends upon the nature of the growth. Many individuals have a normal enlargement near the back of the hard palate. We hope you are not confusing the two.

DIPHTHERIA SUSCEPTIBILITY

P. Z. writes: Must an adult with a positive reaction to the Schick test be given diphtheria antitoxin?

REPLY

A positive Schick means that the individual is susceptible; to be on the safe side, antitoxin should be given.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Soviet Spy Ring Operated From Maryland Basement; Spy Rings Still Operate From Safety Of Satellite Embassies; Hungary Collects Dollars In U. S.

WASHINGTON — The other day the Senate Internal Security Committee questioned Gregory Silvermaster, former Treasury official, regarding allegations that he had filmed secret documents for Russia in the basement of his Silver Spring home during the war.

The date of this Senate cross-examination was April 16, 1953.

On Sept. 7, 1947, however, almost seven years before, this columnist revealed the first inside story about the Silver Spring Soviet spy ring and gave considerably more facts than the senators did last week. The column read:

"Here is how the Soviet spy ring operated almost under the nose of the White House. One Treasury official, formerly with the Agriculture Department, had a photo laboratory in Silver Spring, Md., on the outskirts of Washington. He worked in the Treasury's Procurement Division, which deals with the purchase of supplies. Two War Department officials—one a major in the Air Corps—who were attached to the Treasury to advise on the purchase of aviation materiel, took blueprints and confidential Army plans out of the Treasury and War Departments to a friend's laboratory, where they were photographed.

"Then the photographs were turned over to a Soviet agent who carried them to New York and gave them to the head of Russia's top secret police, the NKVD. This took place while the war was in progress.

"Although the officials involved held minor positions, two of them handled important aviation secrets and one was an expert in pushing B-29 production.

"Army officers, when questioned, admitted privately that they had known for some time that the Russians had been able to build B-29s. In fact, U. S. intelligence reports indicate that several B-29s were finished by the Russians some time ago."

Satellite Diplomatic Spies

The above column was published as a result of independent, personal journalistic investigation without the protection of senatorial privilege. It incurred the usual risk of libel, inherent in any difficult piece of journalistic digging. It would seem therefore that the Senate Internal Security Committee, with all its power to subpoena witnesses and its protection from libel suits, could find something more up-to-date to investigate than facts published seven years ago.

For instance, the committee could well investigate how the Kremlin is using satellite legations and embassies for propaganda and espionage work among foreign-born Americans.

Most of this is done through certain Communist legations right here in the nation's capital and under the nose of the Senate Internal Security Committee—among them the Hungarian, Czech, Rumanian and others.

The Senate committee did some excellent work regarding this three or four years ago, but latest development is the manner in which the Hungarian Communist legation in Washington collects money from Hungarian-Americans to help poorly fed relatives in Hungary, then uses the money for propaganda and espionage work in the United States.

The system works through the United States Relief Parcel Service, which, judging from its high-sounding name, appears to be run by the U. S. Government. Actually, however, it's operated under the supervision of the Hungarian Communist government in the following manner:

You deposit $10.50 or almost any other amount with USRPS in the United States, and the Hungarian government in turn delivers the food to your friend or relative in Hungary. The goods are obtained from Hungarian government-owned co-operatives. But the money you deposit remains in the U.S.A. to finance Communist expenses here. In addition, the Hungarian government makes a profit on the transaction in Hungary.

Thus $10.50 will buy a food package bearing the code name "Pleasure," which includes only 1.1 lb. cocoa, 4.4 lb. sugar, 2 tins of sardines, and 2.2 lb. of cookies. Yet this meager package costs $10.50. No wonder Hungary makes money.

Or you can send your friend in Hungary a "Blue Wonder" bicycle for $30, men's half shoes for $16; men's hand-stitched half shoes for $30; a five-tube shortwave radio for $80; or a "Contax" camera for $360.

Unfortunately the level of income is so low among many persecuted Hungarians that they could hardly stay alive without these gift packages from friends in the United States.

On the other hand, it remains a fact that the Hungarian government uses this as a lush source of income to finance its operations in this country.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

An Author's Philosophy.

It used to be that when an author wrote a book, expressing ideas, he fought for what he believed. Often he traveled about as a lecturer. For instance, Henry George once wrote a book, "Progress and Poverty," advocating the novel idea, single tax. George devoted his life to the idea, starting a public movement which continues to have a following to this day.

Currently, some authors take refuge under the Fifth Amendment as though it would incriminate them to advocate what they wrote because they believed it to be true.

Lawrence K. Rosinger is the author of six books on Far Eastern affairs which are being used in the State Department's Information Service. Rosinger, on the witness stand before a congressional committee, took refuge under the Fifth Amendment every time he was asked any question in any way relating him to the Communist party. He said to reply otherwise would incriminate him. He declined to answer whether he knew Alger Hiss or Frederick Vanderbilt Field on the grounds of self-incrimination. All three persons were associated with the Institute of Pacific Relations, as earlier testimony before the McCarran Committee brought out.

Senator Stuart Symington, a Democrat and a new member of the Senate, tried to help Rosinger by this query:

"Now, we have just had a witness who was a member of the Communist party, and he did not decline to answer anything. If you are a good American, with the premise that it is an international conspiracy against the United States, why do you not answer these questions? What you have done in the past is not as important as the future and the present. Why are you afraid of answering that you are a Communist or have been a Communist? Or why do you not state your position frankly, like Professor Budenz did? That is what I cannot understand in these hearings."

Rosinger remained unmoved. Senator McClellan made the point:

". . . But certainly I do not have time to waste on reading the literature of people who take the position that they cannot answer what their philosophy of government is without fear that it will incriminate them."

Then followed this colloquy:

"I asked you, I believe, if you believe in the overthrow of this government by force and violence?

"Rosinger: No, sir, I do not.

"Senator McClellan: Have you ever advocated it?

"Rosinger: I respectfully decline to answer, relying on the constitutional privilege under the Fifth Amendment.

"Senator McClellan: You refuse to answer that. Have you ever attended meetings, Communist meeting, where it was advocated?

"Rosinger: I decline to answer, relying on the constitutional privilege and the Fifth Amendment.

"Senator McClellan: Are you now a member of the Communist party?

"Rosinger: I decline to answer, relying on the constitutional privilege under the Fifth Amendment.

"Senator McClellan: Will you tell the committee when you withdrew membership, or when membership was withdrawn from you, in the Communist party?

"Rosinger: I decline to answer, relying on the Constitutional privilege under the Fifth Amendment.

"Senator McClellan: Do you believe that the system of government and ideology of communism in Russia is superior to the American system of government and philosophy?

"Rosinger: I decline to answer, relying on the constitutional privilege under the Fifth Amendment.

"Senator McClellan: Is it because you are ashamed to answer that you refuse to answer?

"Rosinger: I decline to answer, relying on the constitutional privilege under the Fifth Amendment."

Such replies to such questions involve a philosophy of life. An author of books on China and the Far East must have a definite philosophy or he could not write at all. One is either for or against the Nationalists, for or against Chiang Kai-shek or Mao Tze-tung, for the United States or for Russian in the Korean War. The historian a century from now could perhaps be objective; the present-day author is too close to the scene and time for objectivity to be possible.

An honest man stands for his position. If he believes that he is right, he ought to be prepared to risk all for his principles of life. How can a man dare to influence others who lacks the courage to defend his beliefs?

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—This is the story of a smear of a United States senator which seems to have been overlooked by the "left wingers" who are constantly crying out that innocent persons are victimized by congressional committees. For here is a case which the organs of the "left wing" have not seen fit to handle fairly or to denounce or even to inquire into in order to get all the facts.

A few days ago the newspapers carried headlines saying Senator Bridges of New Hampshire, Republican, had been "linked" to an investigation of a federal judge. The statement was widely published that Mr. Bridges had recommended to Lowell Mayberry, a Boston lawyer, that Henry Grunewald be employed by John L. Lewis and the miners' union to investigate the late Judge Goldsborough. These same dispatches contained references to Mr. Bridges as a trustee of the United Mine Workers' pension fund and the inference was plain that the New Hampshire senator was an associate of Mr. Lewis and also a praticipant in the process by which a federal judge, who had pending before him a case involving the United Mine Workers, was investigated.

What are the facts?

Didn't Recommend Grunewald

First of all, Senator Bridges has stated flatly that he did not recommend Grunewald to the mine workers' attorney, Mr. Mayberry, and had no connection at all with the investigation of the judge.

Second, the New Hampshire senator was not appointed a trustee of the United Mine Workers' pension fund until 1948. The contempt case involving the miners' union and the inquiry into Judge Goldsborough's life had been disposed of two years before. Senator Bridges states that he had only a nodding acquaintance with Mr. Lewis in 1946 when the case was up before Judge Goldsborough.

It would have been easy enough to establish these facts if the "left wing" organs which pontificate so frequently about alleged injury to innocent persons had chosen to verify them. It so happens that Mr. Mayberry himself has testified under oath before the House Judiciary Investigating Committee corroborating the statement of Senator Bridges that the senator did not introduce Grunewald to John L. Lewis. Mayberry testified he knew Grunewald at least a year and a half before the mine workers case arose.

Grunewald was well known in labor circles as an investigator. Not only had he done work previously for some AFL unions, but the attorney for Mr. Lewis knew of his work.

Now it often happens that newspapers cannot reach persons on the same day they figure in controversies in the news. The critics who have arisen recently to charge newspapers with "one-sidedness" by pointing to omissions in particular issues of newspapers simply do not know or they ignore the pressures of time under which news is gathered, so that conceivably all sides of a controversy of this kind are not available in the same 24 hours. Newspapers, therefore, cannot be blamed for printing the fact that Grunewald had mentioned in his testimony that, according to his recollection—which has since been proved faulty—the New Hampshire senator had introduced him to the lawyer for the miners' union.

Once the news about the opposite testimony before the House committee came out, what steps were taken to put Senator Bridges in the right light before the country? Even if Senator Bridges had recommended Grunewald as an investigator, why was that phase emphasized and almost no criticism visited upon John L. Lewis for conducting the investigation of a judge before whom he and his union had a case pending at that time? For, certainly if it was wrong to recommend an investigator, it must have been even more of an impropriety for the head of a union to hire an investigator to carry on an inquiry about the life of a judge on the federal bench while the union had a case pending before that judge. One has yet to read in the "left wing" press a demand that this phase of the episode be comprehensively explained.

The federal judge is dead. The case is closed, and maybe the congressional committee now considers the whole thing irrelevant, but not so the "left wing" organs which are out to get every United States senator who has shown himself hostile to Communists in government. Mr. Bridges is chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee and an important man in the Republican party today. He has steadfastly fought communistic influences in government.

The "left wingers" also have exposed their hypocrisy in making innuendoes about alleged irregularities in Senator McCarthy's income tax returns. They know full well that, if there had been anything on which he could have been prosecuted, the Truman administration would have filed a case against him in court long ago. This outcry about "injury" to innocent persons all depends evidently on whose ox is gored.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH AND STEWART ALSOP

The Trouble-Makers

WASHINGTON

Rule One for any administration is that national policy cannot be successfully administered by men who do not believe in it. This is a rule which President Truman never learned, to his lasting misfortune. It begins to seem that the Eisenhower administration also has some lessons to learn in this regard.

The trouble in the Commerce Department began with the appointment of Craig R. Schaeffer, a pen manufacturer, as assistant secretary. Schaeffer's political views are suggested by the fact that he is an acknowledged admirer of the right wing rabble-rouser, Merwin K. Hart. To such a man, scientists of all sorts are automatically suspect, and Schaeffer instantly got Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks into a major row with the scientists of the Bureau of Standards. Weeks has had to eat humble pie.

By now, there are plenty of other men at the lower levels of the government who can cause the Eisenhower administration a heap of trouble. Former Sen. Harry Cain, for example, has been named to the Subversive Activities Control Board. President Eisenhower has made it abundantly clear that he does not favor Sen. Joseph McCarthy's methods of dealing with subversives. Yet Cain, besides being a violently eccentric man, consistently attempted to out-McCarthy McCarthy, when he was in the Senate.

The Eisenhower trade policy calls for freer world trade, and the President has sent a strong message to Congress asking for the extension of the reciprocal trade program without essential change. At the same time, he named former Rep. Joseph Talbott to the Tariff Commission. Talbott is an amiable man, well-liked, in his native Connecticut. But he is also an arch-protectionist, who voted against the reciprocal trade program when he was in the House. He even apparently believes that the President should be stripped of his power to review tariff commission recommendations.

During the campaign, Eisenhower repeatedly called for bringing more people under the Social Security program. Another former representative, Parke M. Banta, of Missouri, has been given the job of counsel in the new Health, Education and Welfare Department, headed by the able Oveta Culp Hobby. Banta's views of Social Security are suggested by the fact that, in the 80th Congress, he voted to take 750,000 people off the Social Security rolls. There is no indication that he has changed these views.

Like Sen. Robert A. Taft, Eisenhower unquestionably favors a moderate public housing policy. Yet still another lame duck, former Rep. Albert Cole of Kansas, has been made head of the Housing Administration. In Congress, Cole was wont to complain that the idea for public housing "came from the Kremlin."

President Theodore Roosevelt is one of Eisenhower's political heroes, and he accurately pointed out during the campaign that Roosevelt and the Republican party were responsible for initiating national conservation and land use policies. Yet the newly appointed assistant secretary of the Iterior, Orme Lewis, has testified that the public lands, comprising almost a quarter of the national land area and constituting an invaluble national heritage, should ultimately be turned over to "private citizens." This is hardly what Theodore Roosevelt had in mind, and it seems extremely unlikely that it is what Dwight Eisenhower has in mind. Another assistant secretary of the Interior, Felix Wormser, formerly head of Lead and Zinc Trade Association, has warmly endorsed provisions in a House Ways and Means Committee bill, for heavily increased tariffs on lead and zinc. In fact, he has implied that he had a hand in preparing these provisions. The administration is now trying desperately to get them knocked out of the bill, which would wreck the reciprocal trade program.

And so on. Some of these men, it should be said, are no doubt able men. But that is not the point. The point is that they simply do not believe in many of the policies President Eisenhower stands for. Holding second-level but often powerful jobs, they could cause very bad trouble later on.

What has happened is understandable enough. For one thing, a party traditionally takes care of its lame ducks, without inquiring too closely into the lame duck's views. For another, a President cannot possibly know all about hundreds of second-level appointees. Tariff Commissioner Talbott, for example, has said that he never met the President, and no one at the White House ever asked him his views on trade policy.

Moreover, an administration cannot lightly disregard the wishes of such powerful men as Senate Interior Committee Chairman Hugh Butler of Nebraska. Butler has already introduced a bill turning public lands back to the states, and he has successfully insisted on the appointment of men of like mind in the Interior Department.

Yet President Eisenhower is clearly going to have to ride the executive branch on a very tight rein, if he is to give the country the kind of modern-minded, middle-of-the-road government for which he stands. The President may find good uses for the famous Eisenhower temper in the months to come.

Traveling is so easy and fast today it is a monotonous undertaking in comparison with the hazards and delays the pioneers faced. Today people cross the continent in luxury in a few hours by air or a few days by train, with little to fear from hostile Indians, outlaws or wild animals. But the pioneer spirit is not altogether dead in this hemisphere.

Twenty-one months ago, in July 1951, three residents of Paraguay left Ascuncion. Two weeks ago four of them arrived in New York. The married pair of the trio had produced a son, Henry Ford Echauri, born March 4, 1952, in Cali, Colombia.

The trip was made in a sort of covered wagon. The Paraguayans built a body of canvas, wood and tin on to a 1927 Ford, which added 16,875 miles en route to its already impressive mileage record. The travelers didn't complain of mechanical troubles, either—perhaps because the bachelor member of the party is a mechanic—but they did mention one inconvenience that never bothered the pioneers: They had 31 flat tires.

It was quite a trip. In the Andes en route to Chile, 15,000 feet above sea level, the road disappeared and the Ford had to follow old cart tracks through the wilderness far above timber line. They found it very cold at night, sleeping in the car bundled in blankets.

In Ecuador's tropic jungles their gallant Ford balked at steep hills on soft roads. Three times they had to unload everything, carry it over the rise on their backs, and then push the car up. Then they were told they were on the wrong road and went back—only to learn they had been right and would now have to repeat the performance. In Colombia, they were robbed of everything but their car. They stopped, worked and saved money before going on.

Passing through South and Central America they encountered new hazards in United States traffic. In Atlanta their Ford was badly smashed. Put back together again it chugged on to New York. But they had had quite a trip by then.

Debt To Approach Limit

The present statutory limit on the public debt is $275 billion. As of April 15 the gross debt was around $264 billion. The Truman budget submitted last January 9 put it at $264 billion on June 30, 1953, at $274 billion on June 30, 1954.

The Eisenhower administration is confident that its economies will keep the debt well under that $274 billion estimate by the time June 30, 1954, rolls around. However, the debt could very well approach that level at some point early in the fiscal year 1954. That would be because:

(1) Less of the corporation tax is paid during the first half than during the second half of a fiscal year; (2) The first half gets the only one of the quarterly personal income-tax payments, with three coming in the second half (in January, March, June); (3) Expenditures cuts won't really begin to bear fruit until later in the coming fiscal year. Also, Congress may reduce taxes sooner than the administration wants.

The highest point ever reached by the debt was $279 billion, in February, 1946, when the population was 13 per cent smaller than it is today. The debt was then around $2,000 per capita, is something like $1700 per capita today.

The statutory debt limit was only $25 billion during the depression of 1929-33. With deficit spending, the limit had risen to $65 billion at the time of the attack on Pearl Harbor in 1941. It was raised to $125 billion in 1942, to $210 billion in 1943, to $260 billion in 1944, to $300 billion in 1945. Congress lowered the limit to the present $275 billion in 1946.

Chairmanship And Seniority

Representative Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr. (D., N.Y.) is unlikely to get it reported out of committee, much less to get a vote on it in the House. "It" is his resolution to have Representative Harold H. Velde (R., Ill.) replaced as chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

For one thing, the furor has died down somewhat over Velde's suggestion, offered offhand over the radio, to have the clergy looked into by his committee. Secondly, many or most members of the House would be afraid that if they voted against Velde, their votes would be misinterpreted by voters back home as favoring the subversive groups and individuals being investigated under Velde's direction.

More important, Velde got his chairmanship by seniority—that is, by being the Republican of longest tenure on the Un-American Activities Committee—and most members of Congress, whether Republicans or Democrats, support the seniority system. They say it keeps a chairmanship from going to a fledgling and unpredictable member without much experience in the field covered by the committee.

They hold that to abandon seniority would be to disrupt Congress, also the party in power, by the log-rolling, favoritism, and animosities that would result from wide-open competition for chairmanships. And they argue that if a chairman proves incompetent and irresponsible, the whole committee can guide, direct and supervise him.

Plugging Education

For 22 consecutive Sunday afternoons beginning early in October, television audiences are expected to be shown in half-hour programs how higher education has advanced individual and national welfare. Already 22 universities have agreed to aid in dramatizing phases of how research and training have contributed to general well-being.

On the campus of each of these universities a special film will be made, at a cost of $20,000. Though some of the subjects will be highly technical and vocational this propaganda project will stress the importance of higher education.

Glut Of Beef

Chicago and other leading stockyards have been filled to overflowing with the biggest run of beef to market since the days of drouth of the early thirties. Prices are 40 per cent lower than two years ago.

The present beef situation is the direct result of high prices for steers in recent years. Stockmen built up their herds because of the favorable market and others went into the beef raising business because it looked promising. Current prospects are not quite so rosy, but consumers have registered no complaint.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Useful First Aid

All of us should know something about first aid. Accidents occur suddenly and, while awaiting the physician, a few simple maneuvers may prevent disability and occasionally save a life. This concerns such mishaps as take place in the home, on the street, and in the office or factory.

Accidents vary from simple scratches to concussions and fractures. Those with no medical training will profit from the adage, "The less done, the better." Hemorrhage is the exception. But anyone who has been knocked down by a car, is unconscious, or who may have sustained a fracture is better left alone until competent help arrives. Such individuals should be made comfortable and kept warm. There are times when common sense enters the picture. If Tommy comes home with a black eye there is more to be done than telling him to duck the next time he gets into a fight. Have him lie down and apply cold towels or an ice bag to stop bleeding beneath the skin. The same applies to bruises elsewhere on the body.

The first aid treatment of burns follows a hands-off policy except for the first degree burn which is best treated with soap and water and covered with a clean bandage. The application of petroleum jelly offers relief. Second and third degree burns leave scars, more so when they become infected. Unless this is appreciated the first aider does more harm than good by smearing with salves that often are dirty. The experts have learned to treat such lesions with meticulous care. The burned area is cleansed thoroly and then covered with a sterile layer of petroleum jelly around which a tight pressure bandage is bound.

Bleeding is not difficult to control when pressure can be applied over the bleeding spot. A simple way is to make a thick wad of cloth and forced it against the open cut. When bound in place it usually holds long enough to seal the oozing surface. Knowing the various pressure points may be useful but is not as practicable as the pictures in first aid books lead us to believe. Tourniquets are tricky to use and unless the person knows how, an increase rather than a decrease in hemorrhage may ensue.

It is easier to prevent accidents than to treat the consequences. Prudence begins with awareness of the usual hazards and eliminating them promptly. Such little things as a wobbly stepladder, a bare electric wire, an unprotected knife, a scatter rug on a highly polished floor, and objects left on stairways are potentially dangerous. A more than average blow or twist may lead to sprain or fracture. When there is a question of a broken bone it is not advisable to move the part. While waiting for a physician, or whenever it is necessary to transport the victim, a simple splint may be made of wood or even a folded newspaper. These hints will help ease distress and prevent additional damage.

The first aider also can come to the rescue in case of poisoning. First try to discover the nature of the poison because, when it is known, a specific antidote usually can be found. Hence look for an open bottle or box that might have been used. If the kind of poison cannot be detected, dilute the toxic material by having the victim drink a glass of water containing soap or salt or induce vomiting by tickling the back of the throat. A glass of milk or the whites of two or three eggs act as good universal antidotes.

Tomorrow: Leg cramps and the calcium-phosphorus level of the body.

Yes and at times sleep is so deep the individual cannot waken even in an emergency. Blame the alcohol rather than the stupor for the hangover that follows.

GIVE UP READING?

H. B. writes: Should a person with hardening of the eye arteries spare his eyes by not reading, which he enjoys so much?

REPLY

Eye strain affects muscles rather than the circulation. Arteriosclerosis may be detected in the eyes two or more decades before manifestations develop. In this respect there is no need to give up reading.

LESION ON HARD PALATE

M. D. writes: Does a cyst on the roof of the mouth mean anything?

REPLY

This depends upon the nature of the growth. Many individuals have a normal enlargement near the back of the hard palate. We hope you are not confusing the two.

DIPHTHERIA SUSCEPTIBILITY

P. Z. writes: Must an adult with a positive reaction to the Schick test be given diphtheria antitoxin?

REPLY

A positive Schick means that the individual is susceptible; to be on the safe side, antitoxin should be given.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Soviet Spy Ring Operated From Maryland Basement; Spy Rings Still Operate From Safety Of Satellite Embassies; Hungary Collects Dollars In U. S.

WASHINGTON — The other day the Senate Internal Security Committee questioned Gregory Silvermaster, former Treasury official, regarding allegations that he had filmed secret documents for Russia in the basement of his Silver Spring home during the war.

The date of this Senate cross-examination was April 16, 1953.

On Sept. 7, 1947, however, almost seven years before, this columnist revealed the first inside story about the Silver Spring Soviet spy ring and gave considerably more facts than the senators did last week. The column read:

"Here is how the Soviet spy ring operated almost under the nose of the White House. One Treasury official, formerly with the Agriculture Department, had a photo laboratory in Silver Spring, Md., on the outskirts of Washington. He worked in the Treasury's Procurement Division, which deals with the purchase of supplies. Two War Department officials—one a major in the Air Corps—who were attached to the Treasury to advise on the purchase of aviation materiel, took blueprints and confidential Army plans out of the Treasury and War Departments to a friend's laboratory, where they were photographed.

"Then the photographs were turned over to a Soviet agent who carried them to New York and gave them to the head of Russia's top secret police, the NKVD. This took place while the war was in progress.

"Although the officials involved held minor positions, two of them handled important aviation secrets and one was an expert in pushing B-29 production.

"Army officers, when questioned, admitted privately that they had known for some time that the Russians had been able to build B-29s. In fact, U. S. intelligence reports indicate that several B-29s were finished by the Russians some time ago."

Satellite Diplomatic Spies

The above column was published as a result of independent, personal journalistic investigation without the protection of senatorial privilege. It incurred the usual risk of libel, inherent in any difficult piece of journalistic digging. It would seem therefore that the Senate Internal Security Committee, with all its power to subpoena witnesses and its protection from libel suits, could find something more up-to-date to investigate than facts published seven years ago.

For instance, the committee could well investigate how the Kremlin is using satellite legations and embassies for propaganda and espionage work among foreign-born Americans.

Most of this is done through certain Communist legations right here in the nation's capital and under the nose of the Senate Internal Security Committee—among them the Hungarian, Czech, Rumanian and others.

The Senate committee did some excellent work regarding this three or four years ago, but latest development is the manner in which the Hungarian Communist legation in Washington collects money from Hungarian-Americans to help poorly fed relatives in Hungary, then uses the money for propaganda and espionage work in the United States.

The system works through the United States Relief Parcel Service, which, judging from its high-sounding name, appears to be run by the U. S. Government. Actually, however, it's operated under the supervision of the Hungarian Communist government in the following manner:

You deposit $10.50 or almost any other amount with USRPS in the United States, and the Hungarian government in turn delivers the food to your friend or relative in Hungary. The goods are obtained from Hungarian government-owned co-operatives. But the money you deposit remains in the U.S.A. to finance Communist expenses here. In addition, the Hungarian government makes a profit on the transaction in Hungary.

Thus $10.50 will buy a food package bearing the code name "Pleasure," which includes only 1.1 lb. cocoa, 4.4 lb. sugar, 2 tins of sardines, and 2.2 lb. of cookies. Yet this meager package costs $10.50. No wonder Hungary makes money.

Or you can send your friend in Hungary a "Blue Wonder" bicycle for $30, men's half shoes for $16; men's hand-stitched half shoes for $30; a five-tube shortwave radio for $80; or a "Contax" camera for $360.

Unfortunately the level of income is so low among many persecuted Hungarians that they could hardly stay alive without these gift packages from friends in the United States.

On the other hand, it remains a fact that the Hungarian government uses this as a lush source of income to finance its operations in this country.

These Days

An Author's Philosophy.

It used to be that when an author wrote a book, expressing ideas, he fought for what he believed. Often he traveled about as a lecturer. For instance, Henry George once wrote a book, "Progress and Poverty," advocating the novel idea, single tax. George devoted his life to the idea, starting a public movement which continues to have a following to this day.

Currently, some authors take refuge under the Fifth Amendment as though it would incriminate them to advocate what they wrote because they believed it to be true.

Lawrence K. Rosinger is the author of six books on Far Eastern affairs which are being used in the State Department's Information Service. Rosinger, on the witness stand before a congressional committee, took refuge under the Fifth Amendment every time he was asked any question in any way relating him to the Communist party. He said to reply otherwise would incriminate him. He declined to answer whether he knew Alger Hiss or Frederick Vanderbilt Field on the grounds of self-incrimination. All three persons were associated with the Institute of Pacific Relations, as earlier testimony before the McCarran Committee brought out.

Senator Stuart Symington, a Democrat and a new member of the Senate, tried to help Rosinger by this query:

"Now, we have just had a witness who was a member of the Communist party, and he did not decline to answer anything. If you are a good American, with the premise that it is an international conspiracy against the United States, why do you not answer these questions? What you have done in the past is not as important as the future and the present. Why are you afraid of answering that you are a Communist or have been a Communist? Or why do you not state your position frankly, like Professor Budenz did? That is what I cannot understand in these hearings."

Rosinger remained unmoved. Senator McClellan made the point:

". . . But certainly I do not have time to waste on reading the literature of people who take the position that they cannot answer what their philosophy of government is without fear that it will incriminate them."

Then followed this colloquy:

"I asked you, I believe, if you believe in the overthrow of this government by force and violence?

"Rosinger: No, sir, I do not.

"Senator McClellan: Have you ever advocated it?

"Rosinger: I respectfully decline to answer, relying on the constitutional privilege under the Fifth Amendment.

"Senator McClellan: You refuse to answer that. Have you ever attended meetings, Communist meeting, where it was advocated?

"Rosinger: I decline to answer, relying on the constitutional privilege and the Fifth Amendment.

"Senator McClellan: Are you now a member of the Communist party?

"Rosinger: I decline to answer, relying on the constitutional privilege under the Fifth Amendment.

"Senator McClellan: Will you tell the committee when you withdrew membership, or when membership was withdrawn from you, in the Communist party?

"Rosinger: I decline to answer, relying on the Constitutional privilege under the Fifth Amendment.

"Senator McClellan: Do you believe that the system of government and ideology of communism in Russia is superior to the American system of government and philosophy?

"Rosinger: I decline to answer, relying on the constitutional privilege under the Fifth Amendment.

"Senator McClellan: Is it because you are ashamed to answer that you refuse to answer?

"Rosinger: I decline to answer, relying on the constitutional privilege under the Fifth Amendment."

Such replies to such questions involve a philosophy of life. An author of books on China and the Far East must have a definite philosophy or he could not write at all. One is either for or against the Nationalists, for or against Chiang Kai-shek or Mao Tze-tung, for the United States or for Russian in the Korean War. The historian a century from now could perhaps be objective; the present-day author is too close to the scene and time for objectivity to be possible.

An honest man stands for his position. If he believes that he is right, he ought to be prepared to risk all for his principles of life. How can a man dare to influence others who lacks the courage to defend his beliefs?

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—This is the story of a smear of a United States senator which seems to have been overlooked by the "left wingers" who are constantly crying out that innocent persons are victimized by congressional committees. For here is a case which the organs of the "left wing" have not seen fit to handle fairly or to denounce or even to inquire into in order to get all the facts.

A few days ago the newspapers carried headlines saying Senator Bridges of New Hampshire, Republican, had been "linked" to an investigation of a federal judge. The statement was widely published that Mr. Bridges had recommended to Lowell Mayberry, a Boston lawyer, that Henry Grunewald be employed by John L. Lewis and the miners' union to investigate the late Judge Goldsborough. These same dispatches contained references to Mr. Bridges as a trustee of the United Mine Workers' pension fund and the inference was plain that the New Hampshire senator was an associate of Mr. Lewis and also a praticipant in the process by which a federal judge, who had pending before him a case involving the United Mine Workers, was investigated.

What are the facts?

Didn't Recommend Grunewald

First of all, Senator Bridges has stated flatly that he did not recommend Grunewald to the mine workers' attorney, Mr. Mayberry, and had no connection at all with the investigation of the judge.

Second, the New Hampshire senator was not appointed a trustee of the United Mine Workers' pension fund until 1948. The contempt case involving the miners' union and the inquiry into Judge Goldsborough's life had been disposed of two years before. Senator Bridges states that he had only a nodding acquaintance with Mr. Lewis in 1946 when the case was up before Judge Goldsborough.

It would have been easy enough to establish these facts if the "left wing" organs which pontificate so frequently about alleged injury to innocent persons had chosen to verify them. It so happens that Mr. Mayberry himself has testified under oath before the House Judiciary Investigating Committee corroborating the statement of Senator Bridges that the senator did not introduce Grunewald to John L. Lewis. Mayberry testified he knew Grunewald at least a year and a half before the mine workers case arose.

Grunewald was well known in labor circles as an investigator. Not only had he done work previously for some AFL unions, but the attorney for Mr. Lewis knew of his work.

Now it often happens that newspapers cannot reach persons on the same day they figure in controversies in the news. The critics who have arisen recently to charge newspapers with "one-sidedness" by pointing to omissions in particular issues of newspapers simply do not know or they ignore the pressures of time under which news is gathered, so that conceivably all sides of a controversy of this kind are not available in the same 24 hours. Newspapers, therefore, cannot be blamed for printing the fact that Grunewald had mentioned in his testimony that, according to his recollection—which has since been proved faulty—the New Hampshire senator had introduced him to the lawyer for the miners' union.

Once the news about the opposite testimony before the House committee came out, what steps were taken to put Senator Bridges in the right light before the country? Even if Senator Bridges had recommended Grunewald as an investigator, why was that phase emphasized and almost no criticism visited upon John L. Lewis for conducting the investigation of a judge before whom he and his union had a case pending at that time? For, certainly if it was wrong to recommend an investigator, it must have been even more of an impropriety for the head of a union to hire an investigator to carry on an inquiry about the life of a judge on the federal bench while the union had a case pending before that judge. One has yet to read in the "left wing" press a demand that this phase of the episode be comprehensively explained.

The federal judge is dead. The case is closed, and maybe the congressional committee now considers the whole thing irrelevant, but not so the "left wing" organs which are out to get every United States senator who has shown himself hostile to Communists in government. Mr. Bridges is chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee and an important man in the Republican party today. He has steadfastly fought communistic influences in government.

The "left wingers" also have exposed their hypocrisy in making innuendoes about alleged irregularities in Senator McCarthy's income tax returns. They know full well that, if there had been anything on which he could have been prosecuted, the Truman administration would have filed a case against him in court long ago. This outcry about "injury" to innocent persons all depends evidently on whose ox is gored.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH AND STEWART ALSOP

The Trouble-Makers

WASHINGTON

Rule One for any administration is that national policy cannot be successfully administered by men who do not believe in it. This is a rule which President Truman never learned, to his lasting misfortune. It begins to seem that the Eisenhower administration also has some lessons to learn in this regard.

The trouble in the Commerce Department began with the appointment of Craig R. Schaeffer, a pen manufacturer, as assistant secretary. Schaeffer's political views are suggested by the fact that he is an acknowledged admirer of the right wing rabble-rouser, Merwin K. Hart. To such a man, scientists of all sorts are automatically suspect, and Schaeffer instantly got Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks into a major row with the scientists of the Bureau of Standards. Weeks has had to eat humble pie.

By now, there are plenty of other men at the lower levels of the government who can cause the Eisenhower administration a heap of trouble. Former Sen. Harry Cain, for example, has been named to the Subversive Activities Control Board. President Eisenhower has made it abundantly clear that he does not favor Sen. Joseph McCarthy's methods of dealing with subversives. Yet Cain, besides being a violently eccentric man, consistently attempted to out-McCarthy McCarthy, when he was in the Senate.

The Eisenhower trade policy calls for freer world trade, and the President has sent a strong message to Congress asking for the extension of the reciprocal trade program without essential change. At the same time, he named former Rep. Joseph Talbott to the Tariff Commission. Talbott is an amiable man, well-liked, in his native Connecticut. But he is also an arch-protectionist, who voted against the reciprocal trade program when he was in the House. He even apparently believes that the President should be stripped of his power to review tariff commission recommendations.

During the campaign, Eisenhower repeatedly called for bringing more people under the Social Security program. Another former representative, Parke M. Banta, of Missouri, has been given the job of counsel in the new Health, Education and Welfare Department, headed by the able Oveta Culp Hobby. Banta's views of Social Security are suggested by the fact that, in the 80th Congress, he voted to take 750,000 people off the Social Security rolls. There is no indication that he has changed these views.

Like Sen. Robert A. Taft, Eisenhower unquestionably favors a moderate public housing policy. Yet still another lame duck, former Rep. Albert Cole of Kansas, has been made head of the Housing Administration. In Congress, Cole was wont to complain that the idea for public housing "came from the Kremlin."

President Theodore Roosevelt is one of Eisenhower's political heroes, and he accurately pointed out during the campaign that Roosevelt and the Republican party were responsible for initiating national conservation and land use policies. Yet the newly appointed assistant secretary of the Interior, Orme Lewis, has testified that the public lands, comprising almost a quarter of the national land area and constituting an invaluble national heritage, should ultimately be turned over to "private citizens." This is hardly what Theodore Roosevelt had in mind, and it seems extremely unlikely that it is what Dwight Eisenhower has in mind. Another assistant secretary of the Interior, Felix Wormser, formerly head of Lead and Zinc Trade Association, has warmly endorsed provisions in a House Ways and Means Committee bill, for heavily increased tariffs on lead and zinc. In fact, he has implied that he had a hand in preparing these provisions. The administration is now trying desperately to get them knocked out of the bill, which would wreck the reciprocal trade program.

And so on. Some of these men, it should be said, are no doubt able men. But that is not the point. The point is that they simply do not believe in many of the policies President Eisenhower stands for. Holding second-level but often powerful jobs, they could cause very bad trouble later on.

What has happened is understandable enough. For one thing, a party traditionally takes care of its lame ducks, without inquiring too closely into the lame duck's views. For another, a President cannot possibly know all about hundreds of second-level appointees. Tariff Commissioner Talbott, for example, has said that he never met the President, and no one at the White House ever asked him his views on trade policy.

Moreover, an administration cannot lightly disregard the wishes of such powerful men as Senate Interior Committee Chairman Hugh Butler of Nebraska. Butler has already introduced a bill turning public lands back to the states, and he has successfully insisted on the appointment of men of like mind in the Interior Department.

Yet President Eisenhower is clearly going to have to ride the executive branch on a very tight rein, if he is to give the country the kind of modern-minded, middle-of-the-road government for which he stands. The President may find good uses for the famous Eisenhower temper in the months to come.

NEW YORK—(INS)—A world famous American general, who doesn't want his name used, was approached some time ago and asked if he'd be interested in becoming chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff when Gen. Omar Bradley, who is about the same age, retires in August.

The general thanked the intermediary, but shook his head.

"That reminds me," he said, "of the time—it was 1940—when Belgium's prime minister asked me how I thought France would fare if Hitler threw the German army against it. He expected an optimistic answer, I guess.

"But I replied, 'France will fall. She recently replaced an old general with an old general and replaced that old general with an even older one. Her armed forces must be decadent.' I thank you again for your kindness, but if Gen. Bradley is succeeded by somebody as old or older, we're in a heluva fix."

The ancient rivalry between Brooklyn and Manhattan, generally confined to muscular endeavors, takes on a considerable tone of scholarship today. The boroughs are battling over the proper rendition of Shakespeare, who would be a fine broth of a boy just 389 years old if he had lived.

The whole thing started as a publicity stunt for MGM's fine new filming of "Julius Caesar." Dr. William Jansen, New York City's superintendent of schools, like the thought but was not sure how many schools would actually enter "Shakespeare teams" in any such contest. The most optimistic guess was a dozen. Forty-six schools sent teams to the fray.

High school players recorded their favorite Shakespearan scenes on tape. The identity of the players was concealed from a batch of judges which included Dr. Jansen, Lawrence Langner, Joseph L. Mankiewicz, director of "Julius Caesar," and Marlon Brando, who plays Antony. Howard Dietz, metro veep in charge of public relations stood by, perhaps a bit perplexed.

Why? Seems that the teams selected for the big declame-off had chosen scenes from "Romeo and Juliet," "Twelfth Night," "Henry V," "Merchant of Venice," "Macbeth," "Taming of the Shrew," and "Midsummer Night's Dream."

No Julius Caesar.

Next big congressional inquiry probably will be a search of the minds and hearts of some of the POW's the Reds have returned to us. Numbered among them are GIs whose names and voices were used by the Communists to blast U. S. war aims and accuse us of germ warfare and other cliches of the enemy propaganda machine.

Some congressmen believe that a number of the returning GIs were chosen as much for their willingness to string along with Communist prattle about U. S. "imperialism" as for their wounds. There is, however, little basis up to now for such beliefs. The men have told conflicting stories here and there, and there have been kind words about their treatment by the Reds. But nobody bolted back.

The official set in Washington is still buzzing about Sen Lyndon Johnson's speech at the Gridiron dinner nearly two weeks ago. The Senate's minority leader from Texas, unlike Adlai Stevenson, who spoke before the select club last December, has not permitted copies to be made of his off-the record address.

A prime early backer of—if not the earliest backer—President Eisenhower wired Johnson in effect: "You talked to the GOP as if you were the President—but you won't have to take the criticism that he would have had to take. Congratulations. I've spoken several times at the Gridiron as representative of a minority, but yours was the best I ever heard."

Vets Get Training

These five veterans of the Korean War are working on a lathe in the Allegany Trade School on Paca Street under the provision of Public Law 550 which makes servicemen who were in the armed forces since June 27, 1950, eligible for training. Taking the machine shop course at the Cumberland school are Dennis O. Holt, Robert J. Hare, John Siebert, Vernon F. Kifer, and Kenneth G. Festerman.

Testing an automobile is part of the instruction being received by these Korean War veterans who are taking GI training at Allegany Trades School on Paca Street under the provisions of Public Law 550. The first class of Korean vets in auto mechanics, it began in January, 1953. Shown here as they work on the automobile are Robert L. Shields, Paul S. Cruthers, Earl Nixon and Joseph E. Blacklin.

14 Enroll In Mechanics, Machine Shop Course

By JOHN W. KNOWLTON

A class of 14 Korean War veterans is receiving instructions in machine shop and auto mechanics at Allegany Trades School on Paca and Walnut Streets, under provision of Public Law 550.

Ira E. Northcraft, administrator in charge of the school, said the present enrollees, the first class of its kind in the trades school, began their studies January 5 and instructions in the machine shop courses will continue for 132 weeks. Classes in auto mechanics cover a period of 88 instructional weeks, he added.

Eleven of the veterans are enrolled in the machine shop course, Northcraft pointed out, with the other three taking auto mechanic instruction.

2,805 Hours Of Training

Approximately 2,805 hours of instruction and on the job work training will be given each student in the machine shop operations. This course includes all types of machinery such as lathes, drill presses, tool grinders, bench grinders, punch presses, band saws, band files, shapers, vertical and horizontal mills, service grinders, cylindrical grinders and others.

In addition to machine operation the students in the machine shop course receive some 60 hours of acetelyne and electrical welding, 120 hours of drafting and over 200 hours of mathematics, mostly algebra, geometry and trigonometry pertaining to the operation and repairing of the machines used by the students.

Wallace W. Walker is instructor in the machine shop, Northcraft said.

Openings are available for an entire new class in auto mechanics, the school administrator noted as only three veterans are currently taking the course offered by the school under the instruction of Robert R. Martin.

This course, covering 88 weeks of training, includes such items as motor tune up, carburetion, power units, fuel system and welding and math.

Seek New Classes

Nearly 450 hours is required on the fuel system alone, Northcraft continued, 500 hours on the power unit, and 360 on the chassis. In addition the auto mechanics course carries 150 hours of machine shop work, a general knowledge of welding and 260 hours of mathematics.

The Allegany Trades School is hopeful of getting new classes started for veterans of the Korean conflict as well as servicemen and women who have had 90 or more days service with the armed forces since June 27, 1950.

If enough enrollees warrant the move extra classes in television, radio and electronics will be started, Northcraft pointed out, adding that at least 20 students would have to be signed up for the classes before they could be incorporated in the school program.

The school, which is the only one of its type in the area and has the approval of the State Department of Education for its training facilities, has a liberal enrollment policy with classes beginning the first and second weeks of each month.

Classes are held from 8 a. m. until noon and from 12:30 to 2:30 p. m. each day Monday through Friday except holidays.

Under terms of the Veterans Readjustment Act of 1952 an eligible veteran for trade school training is any person not on active duty with the armed forces who served more than 90 days during the period since June 27, 1950.

Veterans Are Listed

If the veteran has no dependents the Veterans Administration will pay him $110 per month for pursuing training. If he has one dependent he receives $135 per month and $160 per month if he has more than one dependent.

Veterans wishing to establish eligibility for training should contact the VA representative in Cumberland, Northcraft stated. It may be necessary for him to furnish a photostatic copy of his service discharge and if married a copy of his marriage certificate. A copy of the birth certificate of each child also will be required.

The Allegany Trade School opened in May, 1946, for training World War II veterans. To this time it has given training to 934 veterans in nine different trades.

The school provides two weeks summer vacation and Christmas holidays, Northcraft continued.

Veterans now enrolled at the school are Paul S. Cruthers, Joseph E. Blacklin, Kenneth G. Kesterman, Vernon F. Kifer, E. P. Strock, William E. Mills, James C. Dohm, W. O. Bantz, J. R. Fishel, Eugene F. Fuller, Robert J. Hare, Dennis O. Holt, Joseph E. Hunt and R. L. Shields.

Along The Potomac

by Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde

WASHINGTON — The difficulty which arose recently between Dr. Allen V. Astin, director of the Bureau of Standards, and his boss, Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks, has been resolved, at least for the time being, to the mutual satisfaction of both men.

Earlier, Mr. Weeks thought he had sufficient reason to replace Dr. Astin, but as a result of the controversy he asked Dr. Astin to remain in his job until the whole matter has been considered by an impartial investigation. I am delighted with the secretary's decision, and I feel he has a sincere desire to do the right thing.

I had received a great many letters protesting Dr. Astin's dismissal, and made a personal investigation of the facts in order to present them to Congress in a statement last week. I know Dr. Astin, and have every faith in his personal and scientific integrity.

It is indeed refreshing to find that in the new administration there are high officials who take account of criticism and reverse decisions in the interests of fairness.

Daylight Time

The House Committee on the District of Columbia, of which I am a member, sits as a "city council" for the people who live in Washington. If it were these people who elected us, we would be obligated to vote unanimously for a law providing Daylight Saving Time in the summer for D. C.

Washingtonians and residents of suburban Maryland overwhelmingly favor the chance for an extra daylight hour in the evening. We should promptly pass the bill.

Foreign Trade

I have introduced a bill to extend the Reciprocal Trade Agreement Act for one year. President Eisenhower is anxious that this be done, so his admniistration will have an opportunity to make a thorough study of America's foreign economic policies before making any changes in the present laws.

Here And There

After spending last Saturday "talking things over" with Western Marylanders in my Cumberland office, I enjoyed the Allegany-Garrett County Firemen's Association dinner at Lonaconing . . . . Next Thursday I'll address the Leland-Bradley Citizens Association at its meeting in the home of Mrs. Thurston Hughes in Montgomery County.

I'm looking forward to the banquet of the Maryland State Federation of Federal Employes in Hagerstown, where I've been asked to speak a week from Saturday . . . . Tomorrow I will join other Congressmen aboard a naval aircraft carrier off the Virginia Capes to watch practice operations.

Commission To Draft Court-Reform Program Named By Gov. McKeldin

BALTIMORE, April 23 (AP) —Governor McKeldin has picked some of Maryland's brightest legal names for a commission to draw up a court-reform program which might fare better in the Legislature than the last one.

Headed by Clarence W. Miles, the commission will include:

Herbert R. O'Conor, former Governor and United States senator.

Charles D. Markell, chief judge of the Court of Appeals until his retirement last December.

Edward D. E. Rollins, attorney general.

Philip B. Perlman, former solicitor general of the United States.

Judge Joseph R. Byrnes of the Supreme Bench of Baltimore, former president of the Maryland Senate.

Reuben Oppenheimer, president of the Baltimore Bar Association.

President George W. Della of the Maryland Senate.

State Sen. Omar D. Crothers, chairman of the Judicial Proceedings Committee.

Del. Thomas F. Dempsey, Jr., chairman of the House Judiciary Committee.

Richard F. Cleveland, Baltimore attorney.

William J. McWilliams, former judge of the Anne Arundel County Circuit Court.

William I. Gosnell, prominent Baltimore Negro attorney.

G. C. A. Anderson, former president of the Bar Association.

William D. MacMillan, also former president of the Bar Association.

E. Milton Altfeld, Baltimore attorney and former State senator.

William C. Purnell, Baltimore attorney and long-time leader in Maryland Republican politics.

Michael Paul Smith, Towson attorney and leading Baltimore County Democrat.

State Sen. Stanford I. Hoff, Carroll County attorney who has been prominently mentioned as a possible successor to U. S. Attorney Bernard J. Flynn.

Joseph Bernstein, also former Bar Association president.

Trial Magistrate Nita Hinman Crane of Prince Georges County.

Delegate John F. Lillard Jr., Prince Georges County.

Edward A. Smith, Baltimore attorney.

Del. J. Douglas Bradshaw, Montgomery County.

Wilton C. Dinges, Baltimorean who has been active in the study of juvenile delinquency.

McKeldin, in a telephone conversation from Florida, said Chairman Miles played a major role in selection of the commission.

A few weeks ago the governor said one of the jobs of the new group would be to "iron out any rough spots which may existed in court legislation which failed to pass at the 1953 General Assembly session."

The Legislature defeated McKeldin's proposal to reform the Baltimore Traffic Court system and Sen. Leroy Preston's bill for consolidation of the city's courts.

McKeldin said the Miles Commission would be asked to restudy the principal features of both these plans. Other points to be covered by the commission will include a "system of adequate pensions for judges" and advanced methods for dealing with juvenile delinquency, he added.

Boy Governor Asks Tax Relief Of Legislature

Annapolis Youth Cites Virginia Program

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 23 (AP)—Boy-Governor Kenneth Block asked more than 190 members of the Model Legislature today to pass a bill that would give Marylanders tax relief when state surpluses exceeded budget requirements.

A similar measure was defeated when the professional legislators closed out their 1953 session here just a few short weeks ago. But Block saw merit in the proposal.

Law Successful

"Our sister state of Virginia is finding a similar law very successful," the 17-year-old Annapolis High School senior told the joint session of the Legislature.

"When income exceeds the budget and a reasonable sum is set aside as a surplus, the taxpayers are automatically entitled to relief."

The boy executive listed seven other "problems yet unsolved" in his "State of the State" address which opened the 10th annual YMCA-sponsored Legislature.

He called on the mock General Assembly to:

1. Overhaul the magistrate system of the State to convert it from "a political plum to a responsible elective office of dignity."

Study Conservation

2. Create a special commission to study the State's conservation problem and bring back a practical solution for acceptance by the next Legislature.

"Conservation is one of the most abused problems in the history of the state," Block said. "It has been a legislative stepchild for many years."

3. Limit local legislation in Annapolis by granting more home rule. As an alternate, the boy-governor proposed a law limiting local bills to the first 45 days of a 90-day session.

4. Grant absentee voting to Marylanders who are ill or away from home on business trips. Presently only those in the armed services enjoy the privilege.

5. Bind convention delegates to the wishes of Maryland voters for the first two ballots.

6. Memorialize Congress to require every state to allow its voters to choose candidates for the presidential nomination.

7. Construct toll expressways which could be used for a nominal charge, to relieve the "traffic muddle in and around Baltimore.

These and other problems the boys will have to face during the three-day lesson in operating the government and setting public policy.

Block looked like his real-life counterpart, Gov. McKeldin, as he made his opening speech in the house chamber. He wore an artificial black-eyed susan, the State flower, in his buttonhole. The flower has become almost a trademark of McKeldin since he took office.

Secretary of State—the real one—John R. Reeves swore in Block, Senate President James E. Solt Jr. of Hagerstown and Speaker of the House Andrew Sonner of Garrett Park, and all the delegates and senators.

The House and Senate held separate meetings after Block's address to organize and introduce some 112 bills they have drawn up.

Later the boy solons met in committees to discuss the bills.

Bagatti Services Set For Tomorrow

Services for Joseph Bagatti, 21-year-old husband of Mrs. Nellie (Logsdon) Bagatti, 509 Marshall Street, who was killed Wednesday in Cleveland when he was crushed between a railroad car and a loading platform while working, will be held Saturday.

The body will arrive here this morning and will be taken to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bagatti, 414 Springdale Street.

A requiem mass will be celebrated tomorrow at 10 a. m. in St. Patrick's Catholic Church, of which he was a member. Interment will be in the parish cemetery.

this case, but in the meantime I also consider it my duty to protect those who are brought into the state's attorney's office from unjust accusation or conversation, and I strongly feel that duty in respect to every citizen of Allegany County. As much as we would like to we cannot release facts concerning the investigation to the press. The publication of such facts would give notice to such person who might have knowledge or be involved in any way, as a result of which they would be fully prepared in the event they would be brought in for questioning concerning the matter."

Brewery Worker Hurt In Mishap

The condition of John Bryson, 62, of Cresaptown, was reported as "good" last night at Sacred Heart Hospital where he was admitted Wednesday following an accident while working at Queen City Brewing Company.

Bryson was hurt when a keg fell on his foot. At the hospital he underwent surgery to amputate two toes.

North End Club To Give Minstrel

Members of the North Cumberland Homemakers Club distributed tickets for the minstrel and authorized the purchase of a set of dishes for the club at the meeting yesterday. It was held at Fairview Avenue Church.

The minstrel is to be given May 20 and 21 in Centre Street School. Proceeds will be divided between the club and school. A dress rehearsal will be for the children. All the cast with speaking parts will rehearse at 1:30 April 27 and a general rehearsal will be held April 29.

Mrs. Ralph Brotemarkle reported on the delegates for College Week for Women. They are Mrs. Madeline Fanelli, Mrs. William Eichner, and Mrs. Helen Wineow. Alternates are Mrs. Betty Chaney, Mrs. Dorothy Roby and Mrs. James Orr.

Opening with the pledge of allegiance, the Homemakers creed was read by Mrs. Frank Young. Mrs. Eichner explained that the hymn of the month, "Ride On, Ride On in Majesty," was written for Palm Sunday by Henry H. Milman. Mrs. E. F. Stewart led the group singing with Mrs. Eichner at the piano. Roll call was answered with housecleaning hints.

Reports on the flower arrangement meeting last week were given by Mrs. Robert Young, and on the landscaping and garden tours, by Mrs. Samuel Clingan. Mrs. Mary Nixon showed pictures of the 1952 short course graduates, and her diploma. Mrs. E. L. Watkins spoke of registrations, and Mrs. John S. Cook, on the program for the short course sessions.

Crocheted book marks were presented to Mrs. H. T. Pyles, Mrs. Frank Young and Mrs. George Hartung as birthday gifts. A social hour was held and refreshments served.

Roll call for the next meeting is favorite salads and salad dressings. Mrs. Russell Robertson will give a demonstration.

Three Amcelle Workers Given 5-Star Awards

One woman and two men each completed 25 years of service with Celanese today. They were honored individually by the plant manager who presented a gold watch to mark the anniversary date.

Those honored were: Mary M. Jenkins, W. Elwood Ritchie and Vernon W. Groves.

Mary M. Jenkins, 40 Jackson Street, Lonaconing, is an operator in the Down-twisting subdivision. She lives with her mother and her 11-year old daughter.

W. Elwood Ritchie, 11 North Lee Street, is a still operator in the Solvent Recovery Department. He has worked in the same department for the past 24 years. He is married and the father of two daughters.

Vernon W. "Dick" Groves, 617 Elm Street, is a lift truck operator in the Textile Service Section.

Groves is married and the father of a son.

He is a member of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, Aerie No. 245.

His favorite pastimes when not working are fishing and hunting. At one time, "Dick" was well known in local amateur boxing circles.

Within their department, each employe was also awarded the well-known 5-star Celanese service emblem and an engraved certificate.

Freedom Gained

"The officers and myself," Fletcher went on, "have been conscientious in the discharge of our duties to the citizens of Allegany County to protect them from a person who has commited a vicious, cruel and wanton murder."

Case 4 Months Old

Mrs. Meister, 33-year-old housewife and textile plant worker, disappeared on the Saturday before last Christmas. She left her home to go to work on the night shift.

Her body was found 27 days later, on Jan. 20, off a lover's lane on a steep hill at the east edge of Cumberland. She had been bludgeoned to death.

Burkett lives about a block from the home where Mrs. Meister her husband, and their 11-year-old daughter lived.

He was picked up last Thursday night and questioned by city policemen, county officers and a state police investigator who have been working almost continuously on the Meister case.

Says Action Justified

Naughton released a statement in which he said:

"I feel the state's attorney was justified in detaining Burkett up to now, out of justice to Burkett. Certain statements made by Burkett during the early days of his interrogation justified the action taken by the State's attorney."

Del. Horace P. Whitworth (R-Allegany) had taken notice of Burkett's detention and declared he would sponsor legislation prohibiting authorities from holding a person until he had been booked.

Jailed Schoolboy Requests Trial In Shooting Case

Kerans Confined Since March 31

Richard A. Kerans, a 16-year old Bruce High School junior, who has been held in the County Jail since March 31 when he wounded a schoolmate with a rifle, yesterday filed a petition in Allegany County Circuit Court.

The petition was filed through a relative, John A. Smallwood, as next friend, and Louis A. Fatkin, as attorney.

Kerans, who lives at 108 Railroad Street in Westernport, waives his right to indictment by the Grand Jury and asks to be tried for assault by the court on a criminal information to be be filed by State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher.

Donald Wilson, 17, son of Mrs. Maude Wilson, Wood Street, Westernport, was a patient in the Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, for some time after he was wounded with a .22 caliber bullet in the abdomen.

At the time Kerans stated that the shooting was accidental. He said that a .22 caliber bolt automatic rifle he was carrying went off accidentally. He added that he did not realize that Wilson was wounded until he heard him cry and saw the blood on his shirt. The incident occurred in Westernport the afternoon of March 31.

Three Area Soldiers Home From Far East

Sgt. James H. Long, 23 Arch Street; Sfc. Royce P. Walters, 43 Offutt Street, and Cpl. Dennis R. Stettlemeyer, Mt. Lake Park, are among 92 Maryland veterans from the Far East Command, who arrived at Fort Meade this week to begin 30-day rotation leaves.

The vets were sent to Fort Meade after arriving from the Far East at Stoneman, Calif. Following their leaves, they will report to the 2053rd Reception Center at Fort Meade to receive new assignments.

THESE PHOTOS show what happened to Fred F. Nichols when he tried to get into an Ogden, Ut., restaurant by worming down an air vent. When police and firemen found him he was suffocating, stuck fast with his legs dangling down into the establishment. The entire vent was pulled out of the roof and rescuers tin-snipped the beleaguered prisoner free just like opening a can of sardines. (International)

Addition Is Planned To Restaurant

George S. Parsenios yesterday secured a permit to build a two-story addition to the Quality Lunch at 18-20 South Liberty Street.

The addition, to be built of concrete block and brick, will be located on the site of a building at 16 South Liberty Street which is to be demolished. Cost of the work is estimated at $15,000.

City Ball Fields Are Being Readied

The Recreation Department is giving Penn Avenue field a face lifting this week.

Robert E. Pence, city recreation director, said the field should be in shape for play next week after all bleachers are up and screening installed along the first to third base line.

Work on Stitcher Field is scheduled next week, to be followed by the readying of Rolling Mill and Taylor Fields.

At one time, the strong, springy hooks of the teazle plant were used to raise the nap on cloth in weavers' shops. They have been replaced by brass bristles.

Firemen Save Houses From Brush Blaze

Members of District 16 Volunteer Fire Department extinguished a stubborn 30-acre brush fire yesterday afternoon after battling it for three hours to save several buildings near St. Mary's School Recreation Area on Route 51.

Firemen threw in their new front-mounted pumper, jeep and trailer to keep flames away from the Fort Cumberland Golf Course club house and two farm houses.

The blaze, fanned by high winds, burned part of the school playground and golf course, and ate its way into two farm fields. About 30 acres were burned in all.

Firemen were on the scene at 2 p. m. and had the blaze under control by 5 o'clock.

School Paper Rated High

The National Scholastic Press Association of Minneapolis, Minn., has awarded the Alcohi Mirror, student publication of Allegany High School, the honor rating of "All-American" in a recent contest.

The Alcohi Mirror amassed 1060 points out of a possible 1075 to win highest honors in the contest. Publications were analyzed and rated on the basis of frequency of publication, school enrollment, type of school and method of publication. Of those entered in the contest, only ten percent received "All-American" rating.

The Alcohi Mirror last month received medalist rating in the Columbia Scholastic Press contest at New York City.

In the Minneapolis contest the Alcohi Mirror was given maximum points for coverage, balance, vitality, creativeness, treatment, content, organization, style, leads and editing.

Criticisms were that leads were somewhat standardized and typography and makeup did not always create reader interest and appeal. The overall comment of the contest judges was:

"You do a good job presenting all major aspects of school life and in excellent balance. You are to be especially commended for your attention to the serious side of school life."

Editorials in the Mirror were cited as being significant, well written and dealing with current problems of which students should be thinking.

Commendation was given the sports department for stories which were uniformly well-written, complete and interesting.

Stock Market Drops To New Average Low For The Year

NEW YORK, April 23 (AP) — The Stock Market dropped to a new average low for the year today as last-minute selling wiped an estimated one and a quarter billion dollars from quoted prices.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined $1.30 to close at $107.20, the lowest point reached since last Nov. 6.

Some brokers noted that armament stocks were among the chief losers. The market decline began with the new peace moves in Korea.

Transactions today totaled 1,920,000. Yesterday, volume was only 1,390,000 shares. Four stocks hit new highs, but 278 touched new lows.

There were 835 declines today compared with 143 advances. A total of 1,196 issues traded, 56 more than yesterday.

In the Associated Press average, industrial stocks lost $1.50, rails $1.40 and utilities 50 cents.

The rail rally was sparked by New York Central, which held a part of its gain, closing up ¼ at 21⅛. Pennsylvania, also prominent in the rally, closed unchanged at 20.

Some rails were off sharply. Illinois Central lost 2 points at 73 and Southern Railway 1⅛ at 83¼.

High-priced oils were spectacular losers. Texas Pacific Land Trust was down 5¼ at 119, Amerada was off 4½ at 164. Kern County Land, which owns extensive oil lands in Southern Californiaa dropped 3¼ points to close at 46.

Goodrich was off 1⅛ at 66 and Goodyear ⅞ at 52⅛. Sears Roebuck lost 1 at 56¼. American Cyanamid 1¾ at 47, du Pont 2¾ at 91¾. Celanese 1⅛ at 25½. Zenith 1¾ at 68¼, and Douglas 1⅜ at 60⅝. In the motors, General Motors lost ¾ at 60¼. Chrysler ½ at 77 and Studebaker ½ at 34½.

Dairy Congress Meets Tomorrow In Morgantown

MORGANTOWN, W. Va.—Highlights of the second annual West Virginia University Dairy Cattle Congress, to be held tomorrow at the University Dairy Farm, will be the awarding of the H. O. Henderson traveling trophy to the grand champion showman.

The H. O. Henderson trophy is a gift to the Dairy Science Club from Dr. H. O. Henderson, head of the department of dairy husbandry. Each year it is awarded to the grand champion showman, who keeps it until the next annual show. The winner of the trophy last year was Robert Steele. His fitting and showing an Ayrshire animal won recognition as grand champion showman in 1952. Now he is president of the Dairy Science Club, and will be master-of-ceremonies at the 1953 Congress next Saturday.

In the fitting and showing contests, there will be a class for each breed—Ayrshire, Holstein and Jersey. Trophies for these classes will be awarded by the state breed association. The champions showing in these classes will then compete in the showing for the Henderson trophy.

In addition to the fitting and showing contest, there also will be judging contests in the fields of dairy animals and dairy products. There will be two classes in each division—one limited to students of dairy husbandry, and another open to other students and visitors. There are also trophies for the winners of these classes.

The show will begin at 1:15 Saturday afternoon in the judging pavilion at the University Dairy Farm.

Dairy Congress Meets Tomorrow In Morgantown

MORGANTOWN, W. Va.—Highlights of the second annual West Virginia University Dairy Cattle Congress, to be held tomorrow at the University Dairy Farm, will be the awarding of the H. O. Henderson traveling trophy to the grand champion showman.

The H. O. Henderson trophy is a gift to the Dairy Science Club from Dr. H. O. Henderson, head of the department of dairy husbandry. Each year it is awarded to the grand champion showman, who keeps it until the next annual show. The winner of the trophy last year was Robert Steele. His fitting and showing an Ayrshire animal won recognition as grand champion showman in 1952. Now he is president of the Dairy Science Club, and will be master-of-ceremonies at the 1953 Congress next Saturday.

In the fitting and showing contests, there will be a class for each breed—Ayrshire, Holstein and Jersey. Trophies for these classes will be awarded by the state breed association. The champions showing in these classes will then compete in the showing for the Henderson trophy.

In addition to the fitting and showing contest, there also will be judging contests in the fields of dairy animals and dairy products. There will be two classes in each division—one limited to students of dairy husbandry, and another open to other students and visitors. There are also trophies for the winners of these classes.

The show will begin at 1:15 Saturday afternoon in the judging pavilion at the University Dairy Farm.

The Old Second Guesser

What Happens If You Call Molotov

After Stalin's death, we thought it would be a good idea to try to get an interview for the North American Newspaper Alliance with the new Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov, as he was the only one of the top guys who spoke English. We put in a long-distance call for the Kremlin, person to person, which would cost about $12 plus tax if completed. The overseas operator seemed a little startled at first, but then took it in her stride and went to work. In about a half hour she reported back.

"We can't get through any calls to Moscow except between 9 and 11 in the morning unless they are on government business," she said. It was then about noon.

"If you don't think this is government business, why do you suppose we are trying to get Mr. Molotov at the Kremlin?" I asked.

She agreed and started all over again. After several evasive bulletins, she finally came back with this report.

"Mr. Molotov is not answering his telephone today."

Probably he was out to dinner figuring the difference in time, and perhaps he just didn't want to speak to us. Anyway, we gave up and dropped the matter right there, but it was worth the chance. We had already prepared the questions so we tore those up and threw them in the wastebasket. Once, several years ago, we thought we had an interview with Stalin nailed down. We had a staffer, who spoke Russian fluently, and word came back the great man would talk at 5 a. m. our time. Then he suddenly changed his mind.

However, I had better luck with Mr. Truman the other day. I wanted to ask him about writing a couple of articles and in no time he answered in Kansas City. We had a very pleasant conversation. He said he was leaving for Honolulu the next morning and suggested I get in touch with him when he returns. He added his health was never better. This last in response to a question.

The former President was easier to reach than some theatrical producers I know. My friend, John Golden, used to be elusive until I hit on the idea of saying I was Lee Shubert, and then he would answer with alacrity. Once my phone rang and a feminine voice said,

"The White House is calling."

"Tell them Buckingham Palace is busy," I replied, thinking somebody was kidding me.

It was the White House, all right, about some routine matter.

Shortly after Stalin's death, I thought I would take a shot at George Kennan, the former ambassador to Russia, to try for a statement on the shakeup in the Kremlin. He answered immediately and politely explained why he couldn't say anything as he was still attached to the State Department in an official capacity.

Sometimes it works, though. When Wendell Willkie returned from his trip to Russia after he was defeated for the Presidency, I heard he had interceded with Stalin on behalf of an American correspondent who wanted to marry a Russian ballet dancer, and the Soviet boss had threatened to send her to Siberia. Mr. Willkie played Cupid by dispatching a pleading cable to Moscow which did the trick, and the couple got married. They are still living happily, and we got our exclusive story by calling him.

The telephone is dangerous in some ways. Many big shots have their secretaries get the other man on the line before the first one deigns to talk. I contend this is bad salesmanship and frequently hurts business, as well as poor manners. I read recently the Duke of Windsor said his mother, Queen Mary, never used the instrument in her life because she was afraid of it. A slight touch of telephone fright wouldn't hurt some women I know to whom I am related by marriage, but then A.T. and T. would probably have to cut its nine-dollar dividend.

Keyser Sorority Conducts Mock Radio Program

KEYSER — A feature of the meeting of Iota Pi Chapter, Tau Phi Lambda Sorority of the Supreme Forest Woodmen Circle, held at the home of Miss Mary Rotruck on E Street, Monday, was a mock radio program, in which the members had parts.

Zelma Harrison was the announcer and a hillbilly quartet, composed of Mary Rotruck, Alice Ravenscroft, Betty Kephart and Frances Hartman, sang "You Are My Sunshine," "Old MacDonald Had a Farm," and "Silver Moon."

Frances Hartman sang "O Happy Day," and the quartet gave a short hillbilly skit. During the program, two members of the audience, Mary Ellen Carpenter and Naomi Dorsey, were called upon to give a statement on "what the sorority means to me."

Mrs. Faye K. Littman, state manager of Grafton, gave a talk on the activities at the state convention that will be held at Parkersburg May 23 and 24. The program closed with the entire group singing "She'll Be Comin' 'Round the Mountain."

The members and visitor were dressed for the occasion in old clothes. A gift was presented to Jeanne Mills for her work for the sorority as pianist, and to Mrs. Littman.

An informal tea and pledge ceremony will be held May 3, and the next business meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Jacqueline Smith, Maple Avenue, May 4.

Mrs. Alice Ravenscroft was hostess, and Mary Rotruck and Zelma Harrison, were co-hostesses and served refreshments buffet style to the following:

Mrs. Faye K. Littman, Grafton; Evon Ford, Joanne Welch Luetta Dantzic, Theresa Rosenberger, Shirley McLucas, Mary Janet Pyles, Jean Harman, Ruth Elaine Dorsey, Virginia Avey, Rosetta Kephart, Jacqueline Smith, Alma Twigg, Rosalyn Conrad, Dorothy Royce, Naomi Dorsey, Zelma Harrison, Mary Louise Rice, Mary Kathryn Neville, Lois Borror, Mary Ellen Carpenter and son Dennis; Jeanne Mills, Betty Kephart, Mary Rotruck, Alice Ravenscroft and Frances K. The Old Second Guesser

What Happens If You Call Molotov

After Stalin's death, we thought it would be a good idea to try to get an interview for the North American Newspaper Alliance with the new Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov, as he was the only one of the top guys who spoke English. We put in a long-distance call for the Kremlin, person to person, which would cost about $12 plus tax if completed. The overseas operator seemed a little startled at first, but then took it in her stride and went to work. In about a half hour she reported back.

"We can't get through any calls to Moscow except between 9 and 11 in the morning unless they are on government business," she said. It was then about noon.

"If you don't think this is government business, why do you suppose we are trying to get Mr. Molotov at the Kremlin?" I asked.

She agreed and started all over again. After several evasive bulletins, she finally came back with this report.

"Mr. Molotov is not answering his telephone today."

Probably he was out to dinner figuring the difference in time, and perhaps he just didn't want to speak to us. Anyway, we gave up and dropped the matter right there, but it was worth the chance. We had already prepared the questions so we tore those up and threw them in the wastebasket. Once, several years ago, we thought we had an interview with Stalin nailed down. We had a staffer, who spoke Russian fluently, and word came back the great man would talk at 5 a. m. our time. Then he suddenly changed his mind.

However, I had better luck with Mr. Truman the other day. I wanted to ask him about writing a couple of articles and in no time he answered in Kansas City. We had a very pleasant conversation. He said he was leaving for Honolulu the next morning and suggested I get in touch with him when he returns. He added his health was never better. This last in response to a question.

The former President was easier to reach than some theatrical producers I know. My friend, John Golden, used to be elusive until I hit on the idea of saying I was Lee Shubert, and then he would answer with alacrity. Once my phone rang and a feminine voice said,

"The White House is calling."

"Tell them Buckingham Palace is busy," I replied, thinking somebody was kidding me.

It was the White House, all right, about some routine matter.

Shortly after Stalin's death, I thought I would take a shot at George Kennan, the former ambassador to Russia, to try for a statement on the shakeup in the Kremlin. He answered immediately and politely explained why he couldn't say anything as he was still attached to the State Department in an official capacity.

Sometimes it works, though. When Wendell Willkie returned from his trip to Russia after he was defeated for the Presidency, I heard he had interceded with Stalin on behalf of an American correspondent who wanted to marry a Russiar ballet dancer, and the Soviet boss had threatened to send her to Siberia. Mr. Willkie played Cupid by dispatching a pleading cable to Moscow which did the trick, and the couple got married. They are still living happily, and we got our exclusive story by calling him.

The telephone is dangerous in some ways. Many big shots have their secretaries get the other man on the line before the first one deigns to talk. I contend this is bad salesmanship and frequently hurts business, as well as poor manners. I read recently the Duke of Windsor said his mother, Queen Mary, never used the instrument in her life because she was afraid of it. A slight touch of telephone fright wouldn't hurt some women I know to whom I am related by marriage, but then A.T. and T. would probably have to cut its nine-dollar dividend.

Garrett To Shun Daylight Saving Again This Year

OAKLAND—Again this year Garrett County will stick to Standard Time as Daylight Saving Time is ushered in early Sunday morning.

Reports circulated in Annapolis early this week that even Garrett county would go along, making it the first year in history that the whole State was on daylight time.

But, the county commissioners office here said Garrett will once again stick to Standard Time.

Also sticking to Standard Time will be railroads, some phases of airline operations and bus lines. Some small communities closely geared to railroad operation will remain on Standard Time.

The official switch to fast time occurs at 2 a. m. Sunday, but most citizens usually set their clocks forward one hour before retiring Saturday night and wake up on daylight time Sunday morning.

They lose an hour's sleep in the process and won't get it back until September 27 when Standard Time returns.

ENDS SALES TRAINING COURSE—These are a few of the 75 Keyser business men and women who completed a six-week night course in sales training at Potomac State School Wednesday night. Garrett To Shun Daylight Saving Again This Year

OAKLAND—Again this year Garrett County will stick to Standard Time as Daylight Saving Time is ushered in early Sunday morning.

Reports circulated in Annapolis early this week that even Garrett county would go along, making it the first year in history that the whole State was on daylight time.

But, the county commissioners office here said Garrett will once again stick to Standard Time.

Also sticking to Standard Time will be railroads, some phases of airline operations and bus lines. Some small communities closely geared to railroad operation will remain on Standard Time.

The official switch to fast time occurs at 2 a. m. Sunday, but most citizens usually set their clocks forward one hour before retiring Saturday night and wake up on daylight time Sunday morning.

They lose an hour's sleep in the process and won't get it back until September 27 when Standard Time returns.

ENDS SALES TRAINING COURSE—These are a few of the 75 Keyser business men and women who completed a six-week night course in sales training at Potomac State School Wednesday night. Va., contracting, and John Minnich, flowers and electrical service. Each was presented a certificate. The course was sponsored by the Keyser-Mineral County Chamber of Commerce and the Keyser Retail Bureau and was conducted by members of the Potomac State faculty.

Two Court Cases Set Precedent In April Term

Two precedent setting cases have been heard in this April term of Allegany County Circuit Court.

One was the positive exoneration of a Zihlman man of a paternity charge through conclusive blood tests.

The other was the trial of Mrs. Audrey M. Jones, 23-year-old mother of four children. Wednesday was the first time since a Maryland Court of Appeals ruling that an appeal from parole violation sentence imposed in Allegany County Juvenile Court was heard in Circuit Court.

In the blood test case, court attaches pointed out that in the past this method has been attempted to be used to free men charged with paternity, but in their recollection the method failed.

In the case of Mrs. Jones Wednesday, she appealed being ordered by Magistrate Alban Thompson to serve a two-year sentence in the House of Correction after he found she had been guilty of violating a parole he imposed last August.

The ground work for Mrs. Jones to be able to take her case to the Circuit Court was laid in a Court of Appeals ruling in the case of the State vs. Walter Hite.

Hite, a local man, was sentenced to serve the term stipulated in his parole when Juvenile Court found it had been violated. Through his attorney, Hite succeeded in taking the case to the Court of Appeals where a decision was made allowing a defendant to appeal to Circuit Court a parole violation case from Juvenile Court.

Previously these cases were not heard before the higher court.

President Andrew Johnson was 19 years of age before he learned to write.

County Roads Department Spends $16,374 In March

The Allegany County Roads Department report for March lists total expenditures of $16,374.74 for maintenance of roads and bridges and snow removal.

J. Walker Chapman, roads supervisor, submitted the report to the Board of County Commissioners. Labor costs accounted for the bulk of the expenditures at $13,261.14. Materials amounted to $438.45 and equipment costs were $2,675.15.

Costs in the various districts were itemized. Nineteen roads were worked in District 1 in the eastern part of the county at a cost of $2,730.10 with snow removal costs of $579.62. District 2 in the Oldtown section had costs of $1,210 with $284 being for snow removal. In District 3, which includes roads in the Murley's Branch and Flintstone sections, a total of $888.38 was spent. Snow removal required $380.49.

Bowman's Addition, Valley Road and Pea Vine Road sections in District 5 had costs of $131.63 with $44.54 spent for snow removal. District 7, which includes roads in the Cresaptown and Winchester Road areas, had costs of $1,523.72. Snow removal was $77.49. Districts 4, 6, 8, 9, 10 and 11 had limited expenditures averaging about $100 each, mostly for snow removal.

District 12 in the Grahamtown area had costs of $266.22 with snow removal taking the bulk. District 13 in the Mt. Savage and Slabtown area had costs of $1,500.93 with snow removal amounting to $172.37. Districts 15, 17, 20, 25, 26 and 27 had costs averaging slightly more than $100 each.

District 19 costs were $631.59 with roads in the Midlothian, Hoffman and Shaft areas being worked. District 21, which includes roads between Bedford Road and Baltimore Pike, had expenditures of $1,800.48. Snow removal costs were $183.10. District 23 costs were $743.78. District 24 costs were $660.95.

RR Service Halt Hearing Set May 4

A further hearing on the Western Maryland Railway's application to discontinue passenger service between Cumberland and Baltimore will be held Monday, May 4 at 10:30 a. m. in the Public Service Commission office, Baltimore.

The hearing has been carried over from January to allow People's Counsel time to check documents presented by the company.

Date of the further hearing was announced today by Albert L. Deen, PSC executive secretary.

The railway has endeavored to show that passenger service is an ever-increasing liability. It reported losing $428,530 last year or an average of $2.19 a mile.

Many witnesses have appeared formerly to protest the petition. They said loss of commuting service would force them to quit their jobs or sell homes. Others contended the Western Maryland had not tried to build business.

Baltimore's Famed Housing Court Effects Reconciliation Of Couple

BALTIMORE, April 23 (AP)—Baltimore's famous Housing Court has added a new ramification to its name. It succeeded in getting an estranged couple to drop their spat and go back to living together.

Mr. and Mrs. Otis Butler, Negroes, were the ones involved.

They own a house in what the Baltimore Housing Bureau calls its Pilot Area. The Pilot Area is, or was, a slum—filthy houses, falling apart, infested with rats, stopped up plumbing or no plumbing at all.

The city has a plan to clean up slums by forcing the owners to comply with sanitary regulations and the building code. Keystone of the plan is the Housing Court, where a special magistrate handles nothing but sanitary and building safety violations.

In its Pilot Area, the Housing Bureau is trying to bring every decrepit house into compliance just to demonstrate what can be done and that is what brought the Butlers into housing court. They were charged with violating sanitary regulations.

Mrs. Butler said she lived in the house all right but her husband had moved out and she had no money to make repairs.

The Housing Court sent her to the Legal Aid Bureau. J. Deems Barnard, the lawyer who took the case, interviewed the husband.

Butler said he'd be glad to go back living with his wife if she'd have him. Mrs. Butler said she would.

So they're living together again and have signed a $1,300 contract with a builder to make the required repairs.

"Charges dismissed," said Magistrate Stanley L. Richardson when the outcome was explained to him in Housing Court yesterday.

Economy Can Be Carried Too Far

MARTINSVILLE, Ind., April 23 (AP) — The City Council decided against insuring its new $14,000 fire truck because the "other driver" would "always" be liable for failing to yield the right-of-way.

This week, the fire truck on an emergency run was damaged about $3,000 worth in a collision with another vehicle—the city's only police car.

Two Court Cases Set Precedent In April Term

Two precedent setting cases have been heard in this April term of Allegany County Circuit Court.

One was the positive exoneration of a Zihlman man of a paternity charge through conclusive blood tests.

The other was the trial of Mrs. Audrey M. Jones, 23-year-old mother of four children. Wednesday was the first time since a Maryland Court of Appeals ruling that an appeal from parole violation sentence imposed in Allegany County Juvenile Court was heard in Circuit Court.

In the blood test case, court attaches pointed out that in the past this method has been attempted to be used to free men charged with paternity, but in their recollection the method failed.

In the case of Mrs. Jones Wednesday, she appealed being ordered by Magistrate Alban Thompson to serve a two-year sentence in the House of Correction after he found she had been guilty of violating a parole he imposed last August.

The ground work for Mrs. Jones to be able to take her case to the Circuit Court was laid in a Court of Appeals ruling in the case of the State vs. Walter Hite.

Hite, a local man, was sentenced to serve the term stipulated in his parole when Juvenile Court found it had been violated. Through his attorney, Hite succeeded in taking the case to the Court of Appeals where a decision was made allowing a defendant to appeal to Circuit Court a parole violation case from Juvenile Court.

Previously these cases were not heard before the higher court.

County Roads Department Spends $16,374 In March

The Allegany County Roads Department report for March lists total expenditures of $16,374.74 for maintenance of roads and bridges and snow removal.

J. Walker Chapman, roads supervisor, submitted the report to the Board of County Commissioners. Labor costs accounted for the bulk of the expenditures at $13,261.14. Materials amounted to $438.45 and equipment costs were $2,675.15.

Costs in the various districts were itemized. Nineteen roads were worked in District 1 in the eastern part of the county at a cost of $2,730.10 with snow removal costs of $579.62. District 2 in the Oldtown section had costs of $1,210 with $284 being for snow removal. In District 3, which includes roads in the Murley's Branch and Flintstone sections, a total of $888.38 was spent. Snow removal required $380.49.

Bowman's Addition, Valley Road and Pea Vine Road sections in District 5 had costs of $131.63 with $44.54 spent for snow removal. District 7, which includes roads in the Cresaptown and Winchester Road areas, had costs of $1,523.72. Snow removal was $77.49. Districts 4, 6, 8, 9, 10 and 11 had limited expenditures averaging about $100 each, mostly for snow removal.

District 12 in the Grahamtown area had costs of $266.22 with snow removal taking the bulk. District 13 in the Mt. Savage and Slabtown area had costs of $1,500.93 with snow removal amounting to $172.37. Districts 15, 17, 20, 25, 26 and 27 had costs averaging slightly more than $100 each.

RR Service Halt Hearing Set May 4

A further hearing on the Western Maryland Railway's application to discontinue passenger service between Cumberland and Baltimore will be held Monday, May 4 at 10:30 a. m. in the Public Service Commission office, Baltimore.

The hearing has been carried over from January to allow People's Counsel time to check documents presented by the company.

Date of the further hearing was announced today by Albert L. Deen, PSC executive secretary.

The railway has endeavored to show that passenger service is an ever-increasing liability. It reported losing $428,530 last year or an average of $2.19 a mile.

Many witnesses have appeared formerly to protest the petition. They said loss of commuting service would force them to quit their jobs or sell homes. Others contended the Western Maryland had not tried to build business.

Baltimore's Famed Housing Court Effects Reconciliation Of Couple

BALTIMORE, April 23 (AP)—Baltimore's famous Housing Court has added a new ramification to its name. It succeeded in getting an estranged couple to drop their spat and go back to living together.

Mr. and Mrs. Otis Butler, Negroes, were the ones involved.

They own a house in what the Baltimore Housing Bureau calls its Pilot Area. The Pilot Area is, or was, a slum—filthy houses, falling apart, infested with rats, stopped up plumbing or no plumbing at all.

The city has a plan to clean up slums by forcing the owners to comply with sanitary regulations and the building code. Keystone of the plan is the Housing Court, where a special magistrate handles nothing but sanitary and building safety violations.

In its Pilot Area, the Housing Bureau is trying to bring every decrepit house into compliance just to demonstrate what can be done and that is what brought the Butlers into housing court. They were charged with violating sanitary regulations.

Mrs. Butler said she lived in the house all right but her husband had moved out and she had no money to make repairs.

The Housing Court sent her to the Legal Aid Bureau. J. Deems Barnard, the lawyer who took the case, interviewed the husband.

Butler said he'd be glad to go back living with his wife if she'd have him. Mrs. Butler said she would.

So they're living together again and have signed a $1,300 contract with a builder to make the required repairs.

"Charges dismissed," said Magistrate Stanley L. Richardson when the outcome was explained to him in Housing Court yesterday.

Economy Can Be Carried Too Far

MARTINSVILLE, Ind., April 23 (AP) — The City Council decided against insuring its new $14,000 fire truck because the "other driver" would "always" be liable for failing to yield the right-of-way.

This week, the fire truck on an emergency run was damaged about $3,000 worth in a collision with another vehicle—the city's only police car.

Drumsticks Made Of Ground Beef

Drumsticks are fun to prepare and fun to serve. This time they're made of ground beef, one more tempting use of this versatile meat. All you need to prepare them is a few round wooden skewers which may be obtained from many meat dealers.

In buying ground beef for any serving, ask your market man to grind boneless beef stew meat. Too many women regularly ask for ground round steak. Actually, round steak is too lean for this purpose. It is recommended that ground beef contain 25 per cent fat for a juicy, flavorful serving. This is the approximate proportion you'll have with beef stew meat. Usually this meat retails for several cents per pound under round steak. It's wise to save the latter for Swiss, country-fried and the many other tempting braised steak dishes.

To prepare the drumsticks for 6 to 8 servings, combine 1½ pounds of ground beef with 1½ teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon of pepper. Then simply shape this mixture around the wooden skewers so they resemble drumsticks. If you like, roll them in fine bread crumbs or crushed cornflakes.

In cooking, brown in a small amount of drippings, then add ¼ cup of water. Cover the meat closely and slowly simmer on top of the range or in a slow oven (300 degrees F.) for 45 minutes. Tomato or mushroom soup may be used in place of the water.

Bake some extra biscuits for supper to serve with fresh fruit as shortcakes. Top with generous blobs of whipped cream. A tasty yet simple and economical dessert. The hidden treasure in this dessert is the food value—essential B-Vitamins, food iron and protein when the biscuits are made from enriched flour.

Check Your Braising Technique

Braising — this word conjures visions of tender Swiss steak, country-fried steak and many other favorite dishes. So that you're sure to serve these foods at their best, perhaps it's a good idea to brush up on the proper way of preparing them.

Long, slow cooking in moist heat is the top secret to their success. Slow cooking in moisture, softens the connective tissue, making the meat tender. Using a low temperature in cooking you'll have meat that's juicy rather than dried out and unpalatable.

In braising, dredge the meat with seasoned flour if desired. This gives it a rich golden finish after browning. Floured or not, brown the meat on both sides in lard or drippings. When browned, add a small amount of liquid. This may be water, milk, sour cream, tomato juice, depending upon the dish you are preparing. Use only about ¼ to ½ cup of liquid. More may be added if it is necessary during cooking. Cover the pan closly and let the meat cook slowly until tender.

Build Foundation

Preparing for the day's activities is similar to building a house. The strong foundation must come first or the structure may collapse. See that your day has a good substantial beginning by eating a good breakfast. "Materials" needed for your day's first meal should include fruit, cereal, milk, bread and butter. You'll feel better and work better all day long with such a basic breakfast foundation.

Spanish Pot-Roast

Beverage

With plentiful supplies of beef on the market you'll want to serve it frequently. Tender pot-roasts are a favorite among many folks. To blend the outstanding flavor of beef with tomato sauce and onion prepare a Spanish pot-roast following the recipe below. Show off the pot-roast by placing it on a bed of fluffy rice and topping with the savory sauce.

The clue to a tender, moist pot-roast is cooking it slowly. Cooking at a high temperature dries out the meat, making it stringy. A pot-roast is always cooked by the moist heat method known as braising. Three steps to follow are (1) Brown the meat thoroughly on both sides. For a deeper brown, dredge the meat with seasoned flour first. (2) Add from ¼ to ½ cup of liquid and cover the meat closely. It may be necessary to add more liquid as the meat cooks. (3) Let it simmer until tender. Cooking time for a 3 to 4-pound beef arm or blade pot-roast will be 3 to 4 hours.

Spanish Pot-Roast

3 to 4-pound arm or blade pot-roast
1 large onion, sliced
3 tablespoons lard or drippings
2 cups tomatoes
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Brown onion in lard or drippings. Remove onion and brown the meat on both sides. Add onion, tomatoes and seasonings. Cover closely and simmer until tender, allowing 3 to 4 hours for cooking. Thicken liquid for gravy. 6 to 8 servings.

Abundance of high quality beef in the market makes this a wise as well as a welcomed serving today. The tender pot-roast is given an "occasion" look. It's served on a bed of white rice and topped with a zestful tomato-onion sauce. To complete your main course you need only to add buttered green beans, assorted relishes and, perhaps, hot rolls.

Cookery Cues For All Types Of Liver

Overcooking liver is a frequent mistake of homemakers. Cooking liver too long at a high temperature hardens it and destroys its flavor.

Since liver is tender, (beef liver is not as tender as the others) it may be cooked by various methods. For instance, all types—beef, pork, veal, lamb—may be cooked by the moist heat method, braising. To braise, dip slices to cut about ½ inch thick in seasoned flour, then brown them in lard or drippings. Reduce the temperature, cover the frying-pan and cook until tender. This will be about 20 minutes.

Veal and lamb liver are temptingly prepared by broiling. Have liver sliced ½ to ¾ inch thick for cooking by this method. Broil at a moderate temperature—2 inches from heat—for only about 3 minutes on each side.

Frying is another favorite method for cooking liver. Use only a small amount of fat. After liver is well-browned on both sides, turn the temperature down and continue cooking until meat is done. This will require only a short time longer than it takes to brown the meat.

How To Cook Frozen Meats

Do I follow special methods for cooking frozen meat? This is a frequent question voiced by homemakers today.

In light of present day research there is no difference in the method for cooking frozen or unfrozen meat.

In other words, tender meats are cooked by dry heat methods—by roasting, broiling or pan-broiling, the same as unfrozen cuts. The less tender cuts are cooked with moisture as in braising and cooking in liquid.

For equally good results, frozen meats may be cooked either in the frozen state or defrosted. Of course, frozen meats require a longer cooking period. Meats may be defrosted in the refrigerator at room temperature or during cooking—it makes no difference.

Ideal Lamb Dish For Luncheon Bridge, Shower

Bridge or shower luncheon planned? Lamb and mushrooms in noodle nests makes an impressive serving. Since thrifty lamb shoulder it used, this provides a moderately prices serving for six or eight persons.

To prepare this dish ask your market man for two pounds of boneless lamb shoulder. Have him cut it into long, thin strips or into small cubes. Dredge the lamb with flour, then brown in 2 or 3 tablespoons of lard or drippings. Season with 1½ teaspoons of salt and ¼ teaspoon of ground cloves. To the meat add ½ cup of water, cover and cook slowly for one hour. At the end of this time, add a 4-ounce can of mushrooms. Cook an additional 15 minutes.

For the savory sauce, add 1 cup of milk. Thicken with 2 or 3 tablespoons of flour, stirring constantly. Serve this combination in individual noodle nests or crisp potato baskets. To your menu you might add a green vegetable such as asparagus or Frenched green beans, a tossed salad, parkerhouse rolls and a light dessert.

Hamburger Scramble

½ pound ground beef; 2 tablespoons lard or drippings; 4 eggs; ½ cup chopped pimiento; ¼ cup chopped onion; 1 teaspoon salt; ¼ teaspoon pepper.

Brown meat in lard or drippings in frying-pan. Beat eggs, add pimiento, onion and seasonings. Add egg mixture to meat. Stir occasionally until eggs are firm. 4 servings.

A Peach Of A Pie—Made With Frozen Peaches And Pineapple

Frozen Peach-Pineapple Pie

1 (16 oz.) package frozen peaches
1 package frozen pineapple
1 package lemon gelatin
½ cup sugar
1 cup hot water
2 egg whites
1 cup thick sour cream
2 8-inch baked pie shells

Defrost peaches and pineapple. Drain the pineapple and if desired about 6 to 8 peach slices. Dissolve gelatin and sugar in hot water. Cut all but the drained slices of peaches in small pieces and add with peach juice to gelatin. (Do NOT add the pineapple or pineapple juice to gelatin for it will not thicken). Chill gelatin mixture until partially set; beat until light and frothy. Beat egg whites until stiff. Fold into gelatin mixture; dip into baked pie shells. Chill until firm. Divide the sour cream and spread over surface of each pie. Garnish top with drained pineapple chunks and peach slices. Amount: 8 to 10 servings.

New Table Dress

Before you don the new Easter bonnet, see that your family eats their morning meal. One sure way is to give the table a new look, too. A different cloth, a cheerful centerpiece, and lots of their favorite food should help begin this special day properly.

Try This Dessert "Roly-Poly"

Fancy desserts can set off an "every day" meal. A delightful combination designed for just this purpose is a Cherry Roly-Poly. The fruit in rich sauce is rolled up in sweetened biscuit dough the same as a jelly roll, then cut into individual servings and baked. For tender, flaky results, the biscuit dough is shortened with lard.

Cherry Roly-Poly

2 cups sifted enriched flour
1 tablespoon baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
¼ cup sugar
4 to 6 tablespoons lard
¼ to ½ cup milk
1 No. 2 can or 1 pint pitted sour cherries
½ cup sugar
1 cup liquid
2 tablespoons cornstarch

Sift flour again with baking powder, salt and sugar. Cut in lard until mixture has fine even crumb. Add enough milk to make a soft dough. Turn onto lightly-floured surface and knead gently for 30 seconds. Roll into rectangle ¼ inch thick. Drain cherries and save juice. Place cherries on biscuit dough. Roll as for jelly-roll and cut into 1-inch slices. Place cut surface down on greased 9-inch square baking dish. Mix sugar and cornstarch. Add enough water to cherry juice to make 1 cup liquid and mix with sugar and cornstarch. Cook until thick and clear. Bake rolls in a hot oven (425 degrees F.) for 15 minutes. Pour juice over rolls and bake 10 minutes longer. 8 to 10 rolls.

Bake A Meal

A properly baked potato has spent about an hour in a hot oven. Since ovens are large, and baking potatoes take little room, it seems a pity not to bake the main feature along with them. Perfect for this purpose is "Tuna Bake with Cheese Swirls" — a hot-even dish and a fine companion for steaming baked potatoes.

Gives Recipe For Tasty Toffee Squares

Toffee squares. Here's a bar cookie with that rich toffee flavor, perfect with a cup of coffee or a glass of milk. These bear a quick chocolate icing. Near the end of baking, chocolate chips are placed over the batter. When melted they are easily spread over the cookies.

Toffee Squares

¾ cup lard; 1 cup brown sugar; 1 egg; 1 teaspon vanilla; 2 cups sifted enriched flour; ½ tespoon salt; 8 to 12 ounces chocolate chips; 1 cup chopped nuts.

Cream lard and sugar until light and fluffy. Add egg and blend. Add vanilla. Sift flour and salt together and add, mixing thoroughly. Spread batter on ungreased pan 10 x 15 inches. Bake in a moderately hot oven (350°F.) for 20 minutes. Top with chocolate chips, melt in oven 5 minutes. Spread chocolate, sprinkle with nuts. Cut while warm. Yield: 40 cookies.

Fruited Lamb Patties

1 pound ground lamb; 2 slices bacon; 4 cooked prunes, pitted; ½ cup crushed corn flakes; 1 egg; 1 teaspoon salt; ½ cup milk.

Chop bacon, cook until crisp and fill center of prunes. Combine lamb, corn flakes, egg, salt and milk; mix well. Divide mixture into fourths, and shape each patty around a stuffed prune. Place patties on broiler rack. Insert broiler pan allowing 2 inches between heat and surface of meat. Broil patties on one side until they are brown. 8 to 10 minutes. Turn and brown on second side.
4 servings.

Banana Fritters

1 cup sifted enriched flour; 2 teaspoons baking powder; 1¼ teaspoons salt; ¼ cup sugar; ⅓ cup milk; 1 egg, beaten; 2 teaspoons melted lard; 3 to 4 firm bananas; 2 tablespoons enriched flour; Lard for deep-fat frying.

Sift flour, baking powder, salt and sugar together. Combine milk, egg and lard. Add to dry ingredients and mix until batter is smooth. Cut each banana into 3 or 4 diagonal pieces. Roll in flour and dip in batter. Fry in deep hot lard (360°F.), turning frequently for even browning. Remove and drain on absorbent paper. 6 to 8 servings.

Tops In Nutritive Value

The most nutritious variety meats (organ meats) are liver and kidneys. These contain large amounts of iron and B vitamins and frequently are recommended by doctors for inclusion in the diet.

Questions often arise on the preparation of these two meats. Here's a summary which may be helpful:

Liver: Calves, young steer and lamb liver may be broiled or pan-fried. Beef and pork liver should be cooked by braising (browning, then cooking slowly until tender in a covered skillet).

Kidneys: Lamb and veal kidneys may be broiled or pan-fried. Beef and pork need long, slow cooking with added moisture.

Candy Marble Slab

3½ cups white sugar
1 cup white syrup
1 cup water

Cook until candy reaches 290 degrees.

Color and flavor to suit own taste. 1 teaspoon of flavoring is recommended. Grease marble slab with shortning and also grease scissors. Pour mixture on the slab. Cut in strips, roll in hands and cut into small pieces. Begin cutting on outer edge and work fast as candy gets hard quickly. Roll in powdered sugar to keep from sticking. It takes about 15 minutes to make one recipe.

Spring luncheons, showers, teas, keep the homemaker very busy. Be grateful for the helpful baker. You have to leave out dessert from the dinner or hot rolls from the luncheon. Take advantage of the wide variety of cakes, pies, cookies, breads and rolls he has to offer.

A Peach Of A Pie—Made With Frozen Peaches And Pineapple

Frozen Peach-Pineapple Pie

1 (16 oz.) package frozen peaches
1 package frozen pineapple
1 package lemon gelatin
½ cup sugar
1 cup hot water
2 egg whites
1 cup thick sour cream
2 8-inch baked pie shells

Defrost peaches and pineapple. Drain the pineapple and if desired about 6 to 8 peach slices. Dissolve gelatin and sugar in hot water. Cut all but the drained slices of peaches in small pieces and add with peach juice to gelatin. (Do NOT add the pineapple or pineapple juice to gelatin for it will not thicken). Chill gelatin mixture until partially set; beat until light and frothy. Beat egg whites until stiff. Fold into gelatin mixture; dip into baked pie shells. Chill until firm. Divide the sour cream and spread over surface of each pie. Garnish top with drained pineapple chunks and peach slices. Amount: 8 to 10 servings.

New Table Dress

Before you don the new Easter bonnet, see that your family eats their morning meal. One sure way is to give the table a new look, too. A different cloth, a cheerful centerpiece, and lots of their favorite food should help begin this special day properly.

Try This Dessert "Roly-Poly"

Fancy desserts can set off an "every day" meal. A delightful combination designed for just this purpose is a Cherry Roly-Poly. The fruit in rich sauce is rolled up in sweetened biscuit dough the same as a jelly roll, then cut into individual servings and baked. For tender, flaky results, the biscuit dough is shortened with lard.

Cherry Roly-Poly

2 cups sifted enriched flour
1 tablespoon baking powder
¾ teaspoon salt
¼ cup sugar
4 to 6 tablespoons lard
¼ to ½ cup milk
1 No. 2 can or 1 pint pitted sour cherries
½ cup sugar
1 cup liquid
2 tablespoons cornstarch

Sift flour again with baking powder, salt and sugar. Cut in lard until mixture has fine even crumb. Add enough milk to make a soft dough. Turn onto lightly-floured surface and knead gently for 30 seconds. Roll into rectangle ¼ inch thick. Drain cherries and save juice. Place cherries on biscuit dough. Roll as for jelly-roll and cut into 1-inch slices. Place cut surface down on greased 9-inch square baking dish. Mix sugar and cornstarch. Add enough water to cherry juice to make 1 cup liquid and mix with sugar and cornstarch. Cook until thick and clear. Bake rolls in a hot oven (425 degrees F.) for 15 minutes. Pour juice over rolls and bake 10 minutes longer. 8 to 10 rolls.

Bake A Meal

A properly baked potato has spent about an hour in a hot oven. Since ovens are large, and baking potatoes take little room, it seems a pity not to bake the main feature along with them. Perfect for this purpose is "Tuna Bake with Cheese Swirls" — a hot-even dish and a fine companion for steaming baked potatoes.

Gives Recipe For Tasty Toffee Squares

Toffee squares. Here's a bar cookie with that rich toffee flavor, perfect with a cup of coffee or a glass of milk. These bear a quick chocolate icing. Near the end of baking, chocolate chips are placed over the batter. When melted they are easily spread over the cookies.

Toffee Squares

¾ cup lard; 1 cup brown sugar; 1 egg; 1 teaspon vanilla; 2 cups sifted enriched flour; ½ tespoon salt; 8 to 12 ounces chocolate chips; 1 cup chopped nuts.

Cream lard and sugar until light and fluffy. Add egg and blend. Add vanilla. Sift flour and salt together and add, mixing thoroughly. Spread batter on ungreased pan 10 x 15 inches. Bake in a moderately hot oven (350°F.) for 20 minutes. Top with chocolate chips, melt in oven 5 minutes. Spread chocolate, sprinkle with nuts. Cut while warm. Yield: 40 cookies.

Fruited Lamb Patties

1 pound ground lamb; 2 slices bacon; 4 cooked prunes, pitted; ½ cup crushed corn flakes; 1 egg; 1 teaspoon salt; ½ cup milk.

Chop bacon, cook until crisp and fill center of prunes. Combine lamb, corn flakes, egg, salt and milk; mix well. Divide mixture into fourths, and shape each patty around a stuffed prune. Place patties on broiler rack. Insert broiler pan allowing 2 inches between heat and surface of meat. Broil patties on one side until they are brown. 8 to 10 minutes. Turn and brown on second side.
4 servings.

Banana Fritters

1 cup sifted enriched flour; 2 teaspoons baking powder; 1¼ teaspoons salt; ¼ cup sugar; ⅓ cup milk; 1 egg, beaten; 2 teaspoons melted lard; 3 to 4 firm bananas; 2 tablespoons enriched flour; Lard for deep-fat frying.

Sift flour, baking powder, salt and sugar together. Combine milk, egg and lard. Add to dry ingredients and mix until batter is smooth. Cut each banana into 3 or 4 diagonal pieces. Roll in flour and dip in batter. Fry in deep hot lard (360°F.), turning frequently for even browning. Remove and drain on absorbent paper. 6 to 8 servings.

Tops In Nutritive Value

The most nutritious variety meats (organ meats) are liver and kidneys. These contain large amounts of iron and B vitamins and frequently are recommended by doctors for inclusion in the diet.

Questions often arise on the preparation of these two meats. Here's a summary which may be helpful:

Liver: Calves, young steer and lamb liver may be broiled or pan-fried. Beef and pork liver should be cooked by braising (browning, then cooking slowly until tender in a covered skillet).

Kidneys: Lamb and veal kidneys may be broiled or pan-fried. Beef and pork need long, slow cooking with added moisture.

Candy Marble Slab

3½ cups white sugar
1 cup white syrup
1 cup water

Cook until candy reaches 290 degrees.

Color and flavor to suit own taste. 1 teaspoon of flavoring is recommended. Grease marble slab with shortning and also grease scissors. Pour mixture on the slab. Cut in strips, roll in hands and cut into small pieces. Begin cutting on outer edge and work fast as candy gets hard quickly. Roll in powdered sugar to keep from sticking. It takes about 15 minutes to make one recipe.

Spring luncheons, showers, teas, keep the homemaker very busy. Be grateful for the helpful baker. You have to leave out dessert from the dinner or hot rolls from the luncheon. Take advantage of the wide variety of cakes, pies, cookies, breads and rolls he has to offer.

IN ITALY IT'S 'TUTTI FRUTTI VITAMIN HATS'

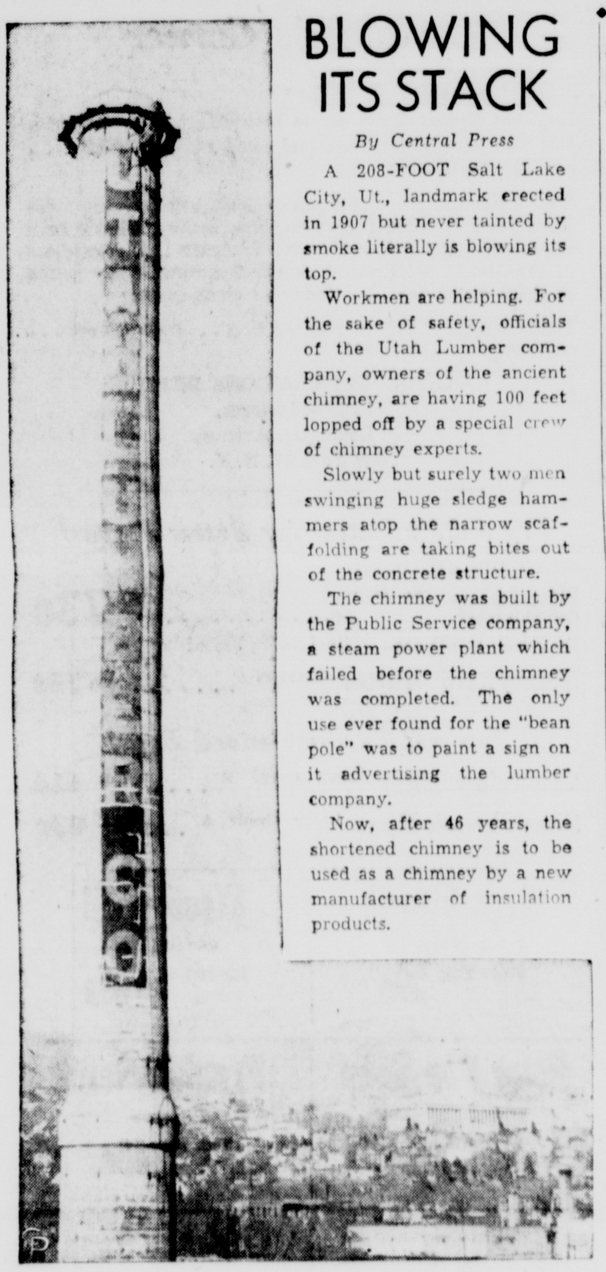
EARLY BIRD TOURISTS in Rome this year are getting an eyeful of Italy's latest—"Vitamin Hats." The "Tutti Fruttis" were exhibited at an exclusive fashion showing at swank Hotel Hassler. The adornments come in a tasty array of carrots, artichokes, peaches, peppers, asparagus, broccoli, figs and many other delicacies adored by vegetarians—at least eaten by vegetarians. (International)

Edie Jones, Chicago, chooses peppers; Gudrun Henkle, Germany, takes fig leaves; Agnes von Rosen, Sweden, tries asparagus.

Edie Jones with peaches.

Asparagus for Maria Hassler.

Here Gudrun Henkel tries a straw of purple artichokes. Agnes von Rosen of Stockholm wears a man's kelly with yellow carrots.



BLOWING ITS STACK

By Central Press

A 208-FOOT Salt Lake City, Ut., landmark erected in 1907 but never tainted by smoke literally is blowing its top.

Workmen are helping. For the sake of safety, officials of the Utah Lumber company, owners of the ancient chimney, are having 100 feet lopped off by a special crew of chimney experts.

Slowly but surely two men swinging huge sledge hammers atop the narrow scaffolding are taking bites out of the concrete structure.

The chimney was built by the Public Service company, a steam power plant which failed before the chimney was completed. The only use ever found for the "bean pole" was to paint a sign on it advertising the lumber company.

Now, after 46 years, the shortened chimney is to be used as a chimney by a new manufacturer of insulation products.

Spicy Apple Sardine Sandwiches

2 cans sardines (3¼ oz. size)
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1 firm red apple
mayonnaise
salt and pepper
12 thin slices white or rye bread

Mash sardines and mix with Worcestershire sauce and lemon juice. Peel and core apple, then grate or chop finely and stir into sardines. Mix with enough mayonnaise to moisten well and season to taste with sale and pepper. Spread between thin slices of buttered white or rye bread. 6 sandwiches.

Sardine Toast-Poached Eggs

1 can sardines (3¼ oz. size)
1 cup chopped onions
½ cup chopped green pepper
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon lemon juice
6 eggs

Saute onions and green pepper in butter or margarine until golden but not browned. Carefully add the drained sardines and the remaining ingredients. Cook slowly for 1½ minutes, until sardines are heated through.

Poach eggs. Place sardine mixture on toasted English muffins or toast rounds. Place eggs on top of the sardine mixture. Serve immediately. 6 servings.

Frankfurter Quickie

Frankfurters, a sure bet for flavor and economy, are teamed here with whole kernel corn for a tasty 20-minute main dish.

E-Z Franks with Corn

1 pound frankfurters
¼ cup bacon drippings, butter or margarine
¼ cup chopped onion
½ cup chopped green pepper
3 cups whole kernel corn (2 12-oz. cans)

Heat fat in a large skillet and in it lightly brown onions and green pepper. Drain corn and add. Split frankfurters lengthwise, almost but not quite through; place on top of corn. Cover and cook over low heat for 20 minutes. 4 servings.

Famous Meat Pie

Beef and Kidney Pie

1 beef kidney
1½ pounds beef stew meat
Flour, fat
2 medium onions, chopped
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
2½ cups water
½ standard recipe pie pastry

Soak kidney in cold, salted water for ½ hour; split and remove fat and heavy veins. Cut stew meat and kidney into 1-inch cubes. Flour meats and brown thoroughly in a little hot fat in a heavy pan. Add onions, seasonings and water. Simmer 2 hours. Thicken with 1 tablespoon four mixed to a paste with a little water. Pour into a greased 1½ quart casserole and top with pastry. (Roll out crust ½ inch larger than top of casserole. Press edges firmly against sides and slit top in several places.) Bake 30 minutes at 425°F. 6 servings.

Cereal Dessert

A hearty dessert may be the final touch to a light meal needs. This pudding is easily made and nutritious, too. Alternate layers of cooked whole wheat cereal with raisins and very thin slices of raw apple. Sprinkle each layer lightly with sugar and some grated orange rind, then bake in a slow oven (325°F.) until apples are tender. Serve with milk or cream.

Sardines In Lemon Barbecue Sauce

2 cans Sardines (3¼ oz. size)
1 clove garlic, sliced
½ cup lemon juice
3 slices lemon, cut in quarters
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon celery salt
½ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon thyme

Combine all ingredients except sardines. Let stand 24 hours. Drain sardines. Heat gently in the sauce. Remove carefully and place on toast. Pour hot lemon barbecue sauce over sardines. 4 servings.

IN ITALY IT'S 'TUTTI FRUTTI VITAMIN HATS'

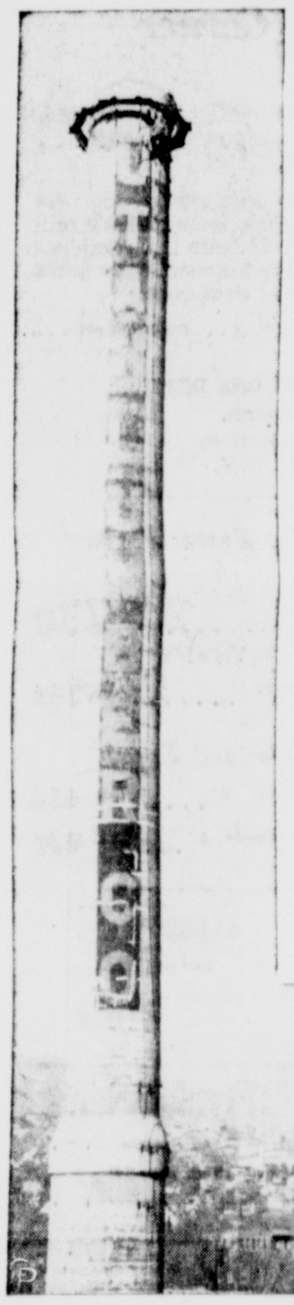
EARLY BIRD TOURISTS in Rome this year are getting an eyeful of Italy's latest—"Vitamin Hats." The "Tutti Fruttis" were exhibited at an exclusive fashion showing at swank Hotel Hassler. The adornments come in a tasty array of carrots, artichokes, peaches, peppers, asparagus, broccoli, figs and many other delicacies adored by vegetarians—at least eaten by vegetarians. (International)

Edie Jones, Chicago, chooses peppers; Gudrun Henkle, Germany, takes fig leaves; Agnes von Rosen, Sweden, tries asparagus.

Edie Jones with peaches.

Asparagus for Maria Hassler.

Here Gudrun Henkel tries a straw of purple artichokes. Agnes von Rosen of Stockholm wears a man's kelly with yellow carrots.



BLOWING ITS STACK

By Central Press

A 208-FOOT Salt Lake City, Ut., landmark erected in 1907 but never tainted by smoke literally is blowing its top.

Workmen are helping. For the sake of safety, officials of the Utah Lumber company, owners of the ancient chimney, are having 100 feet lopped off by a special crew of chimney experts.

Slowly but surely two men swinging huge sledge hammers atop the narrow scaffolding are taking bites out of the concrete structure.

The chimney was built by the Public Service company, a steam power plant which failed before the chimney was completed. The only use ever found for the "bean pole" was to paint a sign on it advertising the lumber company.

Now, after 46 years, the shortened chimney is to be used as a chimney by a new manufacturer of insulation products.

Spicy Apple Sardine Sandwiches

2 cans sardines (3¼ oz. size)
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1 firm red apple
mayonnaise
salt and pepper
12 thin slices white or rye bread

Mash sardines and mix with Worcestershire sauce and lemon juice. Peel and core apple, then grate or chop finely and stir into sardines. Mix with enough mayonnaise to moisten well and season to taste with sale and pepper. Spread between thin slices of buttered white or rye bread. 6 sandwiches.

Sardine Toast-Poached Eggs

1 can sardines (3¼ oz. size)
1 cup chopped onions
½ cup chopped green pepper
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon lemon juice
6 eggs

Saute onions and green pepper in butter or margarine until golden but not browned. Carefully add the drained sardines and the remaining ingredients. Cook slowly for 1½ minutes, until sardines are heated through.

Poach eggs. Place sardine mixture on toasted English muffins or toast rounds. Place eggs on top of the sardine mixture. Serve immediately. 6 servings.

Frankfurter Quickie

Frankfurters, a sure bet for flavor and economy, are teamed here with whole kernel corn for a tasty 20-minute main dish.

E-Z Franks with Corn

1 pound frankfurters
¼ cup bacon drippings, butter or margarine
¼ cup chopped onion
½ cup chopped green pepper
3 cups whole kernel corn (2 12-oz. cans)

Heat fat in a large skillet and in it lightly brown onions and green pepper. Drain corn and add. Split frankfurters lengthwise, almost but not quite through; place on top of corn. Cover and cook over low heat for 20 minutes. 4 servings.

Famous Meat Pie

Beef and Kidney Pie

1 beef kidney
1½ pounds beef stew meat
Flour, fat
2 medium onions, chopped
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
2½ cups water
½ standard recipe pie pastry

Soak kidney in cold, salted water for ½ hour; split and remove fat and heavy veins. Cut stew meat and kidney into 1-inch cubes. Flour meats and brown thoroughly in a little hot fat in a heavy pan. Add onions, seasonings and water. Simmer 2 hours. Thicken with 1 tablespoon four mixed to a paste with a little water. Pour into a greased 1½ quart casserole and top with pastry. (Roll out crust ½ inch larger than top of casserole. Press edges firmly against sides and slit top in several places.) Bake 30 minutes at 425°F. 6 servings.

Cereal Dessert

A hearty dessert may be the final touch to a light meal needs. This pudding is easily made and nutritious, too. Alternate layers of cooked whole wheat cereal with raisins and very thin slices of raw apple. Sprinkle each layer lightly with sugar and some grated orange rind, then bake in a slow oven (325°F.) until apples are tender. Serve with milk or cream.

GRIN AND BEAR IT — By Lichty

". . . Outside of doing dishes, washing her own clothes and cleaning up her own room, Hazel wants to lead her own life! . . ."

"Haven't you a stock that's more self-sufficient? . . . something that won't go up or down every time Russia does something."

Sardines In Lemon Barbecue Sauce

2 cans Sardines (3¼ oz. size)
1 clove garlic, sliced
½ cup lemon juice
3 slices lemon, cut in quarters
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon celery salt
½ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon thyme

Combine all ingredients except sardines. Let stand 24 hours. Drain sardines. Heat gently in the sauce. Remove carefully and place on toast. Pour hot lemon barbecue sauce over sardines. 4 servings.

Steaks To Your Liking

America's idea of a top-notch meal is a broiled steak dinner. Present plentiful beef supplies mean that you can have this treat without too much damage to the budget. Next time you plan to serve thick, juicy steaks, remember these important pointers on buying and cooking them:

1. Choose steaks which have a good coating of fat and even distribution or "marbling" of fat throughout the lean.
2. For broiling, have steaks cut 1 to 2 inches thick.
3. Before broiling the steak, slash edges of fat in several places.
4. Gauge the distance between the source of heat and the meat according to the degree of doneness desired and the trickness of the steak. The thicker the steak, or the more thoroughly it is to be cooked, the farther it should be placed from the broiling unit. (If range does not allow sufficient distance, lower heat.)
5. Broil one side to desired doneness; season with salt and pepper. Turn and continue broiling; season second side. Serve immediately.

Canadian-Style Bacon With Banana Fritters

8 slices Canadian-style bacon, cut ½ inch thick; Banana fritters.

Place Canadian-style bacon on broiler rack. Insert broiler rack and pan in broiler so that the top surface of the meat is 2 to 3 inches from the heat. When the bacon is nicely browned, about 5 to 6 minutes, turn and brown other side Allow 8 to 10 minutes total broiling time. 4 servings.

Beef-Vegetable Casserole

1 pound ground beef
2 tablespoons lard or drippings
½ cup chopped onion
1 green pepper, sliced
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 No. 1 can whole kernel corn, drained
4 tomatoes, sliced
¼ cup dry bread crumbs
1 teaspoon butter or margarine

Saute onion and green pepper for 3 minutes in lard or drippings. Add meat and brown. Pour off drippings. Season. Remove from heat. Place ½ of the corn in the bottom of a 2-quart casserole. Add half of meat mixture and then a layer of tomato. Repeat layers. Add bread crumbs to melted butter or margarine, sprinkle over casserole Bake in a slow oven (300° F.) for 40 minutes. 6 servings.

Quantity Serving With Canned Ham

Church supper, family reunion or any time when you have a group to serve here's an answer to your meat dish — a canned ham topped with a pineapple glaze.

You can plan on 30 to 40 servings from an 8 to 12 pound canned ham. When you buy the ham here's what to do. Have your retailer slice it into ⅛ to ¼ inch slices. Then ask him to tie the slices with a string back into its original shape. This way he can place the ham in the container, making it convenient to carry and to store in the refrigerator.

Plan time for heating the ham by allowing 10 to 12 minutes per pound. Place the ham on a rack in an open roasting pan For the glaze pour 1 small can of crushed pineapple over the meat. Set the oven regulator at 350° F. and keep at this temperature throughout. Baste frequently with the juice.

To serve, place the ham on a large platter and cut the string. Attractively arrange the meat and garnish with spiced crabapples and parsley for a tempting buffet serving. Or if preferred place the slices directly on individual plates.

Pork Chop Casserole

6 pork chops; 1 cup rice; ½ green pepper, diced; 2 tablespoons grated onion; 1½ teaspoons salt; ¼ teaspoon pepper; 3 cups cooked or canned tomatoes; Water, as needed.

Brown the pork chops in their own fat in frying pan. Remove the chops and add rice and brown lightly. Combine browned rice with green pepper, onion and seasonings in a casserole. Add tomatoes. Place browned chops on top, cover and cook in a moderate oven (350°F.) for 1½ hours. As rice absorbs the liquid, it may be necessary to lift casserole cover and add water. 6 servings.

Liver Loaf With Carrots

2 pounds sliced beef liver
2 tablespoons lard or drippings; 1 small onion; ½ cup pork sausage; 2 eggs, slightly beaten; 1 cup milk; 1¾ cups soft bread crumbs; 1 teaspoon salt; 2 large carrots, cooked.

Remove membrane from liver and cook in hot lard or drippings until lightly browned on each side about five minutes. Grind liver and onion, combine with sausage, eggs, milk and bread crumbs. Season. Cut each carrot into 3 lengthwise strips. Pack a layer of the liver mixture on the bottom of a greased loaf pan 5 x 9 inches. Lay 3 strips of carrot lengthwise on top. Cover with another layer of the liver mixture, 3 more carrot strips and top with the remaining liver mixture. Bake in a slow oven (300°F.) for 1 hour. 6 to 8 servings.

Lamb Cuts Take To Spring Foods

Although lamb is available the year around, many homemakers find it especially appealing in spring. The various cuts, more than a dozen, lend themselves to tempting combinations with spring foods. There are lamb cuts for every cookery method—for roasting, for broiling, braising and cooking in liquid.

One of the most famous of all lamb cuts is the leg of lamb. Served with parsleyed new potatoes and hot buttered asparagus a tossed garden salad and mint jelly, your meal becomes an occasion.

A slightly smaller lamb roast is the shoulder. It contains bone which makes it difficult to carve, but this may be easily overcome.

Your market man can bone and roll the roast or leave it flat, sewing around all but one edge. In the pocket that is formed may be placed a savory stuffing such as mint or orange. Then the open side may be sewed and the meat cooked uncovered, the same as any other roast.

In mentioning lamb chops, rib and loin chops are usually the first considered. But not to be overlooked are shoulder chops. These are tender enough to be broiled. Tomatoes, sliced in half and topped with grated sharp cheese, make an ideal accompaniment for the chops. Add the tomatoes to the broiler when the chops are turned.

For braising choose lamb riblets. The riblets are prepared from a lamb breast. These are grand prepared in a barbecue or tomato sauce. As for cooking in liquid, stews and pies are a perfect way of combining lamb and spring vegetables.

Spicy Ham

Try this tempting variation with a ham slice. Place the meat in a baking dish and add cinnamon-clove spiced peach juice. Allow ham to cook in a 300° F. oven for 45 minutes, basting occasionally with the peach juice.

Beef and Bologna Pie

1½ pounds beef stew meat; 1 medium onion; 2 cups bouillon; ¾ cup diced bologna; 1 to 1½ cups diced cooked carrots; ⅛ teaspoon marjoram; ½ recipe lard-made pastry.

Cut meat into 1½ inch cubes; flour and brown well in 3 tablespoons hot fat. Cook chopped onions in the fat until soft. Add bouillon and simmer until tender, 2 to 2½ hours. Add one-half cup more water, if needed. Add bologna, carrots and marjoram. Pour into 1 quart casserole and cover with pastry. Slit crust in several places and press edges firmly against sides. Bake in a hot oven, 425°F., for 25 minutes or until crust is browned. 4 servings.

Seasonal Recipes

Ham And Sweet Potato Patties

2 cups cooked, chopped ham
2 cups mashed sweet potatoes
¼ cup milk
1 egg, slightly beaten
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon nutmeg
⅛ teaspoon cinnamon
½ cup finely cut pineapple
2 cups corn flakes
2 tablespoons melted shortening

Combine ham, sweet potatoes, milk, egg, seasonings and pineapple. Shape into 12 patties about 2½-inches in diameter. Crush corn flakes into medium fine crumbs. Roll patties in crumbs and arrange in greased shallow pan. Sprinkle with melted shortening. Bake in moderate oven (375° F.) 15 to 20 minutes.

Yield: 6 servings.

Bran Cornbread With Bacon

1 egg
¼ cup sugar
1½ cups milk
1 cup ready-to-eat bran
¼ lb. (6 slices) uncooked bacon, diced
¾ cup cornmeal
1½ cups sifted flour
4½ teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt

Blend egg and sugar; stir in milk, bran and cornmeal; let stand 5 minutes. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Stir into first mixture. Spread in greased 9 x 9 inch pan. Arrange diced bacon on top. Bake in moderately hot oven (400° F.) about 30 minutes. If crust and bacon are not browned, put under broiler for a few minutes.

Yield: 9 3-inch squares.

Novel Stuffed Squash

In keeping with your New Year's resolution to manage the budget with a firmer hand, why not turn to economical pork sausage? One favorite pork sausage dinner dish is stuffed baked acorn squash. Here's a novel way of preparing it using crushed pineapple with the sausage.

Sausage Stuffed Acorn Squash

2 acorn squash; 1 pound pork sausage meat; 4 tablespoons brown sugar; Salt and pepper; 1 9-oz. can crushed pineapple.

Cut squash in half lengthwise and remove seeds. Turn halves face down in a shallow baking pan and bake in a moderate oven, 350°F., for 35 minutes. In the meantime, shape pork sausage into four patties which will fit the squash hollows and lightly brown in a skillet. Turn squash face side up and season with salt and pepper. In each squash, place 1 tablespoon brown sugar and one-fourth of the pineapple; top with a sausage patty. Return squash to oven and bake 15 minutes; turn sausage patty and continue baking 15 minutes, or until squash is tender.

The red fruit of the Tartarian honeysuckle bush makes robins drunk.

Try Spaghetti Mexicali

For a handsome meal-on-a-platter, combine a can each of spaghetti and chili. Use the 15½-ounce can of spaghetti in tomato sauce with cheese, and the 2-pound can of chili. Gently blend the two and heat well. This combination is high in flavor appeal. Serve it with a lettuce and radish salad; buttered toast; and dessert of grapefruit and banana compote.

ELIMINATE THE GUESS

THERE are two good reasons for not raising a minor suit bid on the first round if you are able to bid any other suit soundly. So long as that suit is of four cards and contains a probable stopper if it be led by the opponents, naming it may be the key to a No Trump contract. That can be important, even if the suit you bid is the other minor. There is still another reason for such a bid if the suit is a major. It may find a four-card fit with your partner and steer the side into a profitable major game, whereas a minor contract of eleven tricks could not be made.

See how comfortably South reached a No Trump game at table 1, where his partner bid the diamonds on his first turn. South knew, when that was passed to him, that he had one or more stoppers in every suit, so bid 1-No Trump with confidence, and was ready to go to game when North then showed just enough for a single raise. He made it, of course, as did every other pair in the game which reached the same contract. Five tricks in clubs and three in hearts followed the first in spades, after West led the 5 of that suit.

At several tables in the big duplicate game was reached as indicated in the second sequence above. South bid No Trumps on his second turn though he had no information about any diamond stoppers. He did it on probabilities, taking a chance that the opponents couldn't run the suit. But it was a chance North could have ended.

There were several instances of North raising the 1-Club, South rebidding it to three and North then passing, whereupon a game was lost.

Using The Spice Of Life

AP Newsfeatures

What's a pepper grinder between friends?

Sometimes it can bring a proposal of marriage.

Before you scoff, consider the use of herbs, condiments and spices when you are beating a path to the altar via that man's stomach. It may mean the difference between spinsterhood and marriage. Or holding your husband. It certainly is the difference between good and bad cooking.

Some women fear spices because they don't know how to use them. Market tests prove that only three out of every ten American women get the most out of available cooking spices.

There are more than two dozen spices that are practically unknown to the average housewife. One recent survey of consumers indicated that only 20 out of 1600 families said they used basil, only 81 used marjoram, 20 used oregano, 141 used pickling spice.

Pepper, mustard, nutmeg, cinnamon, cloves and celery salt are the standard spices of most women. Yet a spice like oregano is practically indispensable to any Italian dish such as pizza, veal scallopini, veal parmaggiana, and pasta sauce. It is a delightful seasoning for chile con carne, and adds a tang to stuffings.

What are some other uses of spices. List them this way:

Basil—A spicy, sweet, warm flavor that blends well with tomatoes. It is a basic ingredient of spaghetti sauce, salads, salad dressings, vegetable juice cocktails. It adds tang to soups, stews, fish sauces, cheese and egg dishes. A few basil leaves in new potatoes is a taste treat.

Marjoram—An aromatic herb of the mint family, it adds wonderful flavor to vegetables, particularly lima beans, peas, string beans and spinach. It peps up cream sauces, cream soups, and is a zippy fillip in egg, fish and cheese dishes. A dash of it on beef, lamb, pork or veal before roasting will surprise your guests.

Pickling Spice — A blend of various spices is used for pickling and preserving. But one tablespoon of it added to boiling beets, cabbage and sauerkraut brings out true flavor. A bag of this spice put in stew for a while, then removed, offers an unusual taste. Here are more tips on lesser used spices. Try them and see if it doesn't make cooking more fun.

Anise — Sprinkle it on coffee cakes and sweet rolls to lend a mild licorice flavor.

Bay Leaves — Use one or two when cooking chowder. It is a pungent leaf, so use it sparingly.

Caraway Seeds — Try mixing with cottage cheese.

Cardamon Seeds — Wonderful flavor for demi-tasse of coffee. These are the seeds which give danish pastry their unusual flavor.

Cinnamon—Use a stick of it as a muddler or stirrer for after-dinner coffee.

Coriander—Add it to the batter of ginger bread for an unusual flavor.

Fennel—It gives apple pie a new taste appeal.

Cummin Seed—Add it to the yolk of your stuffed eggs.

Mace—Break it in small pieces and add it to raisin sauce. It will give a softer but similar flavor to nutmeg. A dash of it (or nutmeg) on turnips is a zesty treat.

Rosemary—It is a spiky, sweetish herb. Add it to the water when cooking cauliflower. But use it sparingly.

Savory—Use it when tossing a green salad for a new kind of taste.

Merry-Go-Round

Hungarian independence day, when Carl Marzani, former States Department official who went to jail for lying about his Communist affiliation, harangued a group at the Barbizon Plaza Hotel in New York. After the meeting, propaganda literature was sold under the supervision of Hungarian Minister Emil Weil.

The Hungarian government also operates a book merchandising setup in the United States, which handles several thousand Hungarian books a year. The revenue from all these sales is estimated at about $300,000 a month. Since it takes only a fraction of this amount to operate the Hungarian legation, a huge fund is left over for propaganda and undercover organization among Hungarian-Americans.

The secret operations of the Hungarian legation are important because approximately the same system applies to other satellite diplomatic establishments — the Czechs, Bulgarians, Rumanians, etc.

Originally the job of organizing Hungarian-Americans was entrusted to Tonjanos Florian, secretary of the Hungarian legation. He was so brash in his operations however that the State Department used the trial of Cardinal Mindszenty as an excuse to have him recalled.

Imre Horvath, a Moscow-trained agent of the Hungarian Secret Police, followed. But despite this background, he was too inept to suit Moscow. Under him the circulation of the Hungarian Communist newspaper in the U.S.A., Magyar Govo, dropped from 40,000 to about 3,000.

So Dr. Emil Weil, high up in Communist party circles, was appointed to take his place. His special instructions were: 1, to organize the Moscow peace movement; 2, take advantage of religious differences to stir up as much discord as possible among Hungarian-Americans; and 3, organize Hungarian-Americans into a "1945 bloc." This is the date when Hungary first began its drift toward communism.

This is just part of the underground activities operated by satellite diplomats which the Senate Internal Security Committee could well investigate.

Simple Touches To Brighten Any Breakfast

Why wait 'til the week-end or holiday to make breakfast special? Simple touches can take your meal out of the plain class, making it an outstanding event.

For instance, with the coming of spring have a few fresh flowers from your garden in the center of your table or breakfast bar. Or use a planter of green foliage. Use colorful place mats, the plastic or paper types, if you want to cut down on laundering. To save time for the extra touches, set your breakfast table the evening before.

For a change in your breakfast menu, start with a mixture of chilled fruit juices. Vary this with fresh fruit in season, or a compote of fresh fruits or dried fruits. Surprise the family some morning with preserved figs topped with a dash of sour cream.

Bacon and eggs make any breakfast. For a change combine these two foods in a different way. For instance, outline custard cups with bacon strips, then break an egg in each bacon-lined cup. These take only 8 to 10 minutes, cooking in a moderate oven.

Canadian-style bacon, thinly sliced and panbroiled, provides another ideal breakfast meat. Sausage-links, country-style or patties — lend interest to breakfast. And don't forget the ready helper, chipped beef. Cubed left-over meat — ham, pork, beef or lamb — may be combined with scrambled eggs for still another treat. Remember, however, to cube the meat in advance, then closely wrap with waxed paper or aluminum foil and store in the refrigerator. This makes it ready to use promptly in the early morning rush. And don't overlook the power of a touch of parsley. A bit of green can set off your plate or platter with such little effort.

Put A "B" In Your Bonnet For Breakfast

DON'T let good breakfasting slip away while spring slips in. The beginner meal is equally important no matter what the season, so put a "B" in your bonnet to remind yourself of breakfast each spring day.

Use Breakfast Pattern

Pamper your case of spring fever with a breakfast that's easy to prepare, thrifty yet nutritious, takes a minimum of shopping time, and is appealing to both the eyes and taste buds.

A breakfast based on a pattern of five foods is a good example of these requirements, as well as a profitable way to begin the day. A meal "cut" from the fruit, cereal, milk, bread and butter pattern will help you turn out more work during your lazy morning hours without tiring so easily. Even your mental reactions will be quicker.

First Meal Economical

Here's another thought for your bonnet, too. Breakfast furnishes from ¼ to ⅓ of your day's food supply, yet costs less than the other two daily meals. A recent price study shows that the basic cereal breakfast costs about 15 cents per day, while luncheon was 40 cents, and dinner was 47 cents, as based on the United States Government meal pattern charts.

Today's menu is an example of a morning meal from this basic pattern: orange and grapefruit juice, raisin oatmeal, milk, squares of cornbread and butter. It's all yours for nutritious and thrifty springtime breakfasting.

Hearty Pork, Lima Bean Casserole

Meaty casseroles — these are a type dish favored by many people. Homemakers are no exception for this is a serving that usually combines the dinner meat and vegetables in one dish, cutting down food preparation time.

A good example of a hearty casserole is this combination of smoked shoulder butt and green lima beans. You cook the smoked butt in advance. Simply let it slowly simmer in water to cover (in a heavy utensil with a close fitting cover) for 1½ to 2 hours. Let it cool, then closely wrap and store in the refrigerator until time to prepare the casserole.

To do this, carve the cooked smoked butt into 10 or 12 slices. Place half of these slices in the bottom of an 8 x 11½ inch casserole. In the meantime, cook 2 packages of frozen lima beans. Season with 1 teaspoon salt and 1 cup of sharp grated cheddar cheese. Place the cooked beans over the meat, arranging the remaining meat slices on top. Sprinkle with an additional ½ cup of grated cheese. Heat the casserole in a slow oven (300 degrees F.) for 20 minutes. This makes a casserole sufficient for six generous servings.

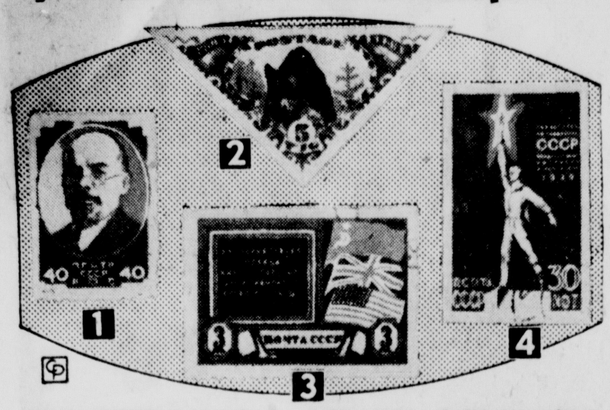
Are Reds Financing Spies By Sales Of Fake Stamps?



SOVIET STAMPS—1—Lenin stamp. 2—Bear stamp. 3—This issue shows flags of U. S., Britain, Soviets together. 4—Russ World's Fair stamp.

By HENRY C. NICHOLAS
Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON — For the last 12 years loyal Americans, entirely innocently, are believed to have been financing the expenses of the Soviet spies in this country. It is a gross piece of international chicanery carried on by a government on a large scale and over a long period of time.

For some years this fact has been well known to high officials in Washington, but aside from breaking off diplomatic relations with the U. S. S. R. there is nothing this government feels it can do about it.

There is no accurate information regarding the amount spent by Russia annually on the maintenance of its espionage organization in this country, an organization which is operated directly from Moscow and as far as possible is kept separate from the government's regular diplomatic channels. Best guess by the most competent authorities is that the sum is around $12 million a year, or about $140 million during the last 12 years.

Big money, but it is a small sum in terms of national expenditure. It is an estimate based on the known methods of Russian espionage and the historically established fact that few of the famous traitors of the world were influenced by payments of large sums of money.

Virtually all of the prominent traitors unearthed by the FBI and the CIA, particularly those working in government circles and on atomic secrets, were discovered to have betrayed their country's secrets merely by promises that fed their vanity — glowing promises made of positions of eminence and power they would hold in the new economic and social world the foreign power, with their help, was planning to establish.

Russia is said to have first become aware of this golden opportunity for obtaining sufficient dollar currency from American citizens to maintain its espionage system in this country, at the 1939 New York's World's Fair.

As a part of its exhibition at the massive Russian Pavilion it placed on display two sets of Russian stamps, one picturing the Russian Pavilion and the other showing a Russian youth holding a torch.

The fact is that neither of these sets of stamps had ever seen Russia. They were made in America, having been printed in New York purely for display purposes.

The Russian exhibitors who apparently had little idea of the number of stamp collectors in this country, were unquestionably greatly surprised at the interest they aroused. Not only was there a large demand for these stamps from visitors at the Fair, but soon orders began pouring in from stamp collectors from all over the United States and other countries.

When the Russian representatives discovered that many dealers and collectors value a stamp more highly if it had canceled, showing it has passed through the mails, the Russian Pavilion within 24 hours placed on sale a large supply of "canceled" stamps.

Stamp dealers noticed at once that these "canceled" stamps had full gum on the back. Had they been legitimately used for mailing, as the cancellation indicated, the gum would have disappeared when the stamps were soaked off the envelope. This was the first evidence of chicanery, which later was developed into a fine art.

Capitalizing on this opportunity to obtain a good supply of badly-needed dollars, the Soviet Philatelic agency was established in Moscow. Other governments have philatelic departments, but the Soviet Philatelic agency soon demonstrated it is a special brand of animal.

While other countries only sell stamps primarily for postal purposes, the stamps issued and sold by the Soviet Philatelic agency have no relation to postal purposes.

Its only object is to extract every dollar possible from foreign countries, and the only stamps in which it deals are those manufactured for sale to foreign collectors.

There is no record of the amount annually paid by stamp dealers and collectors for Russian stamps, because stamps come in duty free. The best estimate by authorities is that the amount varies from $2 million to $20 million a year.

Soviet stamps have been issued to commemorate events and occasions which have never occurred, and in one instance the Soviet agency is believed by stamp dealers to have forged one of its own issues, the Russian stamps issued for famine relief in 1921.

The plates of these stamps are known to have been destroyed by the Germans, but New York dealers are continually being offered supplies, which examination has shown are being issued from forged plates.

Cold war or not, the Soviet Philatelic agency is still selling to American stamp collectors stamps commemorating the long and lasting friendship of Russia for America and England. One of the most popular issues is one showing the American and British flags.

It may hurt the Soviets in thus advertising its great friendship for its former allies, but apparently this hurt disappears at the sound of the dollars tinkling in its till.

In one part of the world or another, human beings consume the milk of 11 different animals.

WESTMINSTER, Md., April 23 (AP)—The Westminster Chamber of Commerce last night presented its 1953 citation to Mrs. Paul A. Wimert, a Carroll County newspaper correspondent for the past 27 years.

The award is not an annual one. It was last presented in 1944 when the Chamber honored George K. Mather, retired merchant who planted the city gardens.

The citation to Mrs. Wimert, first woman of four persons who have received the award, expressed appreciation of her efforts "to further the material prosperity, intellectual advancement and moral improvement of Westminster."

Mrs. Wimert said last night that the honor came as a "surprise."

"It's the most wonderful thing that ever happened to me," she said. Her son, Major Paul M. Wimert, is stationed at Ft. Knox, Ky.

Mrs. Wimert represents The Associated Press, the Hanover, Pa., Sun and the Baltimore Sun in Carroll County.

George 1, one-time king of England, could not speak English.

Ft. Meade Deserter Faces Jail Term For Assaulting Constable

HAGERSTOWN, Md., April 23 (AP)—Pvt. Rufus Guessford, 22-year-old deserter from Fort Meade, Md., faces 82 days in the Washington County Jail for assaulting a constable.

Guessford escaped from the stockade at Fort Meade while awaiting court martial on charges of being absent without leave. As soon as he escaped, the charge was increased to desertion.

Constable W. O. Lum, who picked up the soldier before when he was AWOL, testified before a magistrate yesterday he went to Guessford's home to arrest him again.

Guessford and his 60-year-old father, Jesse, rushed him and grabbed his handcuffs, the constable said. Then father and son fled.

Magistrate Jesse Shank sentenced the soldier to 30 days in jail for the assault and added another 52 days to the sentence when Guessford was unable to pay a $50 fine and costs. A $50 fine also was imposed on the father.

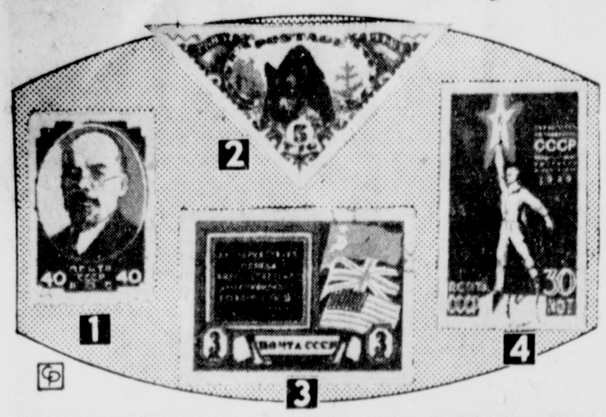
Are Reds Financing Spies By Sales Of Fake Stamps?



SOVIET STAMPS—1—Lenin stamp. 2—Bear stamp. 3—This issue shows flags of U. S., Britain, Soviets together. 4—Russ World's Fair stamp.

Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON — For the last 12 years loyal Americans, entirely innocently, are believed to have been financing the expenses of the Soviet spies in this country. It is a gross piece of international chicanery carried on by a government on a large scale and over a long period of time.

For some years this fact has been well known to high officials in Washington, but aside from breaking off diplomatic relations with the U. S. S. R. there is nothing this government feels it can do about it.

There is no accurate information regarding the amount spent by Russia annually on the maintenance of its espionage organization in this country, an organization which is operated directly from Moscow and as far as possible is kept separate from the government's regular diplomatic channels. Best guess by the most competent authorities is that the sum is around $12 million a year, or about $140 million during the last 12 years.

Big money, but it is a small sum in terms of national expenditure. It is an estimate based on the known methods of Russian espionage and the historically established fact that few of the famous traitors of the world were influenced by payments of large sums of money.

Virtually all of the prominent traitors unearthed by the FBI and the CIA, particularly those working in government circles and on atomic secrets, were discovered to have betrayed their country's secrets merely by promises that fed their vanity — glowing promises made of positions of eminence and power they would hold in the new economic and social world the foreign power, with their help, was planning to establish.

Russia is said to have first become aware of this golden opportunity for obtaining sufficient dollar currency from American citizens to maintain its espionage system in this country, at the 1939 New York's World's Fair.

As a part of its exhibition at the massive Russian Pavilion it placed on display two sets of Russian stamps, one picturing the Russian Pavilion and the other showing a Russian youth holding a torch.

The fact is that neither of these sets of stamps had ever seen Russia. They were made in America, having been printed in New York purely for display purposes.

The Russian exhibitors who apparently had little idea of the number of stamp collectors in this country, were unquestionably greatly surprised at the interest they aroused. Not only was there a large demand for these stamps from visitors at the Fair, but soon orders began pouring in from stamp collectors from all over the United States and other countries.

When the Russian representatives discovered that many dealers and collectors value a stamp more highly if it had canceled, showing it has passed through the mails, the Russian Pavilion within 24 hours placed on sale a large supply of "canceled" stamps.

Stamp dealers noticed at once that these "canceled" stamps had full gum on the back. Had they been legitimately used for mailing, as the cancellation indicated, the gum would have disappeared when the stamps were soaked off the envelope. This was the first evidence of chicanery, which later was developed into a fine art.

Capitalizing on this opportunity to obtain a good supply of badly-needed dollars, the Soviet Philatelic agency was established in Moscow. Other governments have philatelic departments, but the Soviet Philatelic agency soon demonstrated it is a special brand of animal.

While other countries only sell stamps primarily for postal purposes, the stamps issued and sold by the Soviet Philatelic agency have no relation to postal purposes.

Its only object is to extract every dollar possible from foreign countries, and the only stamps in which it deals are those manufactured for sale to foreign collectors.

There is no record of the amount annually paid by stamp dealers and collectors for Russian stamps, because stamps come in duty free. The best estimate by authorities is that the amount varies from $2 million to $20 million a year.

Soviet stamps have been issued to commemorate events and occasions which have never occurred, and in one instance the Soviet agency is believed by stamp dealers to have forged one of its own issues, the Russian stamps issued for famine relief in 1921.

The plates of these stamps are known to have been destroyed by the Germans, but New York dealers are continually being offered supplies, which examination has shown are being issued from forged plates.

Cold war or not, the Soviet Philatelic agency is still selling to American stamp collectors stamps commemorating the long and lasting friendship of Russia for America and England. One of the most popular issues is one showing the American and British flags.

It may hurt the Soviets in thus advertising its great friendship for its former allies, but apparently this hurt disappears at the sound of the dollars tinkling in its till.

In one part of the world or another, human beings consume the milk of 11 different animals.

Woman Newspaper Correspondent Cited

WESTMINSTER, Md., April 23 (AP)—The Westminster Chamber of Commerce last night presented its 1953 citation to Mrs. Paul A. Wimert, a Carroll County newspaper correspondent for the past 27 years.

The award is not an annual one. It was last presented in 1944 when the Chamber honored George K. Mather, retired merchant who planted the city gardens.

The citation to Mrs. Wimert, first woman of four persons who have received the award, expressed appreciation of her efforts "to further the material prosperity, intellectual advancement and moral improvement of Westminster."

Mrs. Wimert said last night that the honor came as a "surprise."

"It's the most wonderful thing that ever happened to me," she said. Her son, Major Paul M. Wimert, is stationed at Ft. Knox, Ky.

Mrs. Wimert represents The Associated Press, the Hanover, Pa., Sun and the Baltimore Sun in Carroll County.

George 1, one-time king of England, could not speak English.

Ft. Meade Deserter Faces Jail Term For Assaulting Constable

HAGERSTOWN, Md., April 23 (AP)—Pvt. Rufus Guessford, 22-year-old deserter from Fort Meade, Md., faces 82 days in the Washington County Jail for assaulting a constable.

Guessford escaped from the stockade at Fort Meade while awaiting court martial on charges of being absent without leave. As soon as he escaped, the charge was increased to desertion.

Constable W. O. Lum, who picked up the soldier before when he was AWOL, testified before a magistrate yesterday he went to Guessford's home to arrest him again.

Guessford and his 60-year-old father, Jesse, rushed him and grabbed his handcuffs, the constable said. Then father and son fled.

Magistrate Jesse Shank sentenced the soldier to 30 days in jail for the assault and added another 52 days to the sentence when Guessford was unable to pay a $50 fine and costs. A $50 fine also was imposed on the father.

LaSalle And Allegany Nines Play At Campobello Today

Campers Seek Third Victory In Conference

Unbeaten Fort Hill, Bruce Will Play At Hyndman, Mt. Savage

Allegany, Fort Hill and Bruce will be angling for their third straight victories in the Bi-State Interscholastic Conference when they swing into action in contests today at Campobello, Mt Savage and Hyndman.

Announcement was made last night that the Allegany - LaSalle game today has been shifted to Campobello and will get under way at 3:30 o'clock.

Not only will the Campers be shooting for win No. 3 in the league but they'll be seeking their initial victory in the triangular intra-city series. In the first city contest staged Wednesday, Fort Hill was returned the winner over LaSalle, 10-4. LaSalle will be striving to crash the win column after suffering two straight reverses.

Hyndman High School will host Augie Eichhorn's unbeaten Bruce High tossers, Fort Hill tests Mt. Savage High on the latter's field and Central High of Lonaconing plays at Flintstone.

Moorefield High's undefeated Yellow Jackets will be after their fifth Potomac Valley Conference triumph when they tackle the Circleville Indians today at Circleville.

Other P.V.C. contests find Capon Bridge at the West Virginia School for the Deaf, Romney; Fort Ashby at Elk Garden and Petersburg at Keyser.

Bill Spivey Is Rejected By Pro Loop

NBA Acts "For Best Interests Of League"

BOSTON, April 23 (AP)—The National Basketball Association today rejected seven foot Bill Spivey, erstwhile University of Kentucky star, as a player in the country's major basketball circuit.

Bill Spivey

Spivey, a high scoring pivot, recently was tried in New York City for perjury in connection with the fixing of basketball scores.

The case was thrown out of court Jan. 27, after the jury was unable to reach a verdict. The jury was unable to reach a verdict. The jury was deadlocked 9-3 for acquittal.

The New York district attorney's office said at that time it had no immediate plans to re-try Spivey.

The NBA board of governors announced their action was "for the best interests of the league."

Spivey had asked permission to appear here with his lawyer but was turned down by NBA President Maurice Podoloff after league officials had studied a report by Asst. Dist. Atty. Vincent O'Connor of New York to Judge Saul Streit.

Spivey, who was captain elect at Kentucky when he quit basketball "until I am cleared," has repeatedly denied involvement in the basketball scandal in which players shaved points in conspiracy with gangsters.

Warren Hacker Limits Braves To Four Blows

Yields Two Homers As Cubs Win, 6 To 2

CHICAGO, April 23 (AP)—Warren Hacker, the Chicago Cubs' 15-game winner last season, pitched a four-hitter today for a 6-2 victory over the Milwaukee Braves who homered twice.

The classy right hander, winning his first game of 1953 after an earlier defeat, served home runs to Andy Pafko, his former Cub teammate, in the second inning and to Third Baseman Ed Mathews in the fourth, each smash coming to lead off the innings.

But after that Hacker was invincible, holding the Braves hitless from the fifth on. He struck out six and walked but one, facing a minimum of 15 batters in the last five frames.

When Pafko parked his first homer of the campaign—a 380 foot poke into the left center bleachers—and Mathews plastered his into right center, the sparse crowd of 6,860 in Wrigley Field thought it might be in for another home run splurge.

But Hacker soon had the situation well in hand and the Cubs backed him with single runs in the fourth and fifth to tie the score then added two in each the sixth and eighth.

Thomas Clouts Grand Slammer As Pirates Win

O'Connell's Triple Defeats Giants, 6-5

PITTSBURGH, April 23 (AP)—Outfielder Frank Thomas belted a bases loaded third inning home run—the first in his major league career—to power the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 6-5 victory today over the New York Giants.

Second Baseman Danny O'connell drove in what proved the winning run with a booming triple to the center field gate in the fifth. The drive scored Ralph Kiner who had singled after two outs.

Southpaw Howie Pollet got credit for the victory but needed help from Johnny Hetki. Pollet gave up all of the Giant runs and nine hits. Dave Koslo, the first of four Giant hurlers, was charged with the loss.

Doubles by Kiner and Catcher Eddie Fitzgerald provided the Pirates' first run in the second. Kiner also collected a single and a walk and scored three runs.

Alvin Dark, the Giant's field captain, collected two doubles and a triple.

Bolyard Fans Ten Potomac Staters

KEYSER, April 23 — Potomac State outhit the home team and pulled a triple and double play today but was unable to shake the losing jinx today as Shepherd College handed the Catamounts their seventh consecutive setback at Shepherdstown by the score of 6-3.

Coach John Maiden's team outhit the Rams, eight to six, but were unable to solve the offerings of Bolyard in the pitches. The Shepherd righthander issued only one pass and struck out 10 batsmen.

Dick Lyons, losing pitcher, collaborated with Bob Lee, Bob Beck and Joe Niedbala to execute Potomac State's first triple killing in four years. Lyons threw out the batter, Niedbala nabbed a runner between second and third and threw to Lyons who put out the third man on his way to the plate. Holder, Niedbala and Lee turned in the double play.

Lee and Holder shared half of State's eight safeties. Bellison, Emory and Wisecarver rapped two-baggers for the Rams.

Potomac State will host Frostburg State Teachers College Saturday at 2 p. m. at Stayman Field. Totten will be on the firing line for the Catamounts. Box:

Oiler Courtmen Were AAU Flops

DENVER—(AP)—When the Phillips 66 Oilers of Bartlesville, Okla., were defeated in the second round by a Eugene, Ore., team this year, it was the first time in 16 years the Oklahomans failed to gain the quarterfinals of the National AAU basketball tournament.

The upset was staged by a team of University of Oregon performers, playing under the colors of a Eugene drugstore. This also was the first year since 1941 that the Oilers failed to land a player on the all-tournament squad.

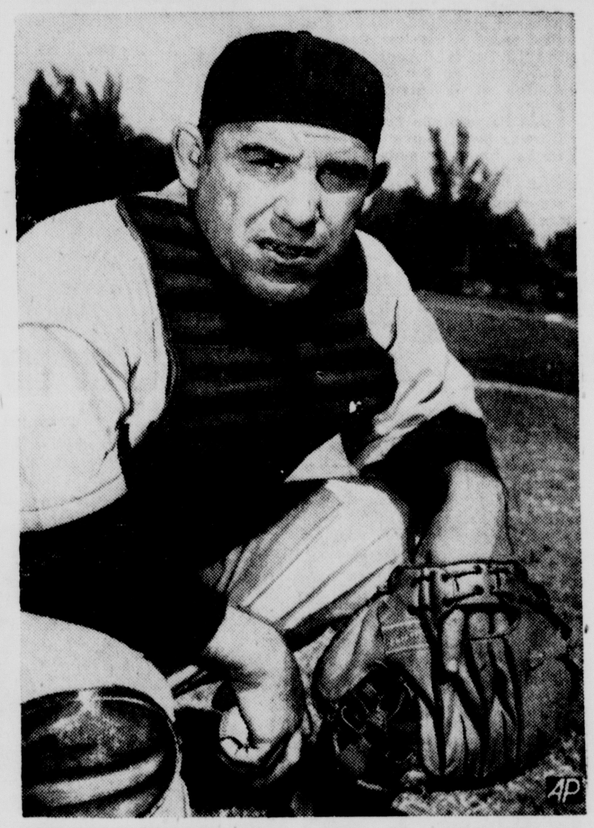
Terp Netmen Win

COLLEGE PARK, Md., April 23 (AP) — The University of Maryland tennis team made its 1953 Southern Conference debut today with a 7-2 victory over William and Mary.



YOGI'S FINGER GRIP—Lawrence Peter (Yogi) Berra of the New York Yankees, rated as the top catcher in the American League, works in a most unorthodox manner. He keeps his index finger outside his mitt, as shown above. When asked why he caught in this fashion, the likable Yogi shrugged his shoulders and said: "It feels comfortable that way. I've always done it and I don't suppose I'll try changing now." The only time he injured the protruding finger was in the third game of the 1952 World Series against the Dodgers. Rookie hurler Tom Gorman tossed the wrong pitch, a fast ball instead of a curve as called for by Yogi. The ball hit Berra's finger and rolled back to the stand as two runners crossed the plate.

As You Were

(This is the 129th in a series of sketches with pictures of well known sport personalities of the past from the album of the Cumberland News Sports Editor. See if you can identify them by their photo.)

A native of Lonaconing, this outfielder played mostly for teams at Midland where he was reared and worked in the mines.

He was noted as a "waiter" and he probably got on base more times on "passes" or by being hit by pitched balls than the average player. Not only was he able to reach base often but he could run like a deer when he got there.

In the Cumberland - Midland championship series of 1919 he played centerfield for the Mighties, was hit twice by pitched balls in the second game and played a prominent part in the 6-5 victory that squared up the count at one-all.

An unusual accident, however, kept him out of the 6th and final game. During batting practice he was awaiting his turn at the plate and was hit full in the face by a wildly thrown ball and knocked unconscious. The ball that put him out of commission was uncorked by Emmett Flynn, present Cumberland police chief, and then Colts' pitcher, who was warming up on the sidelines.

Fans who saw that game will recall the "rhubarb" in which Manager Raymond "Ike" Law of the Colts lost his temper in the ninth inning. It seems that the ball Charley Dye was pitching was not white enough to suit Law so "Ike" got possession of it and heaved it over the fence into the adjoining N. & G. Taylor Tin Mill yard. Dye won anyway with a new ball, 3-1.

Other players on the Midland roster that season included Yost, Doyle, Riggins, Shearer, McNeill, Beeman, Chapman and Grove.

The player pictured here started his diamond career as a catcher with the Sod Busters at Ocean almost 45 years ago. Jimmy McGuire, however, converted him into an outfielder because of his speed after he joined Midland in 1912. That season he played with the Midland team that won a championship series from Piedmont. He also played for Midland clubs piloted by Dick Stakem and Price Poland and was at Frostburg when J. Glenn Beall and Frank Spates handled the reins.

In the 1930's he managed St. Patrick's of Mt. Savage to the championship of the County Holy Name League when Francis Dickle was his pitching ace. He has resided in Mt. Savage since 1922 and as late as 1945 was the catcher on the Town softball team there.

Can you name him?

He is Joe Nolan, 61, whose three sons are well known. Billy has been in military service for 11 years and is now in the Air Corps, John resides in Pittsburgh, and Joe, Jr., of Mt. Savage, former secretary of the Pen-Mar Baseball League, now employed by the Cumberland Cement and Supply Company, has a son in the Mt. Savage Little League. The photo of Joe, Sr., was taken at Midland 41 years ago.

Blaik Mourns Abolishment Of Grid Platoons

Fears Colleges Gave Pros Crowd-Pleaser

WEST POINT, N. Y., April 23 (AP) — Army's Coach Earl (Red) Blaik said today he is afraid college football passed the crowd-pleasing initiative to the pros when it killed the platoon system.

"It'll be interesting to see how the fans react to this slower, draggier game," he added. "After riding around in those souped-up machines, they may not be content to go back to the old model-T."

A bitter opponent of the completely unexpected rules change which wiped out the platoon system, Blaik said he doubts there will be any early shift back to unlimited substitutions.

"I imagine we are stuck with this rule for a few years at least," he added. "The men who made the change won't be ready to admit their mistake even if they recognize it."

The West Point taskmaster winds up spring practice at the Academy this week and he says it's been a harrowing experience.

"We have had to remake completely our plans," he said. "We have had to turn tackles into fullbacks, guards into ends and so forth to get a squad which can play both offense and defense.

It's been tough. This rules change will put a much bigger gap between the schools with large squads, such as Michigan State, Southern California, Michigan and Notre Dame, and those with limited material.

"The big, well-stocked teams can continue to use platoons — shock troops shoved in at every period. It's the little fellows who will suffer. They'll be whipped out after a few minutes of play against constantly refreshed forces."

Shantz Notches First Triumph Over Senators

WASHINGTON, April 23 (AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics overcame a 4-0 deficit to turn back the Washington Senators today and give Bobby Shantz his first victory of the year. Home runs by Gus Zernial and Eddie Joost helped the A's in their uphill fight to win 6-4.

Shantz, the American League's most valuable player last year, lost his first two starts to the New York Yankees and seemed on the way to his third straight defeat before he settled down after yielding four runs in the first four innings.

Zernial's homer in the fifth and Joost's in the sixth sliced the A's deficit to 4-2. They produced two runs in the seventh when Elmer Valo walked and Zernial, Pete Suder and Joe Astroth singled.

Philadelphia bragged a 5-4 lead in the eighth after Dave Philley reached first when Mickey Vernon bobbled his grounder. A sacrifice, a single and fly to the outfield brought him around.

The A's added a clincher run in the ninth on a walk and a triple by Philley.

NBA Acts "For Best Interests Of League"

BOSTON, April 23 (AP)—The National Basketball Association today rejected seven foot Bill Spivey, erstwhile University of Kentucky star, as a player in the country's major basketball circuit.

Bill Spivey

Spivey, a high scoring pivot, recently was tried in New York City for perjury in connection with the fixing of basketball scores.

The case was thrown out of court Jan. 27, after the jury was unable to reach a verdict. The jury was unable to reach a verdict. The jury was deadlocked 9-3 for acquittal.

The New York district attorney's office said at that time it had no immediate plans to re-try Spivey.

The NBA board of governors announced their action was "for the best interests of the league."

Spivey had asked permission to appear here with his lawyer but was turned down by NBA President Maurice Podoloff after league officials had studied a report by Asst. Dist. Atty. Vincent O'Connor of New York to Judge Saul Streit.

Spivey, who was captain elect at Kentucky when he quit basketball "until I am cleared," has repeatedly denied involvement in the basketball scandal in which players shaved points in conspiracy with gangsters.

Warren Hacker Limits Braves To Four Blows

Yields Two Homers As Cubs Win, 6 To 2

CHICAGO, April 23 (AP)—Warren Hacker, the Chicago Cubs' 15-game winner last season, pitched a four-hitter today for a 6-2 victory over the Milwaukee Braves who homered twice.

The classy right hander, winning his first game of 1953 after an earlier defeat, served home runs to Andy Pafko, his former Cub teammate, in the second inning and to Third Baseman Ed Mathews in the fourth, each smash coming to lead off the innings.

But after that Hacker was invincible, holding the Braves hitless from the fifth on. He struck out six and walked but one, facing a minimum of 15 batters in the last five frames.

When Pafko parked his first homer of the campaign—a 380 foot poke into the left center bleachers—and Mathews plastered his into right center, the sparse crowd of 6,860 in Wrigley Field thought it might be in for another home run splurge.

But Hacker soon had the situation well in hand and the Cubs backed him with single runs in the fourth and fifth to tie the score then added two in each the sixth and eighth.

Thomas Clouts Grand Slammer As Pirates Win

O'Connell's Triple Defeats Giants, 6-5

PITTSBURGH, April 23 (AP)—Outfielder Frank Thomas belted a bases loaded third inning home run—the first in his major league career—to power the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 6-5 victory today over the New York Giants.

Second Baseman Danny O'connell drove in what proved the winning run with a booming triple to the center field gate in the fifth. The drive scored Ralph Kiner who had singled after two outs.

Southpaw Howie Pollet got credit for the victory but needed help from Johnny Hetki. Pollet gave up all of the Giant runs and nine hits. Dave Koslo, the first of four Giant hurlers, was charged with the loss.

Doubles by Kiner and Catcher Eddie Fitzgerald provided the Pirates' first run in the second. Kiner also collected a single and a walk and scored three runs.

Alvin Dark, the Giant's field captain, collected two doubles and a triple.

Bolyard Fans Ten Potomac Staters

KEYSER, April 23 — Potomac State outhit the home team and pulled a triple and double play today but was unable to shake the losing jinx today as Shepherd College handed the Catamounts their seventh consecutive setback at Shepherdstown by the score of 6-3.

Coach John Maiden's team outhit the Rams, eight to six, but were unable to solve the offerings of Bolyard in the pitches. The Shepherd righthander issued only one pass and struck out 10 batsmen.

Dick Lyons, losing pitcher, collaborated with Bob Lee, Bob Beck and Joe Niedbala to execute Potomac State's first triple killing in four years. Lyons threw out the batter, Niedbala nabbed a runner between second and third and threw to Lyons who put out the third man on his way to the plate. Holder, Niedbala and Lee turned in the double play.

Lee and Holder shared half of State's eight safeties. Bellison, Emory and Wisecarver rapped two-baggers for the Rams.

Potomac State will host Frostburg State Teachers College Saturday at 2 p. m. at Stayman Field. Totten will be on the firing line for the Catamounts. Box:

Oiler Courtmen Were AAU Flops

DENVER—(AP)—When the Phillips 66 Oilers of Bartlesville, Okla., were defeated in the second round by a Eugene, Ore., team this year, it was the first time in 16 years the Oklahomans failed to gain the quarterfinals of the National AAU basketball tournament.

The upset was staged by a team of University of Oregon performers, playing under the colors of a Eugene drugstore. This also was the first year since 1941 that the Oilers failed to land a player on the all-tournament squad.

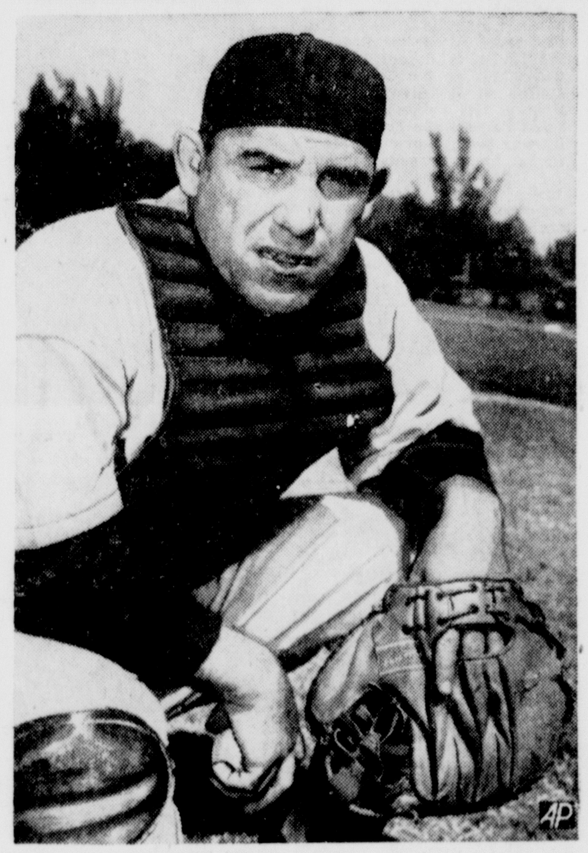
Terp Netmen Win

COLLEGE PARK, Md., April 23 (AP) — The University of Maryland tennis team made its 1953 Southern Conference debut today with a 7-2 victory over William and Mary.



YOGI'S FINGER GRIP—Lawrence Peter (Yogi) Berra of the New York Yankees, rated as the top catcher in the American League, works in a most unorthodox manner. He keeps his index finger outside his mitt, as shown above. When asked why he caught in this fashion, the likable Yogi shrugged his shoulders and said: "It feels comfortable that way. I've always done it and I don't suppose I'll try changing now." The only time he injured the protruding finger was in the third game of the 1952 World Series against the Dodgers. Rookie hurler Tom Gorman tossed the wrong pitch, a fast ball instead of a curve as called for by Yogi. The ball hit Berra's finger and rolled back to the stand as two runners crossed the plate.

As You Were

(This is the 129th in a series of sketches with pictures of well known sport personalities of the past from the album of the Cumberland News Sports Editor. See if you can identify them by their photo.)

A native of Lonaconing, this outfielder played mostly for teams at Midland where he was reared and worked in the mines.

He was noted as a "waiter" and he probably got on base more times on "passes" or by being hit by pitched balls than the average player. Not only was he able to reach base often but he could run like a deer when he got there.

In the Cumberland - Midland championship series of 1919 he played centerfield for the Mighties, was hit twice by pitched balls in the second game and played a prominent part in the 6-5 victory that squared up the count at one-all.

An unusual accident, however, kept him out of the 6th and final game. During batting practice he was awaiting his turn at the plate and was hit full in the face by a wildly thrown ball and knocked unconscious. The ball that put him out of commission was uncorked by Emmett Flynn, present Cumberland police chief, and then Colts' pitcher, who was warming up on the sidelines.

Fans who saw that game will recall the "rhubarb" in which Manager Raymond "Ike" Law of the Colts lost his temper in the ninth inning. It seems that the ball Charley Dye was pitching was not white enough to suit Law so "Ike" got possession of it and heaved it over the fence into the adjoining N. & G. Taylor Tin Mill yard. Dye won anyway with a new ball, 3-1.

Other players on the Midland roster that season included Yost, Doyle, Riggins, Shearer, McNeill, Beeman, Chapman and Grove.

The player pictured here started his diamond career as a catcher with the Sod Busters at Ocean almost 45 years ago. Jimmy McGuire, however, converted him into an outfielder because of his speed after he joined Midland in 1912. That season he played with the Midland team that won a championship series from Piedmont. He also played for Midland clubs piloted by Dick Stakem and Price Poland and was at Frostburg when J. Glenn Beall and Frank Spates handled the reins.

In the 1930's he managed St. Patrick's of Mt. Savage to the championship of the County Holy Name League when Francis Dickle was his pitching ace. He has resided in Mt. Savage since 1922 and as late as 1945 was the catcher on the Town softball team there.

Can you name him?

He is Joe Nolan, 61, whose three sons are well known. Billy has been in military service for 11 years and is now in the Air Corps, John resides in Pittsburgh, and Joe, Jr., of Mt. Savage, former secretary of the Pen-Mar Baseball League, now employed by the Cumberland Cement and Supply Company, has a son in the Mt. Savage Little League. The photo of Joe, Sr., was taken at Midland 41 years ago.

Blaik Mourns Abolishment Of Grid Platoons

Fears Colleges Gave Pros Crowd-Pleaser

WEST POINT, N. Y., April 23 (AP) — Army's Coach Earl (Red) Blaik said today he is afraid college football passed the crowd-pleasing initiative to the pros when it killed the platoon system.

"It'll be interesting to see how the fans react to this slower, draggier game," he added. "After riding around in those souped-up machines, they may not be content to go back to the old model-T."

A bitter opponent of the completely unexpected rules change which wiped out the platoon system, Blaik said he doubts there will be any early shift back to unlimited substitutions.

"I imagine we are stuck with this rule for a few years at least," he added. "The men who made the change won't be ready to admit their mistake even if they recognize it."

The West Point taskmaster winds up spring practice at the Academy this week and he says it's been a harrowing experience.

"We have had to remake completely our plans," he said. "We have had to turn tackles into fullbacks, guards into ends and so forth to get a squad which can play both offense and defense.

It's been tough. This rules change will put a much bigger gap between the schools with large squads, such as Michigan State, Southern California, Michigan and Notre Dame, and those with limited material.

"The big, well-stocked teams can continue to use platoons — shock troops shoved in at every period. It's the little fellows who will suffer. They'll be whipped out after a few minutes of play against constantly refreshed forces."

Shantz Notches First Triumph Over Senators

WASHINGTON, April 23 (AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics overcame a 4-0 deficit to turn back the Washington Senators today and give Bobby Shantz his first victory of the year. Home runs by Gus Zernial and Eddie Joost helped the A's in their uphill fight to win 6-4.

Shantz, the American League's most valuable player last year, lost his first two starts to the New York Yankees and seemed on the way to his third straight defeat before he settled down after yielding four runs in the first four innings.

Zernial's homer in the fifth and Joost's in the sixth sliced the A's deficit to 4-2. They produced two runs in the seventh when Elmer Valo walked and Zernial, Pete Suder and Joe Astroth singled.

Philadelphia bragged a 5-4 lead in the eighth after Dave Philley reached first when Mickey Vernon bobbled his grounder. A sacrifice, a single and fly to the outfield brought him around.

The A's added a clincher run in the ninth on a walk and a triple by Philley.

Yankees Win On Mantle's Four-Bagger

Mickey's 3-Run Belt Off Kinder In Ninth Beats Boston, 6 To 3

NEW YORK, April 23 (AP) — Mickey Mantle blasted a 420-foot homer into the right field bleachers with two on in the ninth inning for a 6-3 New York Yankee victory over Boston today after a Red Sox rally tied the score in the top half of the inning.

Mantle's smash off Relief Pitcher Ellis Kinder carried some 10 rows deep into the bleacher seats but was no match for his 562-foot homer in Washington last Friday. Mickey was batting lefthanded against the righthanded Kinder.

Johnny Sain, lifted for a pinch runner in the ninth, seemed to have his second win in the bag after Yogi Berra hit a two-run homer into the right field bullpen in the eighth off starter Sid Hudson.

But the Sox fought back to tie on a tremendous triple by fleet Tom Umphlett following singles by George Kell and Gene Stephens in the ninth. It was almost an inside the park homer, rolling between Gene Woodling and Mantle some 400 feet.

Sain started the Yanks winning spurt with a hard drive that bounced off the left leg of First Baseman Dick Gernert for an error. After Billy Martin sacrificed him to second, Manager Lou Boudreau shifted pitchers. Lefty Bill Werle, who came on when Hudson was knocked out in the eighth, was replaced by Kinder. Werle, however, was the eventual loser because he put the winning run on base.

After Jim Brideweser went in to run for Sain, Kinder walked Phil Rizzuto. Pinch Hitter Johnny Mize, ducking away from an inside pitch, popped out to leave the burden on Mantle with two out.

Mantle drove Kinder's first pitch high and away to break up the ball game with a third straight win over the Red Sox and a series sweep.

Baseball is supposed to be a young man's game. But there are four guys in the big leagues who confess to "40 plus." Bobo Newsom, righthander for the A's, first broke in with the Dodgers in 1929. Dutch Leonard, knuckle ball tosser for the Cubs, also started in Brooklyn and has been a star in both leagues. Satch Paige of the Browns was flipping the ball over the plate in the Negro leagues back in the '20s. Johnny Mize of the Yanks found rejuvenated strength in the 1952 World Series and was named the "most valuable player" in the fall classic.

Detroit Snaps Losing Streak

Billy Hoeft Beats Chicago Sox, 8 To 4

DETROIT, April 23 (AP) — Billy Hoeft, Detroit's promising 20-year-old southpaw, stopped the Chicago White Sox on five hits today for an 8-4 victory that ended the Tigers' five-game losing streak.

In becoming the first Tiger hurler to pitch a complete game this season, Hoeft was in trouble in one inning—the ninth. That's when Minnie Minoso hit a high home run into the lower left field seats with two Sox runners on base.

Until the ninth, Hoeft, who picked up his third big league win, had allowed just two singles and one unearned run. Last season, the six-foot-two, 180-pounder lost seven games and won two—whipping the New York Yankees twice.

Carter Rules 5-4 Favorite Over Collins

14,000 Are Expected To Pay Boston Record "Gate" To See Fight

BOSTON, April 23 (INS)—Lightweight Champion Jimmy Carter tonight ruled a 5 to 4 favorite to retain his title tomorrow night against Tommy Collins, Boston's most popular fighter since the days of John L. Sullivan.

The 15-round bout at Boston Garden will be televised nationally, but blacked out of New England.

A capacity crowd of 14,000 fans is expected to pay a Boston record "gate" of $180,000 to see their favorite swing his lethal punches at the cool, more experienced champion. The tv rights added another $50,000 to the gross.

The experts figured the 23-year-old Collins has a chance of lifting the title if he can survive the first five rounds against the 29-year-old Carter.

Although young, Tommy has been around for six years. He has been kayoed seven times, mostly because of the recklessness of youth. But he has sat some good men on the canvas with his skinny little arms— and he's kept the likes of Willie Pep down for the full count.

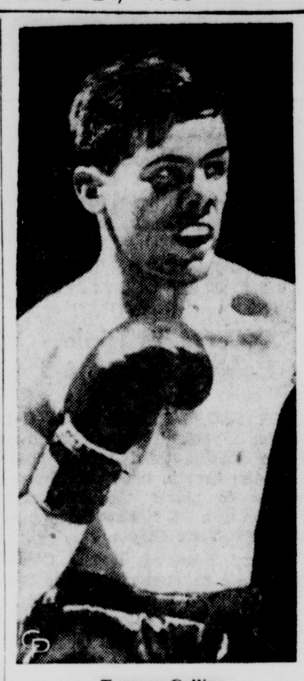
Collins wound up training at 133 pounds while Carter's weight remained his own secret.

Cardinals Farm Pair, Reduce Squad To 31

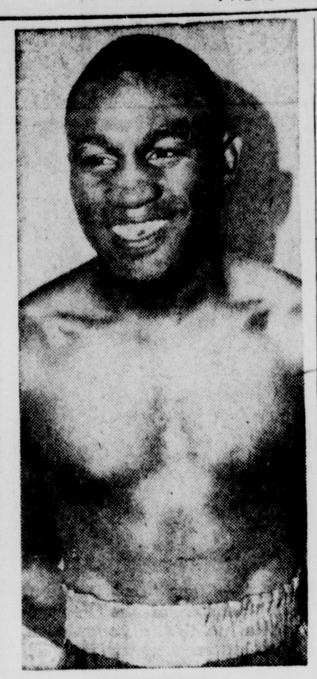
ST. LOUIS, April 23—(INS)—The St. Louis Cardinals today reduced their squad to 31, sending Outfielder Larry Miggins to Columbus and pitcher Dennis Reeder to Rochester. Both are triple a Red Bird farm clubs.

Miggins, 27, hit .229 for the Cardinals last season, but has not appeared in the lineup this season.

Reeder, 27-year-old southpaw hurler, had a 20-6 record in 1952 with Columbus, Ga., another Red Bird farm. He also has not appeared in National League competition this year.



Tommy Collins



Jimmy Carter

CLASH FOR TITLE TONIGHT—Lightweight crown held by Jimmy Carter of New York will be put on the block tonight in a 15-round TV bout in Boston with Tommy Collins, New England knockout artist, shooting at it. Carter has lost his last two fights, but they were not title matches. Collins has 40 KOs in his 57 pro victories.

IN A 6-1 decision, the Colorado Supreme court has ruled that a former Denver university football player is entitled to workmen's compensation because of grid injuries. The player is Ernest Nemeth, 25 (above), from East Chicago, Ind., who had made a claim for benefits, saying his back was injured during spring practice at Denver U. in April, 1950. Nemeth said at that time he received $50 monthly from the university for work done at the campus tennis courts. (International)

CHICAGO, April 23 — (INS) — Bobby Dodd, whose Georgia Tech team is undefeated in its last 28 games, was named tonight as head coach of the Chicago All-Star football team.

The All-Stars will meet the Detroit Lions, pro champions, in the annual game at Chicago's Soldier Field on the night of Aug. 14.

Dodd coached the All-Stars last year when they lost a close 10 to 7 game to the Los Angeles Rams.

He will have two of last year's assistants with him—Stuart Holcomb of Purdue and Bob Voights of Northwestern. Other members of the all-star staff are Navy coach Eddie Erdelatz and Baylor Coach George Sauer.

Yankees Win On Mantle's Four-Bagger

Mickey's 3-Run Belt Off Kinder In Ninth Beats Boston, 6 To 3

NEW YORK, April 23 (AP) — Mickey Mantle blasted a 420-foot homer into the right field bleachers with two on in the ninth inning for a 6-3 New York Yankee victory over Boston today after a Red Sox rally tied the score in the top half of the inning.

Mantle's smash off Relief Pitcher Ellis Kinder carried some 10 rows deep into the bleacher seats but was no match for his 562-foot homer in Washington last Friday. Mickey was batting lefthanded against the righthanded Kinder.

Johnny Sain, lifted for a pinch runner in the ninth, seemed to have his second win in the bag after Yogi Berra hit a two-run homer into the right field bullpen in the eighth off starter Sid Hudson.

But the Sox fought back to tie on a tremendous triple by fleet Tom Umphlett following singles by George Kell and Gene Stephens in the ninth. It was almost an inside the park homer, rolling between Gene Woodling and Mantle some 400 feet.

After Jim Brideweser went in to run for Sain, Kinder walked Phil Rizzuto. Pinch Hitter Johnny Mize, ducking away from an inside pitch, popped out to leave the burden on Mantle with two out.

Mantle drove Kinder's first pitch high and away to break up the ball game with a third straight win over the Red Sox and a series sweep.

Not Bad For Over 40!

AP Newsfeatures

Baseball is supposed to be a young man's game. But there are four guys in the big leagues who confess to "40 plus." Bobo Newsom, righthander for the A's, first broke in with the Dodgers in 1929. Dutch Leonard, knuckle ball tosser for the Cubs, also started in Brooklyn and has been a star in both leagues. Satch Paige of the Browns was flipping the ball over the plate in the Negro leagues back in the '20s. Johnny Mize of the Yanks found rejuvenated strength in the 1952 World Series and was named the "most valuable player" in the fall classic.

Detroit Snaps Losing Streak

Billy Hoeft Beats Chicago Sox, 8 To 4

DETROIT, April 23 (AP) — Billy Hoeft, Detroit's promising 20-year-old southpaw, stopped the Chicago White Sox on five hits today for an 8-4 victory that ended the Tigers' five-game losing streak.

In becoming the first Tiger hurler to pitch a complete game this season, Hoeft was in trouble in one inning—the ninth. That's when Minnie Minoso hit a high home run into the lower left field seats with two Sox runners on base.

Until the ninth, Hoeft, who picked up his third big league win, had allowed just two singles and one unearned run. Last season, the six-foot-two, 180-pounder lost seven games and won two—whipping the New York Yankees twice.

Carter Rules 5-4 Favorite Over Collins

14,000 Are Expected To Pay Boston Record "Gate" To See Fight

BOSTON, April 23 (INS)—Lightweight Champion Jimmy Carter tonight ruled a 5 to 4 favorite to retain his title tomorrow night against Tommy Collins, Boston's most popular fighter since the days of John L. Sullivan.

The 15-round bout at Boston Garden will be televised nationally, but blacked out of New England.

A capacity crowd of 14,000 fans is expected to pay a Boston record "gate" of $180,000 to see their favorite swing his lethal punches at the cool, more experienced champion. The tv rights added another $50,000 to the gross.

The experts figured the 23-year-old Collins has a chance of lifting the title if he can survive the first five rounds against the 29-year-old Carter.

Although young, Tommy has been around for six years. He has been kayoed seven times, mostly because of the recklessness of youth. But he has sat some good men on the canvas with his skinny little arms— and he's kept the likes of Willie Pep down for the full count.

Collins wound up training at 133 pounds while Carter's weight remained his own secret.

Cardinals Farm Pair, Reduce Squad To 31

ST. LOUIS, April 23—(INS)—The St. Louis Cardinals today reduced their squad to 31, sending Outfielder Larry Miggins to Columbus and pitcher Dennis Reeder to Rochester. Both are triple a Red Bird farm clubs.

Miggins, 27, hit .229 for the Cardinals last season, but has not appeared in the lineup this season.

Reeder, 27-year-old southpaw hurler, had a 20-6 record in 1952 with Columbus, Ga., another Red Bird farm. He also has not appeared in National League competition this year.

Jimmy Carter

CLASH FOR TITLE TONIGHT—Lightweight crown held by Jimmy Carter of New York will be put on the block tonight in a 15-round TV bout in Boston with Tommy Collins, New England knockout artist, shooting at it. Carter has lost his last two fights, but they were not title matches. Collins has 40 KOs in his 57 pro victories.

IN A 6-1 decision, the Colorado Supreme court has ruled that a former Denver university football player is entitled to workmen's compensation because of grid injuries. The player is Ernest Nemeth, 25 (above), from East Chicago, Ind., who had made a claim for benefits, saying his back was injured during spring practice at Denver U. in April, 1950. Nemeth said at that time he received $50 monthly from the university for work done at the campus tennis courts. (International)

Dodd coached the All-Stars last year when they lost a close 10 to 7 game to the Los Angeles Rams.

Correspondent, Arcaro Up, Sets Record At Keeneland

Beats Coaltown Mark In Blue Grass Stakes

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 23 (INS) —Correspondent, ridden by Eddie Arcaro, broke a track record today as the California-bred colt won the $25,000 Blue Grass Stakes at Keeneland by five lengths over Straight Face.

The victory immediately stamped Correspondent as the chief threat to Native Dancer in the Kentucky Derby May 2.

The time for the one and one-eighth mile Derby test was one minute and 49 seconds, a fifth of a second faster than the record set in the same race in 1948 by Calumet Farm's famed Coaltown.

Arcaro put Correspondent in front at the start of the race. He repulsed a slight bid by Blaze in the early stages and fought off a challenge by Straight Face at the head of the stretch.

The famed jockey, who will be seeking his sixth Derby triumph aboard Correspondent in the classic, had the colt under wraps at the finish.

Money Broker, winner of the Florida Derby, finished five lengths back of Straight Face in third place.

Ace Destroyer, Blaze and Bimini Bay finished in that order behind Money Broker.

It was Correspondent's third straight victory at Keeneland.

The winning colt returned $5.60, $2.60 and $2.20. Straight Face returned $2.40 and $2.20, and Money Broker $2.40.

Penn Relays Start Today

Wilt And Johansson Run Mile Saturday

PHILADELPHIA, April 23 (AP)—Denis Johansson, Finnish Olympic athlete, and Fred Wilt, the hard running FBI man, are expected to provide one of the highlights of the 59th Penn relay carnival when they meet in the Benjamin Franklin mile Saturday.

Wilt finished second behind Johansson in the mile run last year at Franklin Field.

Johansson, who arrived in this country a week ago, has been working out on the Franklin Field cinders for three days and declares himself in top shape for Saturday's run.

The two-day Penn relay carnival getting under way tomorrow, will have nearly 3,500 entrants from 103 colleges, 262 high schools, 31 preparatory schools, 45 public elementary schools, and 19 parochial schools.

Baltimore's Colts Sign Ken Jackson

BALTIMORE, April 23 (AP)—Ken Jackson, a 245-pound former Texas University tackle, today signed to continue his pro football career with the Baltimore Colts.

Jackson played last year for the Dallas Texans who are being replaced in the National Football League by Baltimore. The 24-year-old native of Austin, Tex., played in the Cotton and Orange Bowls with Texas and after graduation in 1950 put in a season with the San Diego Navy team.

STAG LINES for men

His scarf can't loosen

Built-In Ascot

FASHION: In the forefront of the fashions that bloom in the spring is the new sport shirt with the built-in Ascot. Called the "Ascoteer," it is a regular V-neck shirt with a permanently attached scarf matching the trim of the shirt. Among the first to wear this comfortable and non-mussable model is stage designer Nikki Eastman (left).

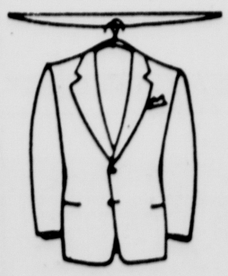
Handyman: Clean messy head of soldering iron by inserting it while hot into wad of steel wool and twisting. . . . If you wash your dog in the shower or tub, first put a little steel wool in drain opening—to catch dog hairs and avoid a clogged drain. . . . Handy phrase to remember, "Left is loose and right is tight"—for virtually all screws and bolts.

Health Hints: Plenty of milk and fresh vegetables—particularly carrots—are said to be helpful in halting falling hair. . . . The American Foot Care Institute urges you not to wear the same shoes two days in succession, if you want healthy feet.

Factuals: Chinese began playing cards in 1120 A. D. The pack was supposed to represent the year in quarters (four suits) and weeks (52 cards). . . . 140,000,000 movie-goers have patronized the Radio City Music Hall in the last 20 years.

Food Notes: Treat for the family—stir soft peanut butter into vanilla ice cream, re-freeze, serve—and listen to the raves. . . . If there's a spare boiled potato in the icebox, dice it and fry in a pan. Then pour in egg mix for a specialty known as "Peasant Omelet." . . . Three of New York's top steak houses claim they add no seasoning of any kind when cooking a steak. Good meat, they say, flavors itself.

Tips: If you're a traveler and if you plan to use an electric razor and other appliances in foreign countries, you can get a U. S. Department of Commerce pamphlet that will be mighty helpful. It is "World Electrical Current Characteristics," Industrial Series No. 83, 15 cents. Gives the current and voltage of any place you might visit. . . . If your fountain pen doesn't flow freely, try filling it with vinegar several times and shake well. It should start to work like new.



Clothes Care: When hanging clothing out to air in the breeze, you can prevent its blowing off the line by using two hangers—with the hooks facing each other (see drawing).

Dress Tips: If you find yourself without collar stays, trim off the borders of a pocket celluloid calendar. They'll fill the bill and you'll still have your calendar. . . . If you wear a squared off pocket handkerchief, you can turn it bottom-side-up when the top edge gets soiled. The bottom is just as square and this trick will give you double mileage before putting it in the laundry.

Pass the Cigars: This week to—Elmer Ward, president of Goodall-Sanford, Inc., who annually gives the New York City area its only major professional golf tourney—the one next month at Meadowbrook, L. I. When it is over, Ward donates the proceeds to worthy charities

Negro Scout Joins St. Louis Cardinals

ST. LOUIS, April 23 (AP)—A Negro is joining the St. Louis Cardinal scouting staff, which may mean the club will soon acquire some Negro players for the first time.

The Cardinals announced that Quincy Troupe, 37-year-old St. Louis Negro credited with helping other Negroes to an opportunity to play in the major leagues, had been signed as a scout.

Troupe thus becomes the first Negro to be associated with the club's player personnel.

August A. Busch Jr., Cardinal president, said recently that the Cardinals would sign players on the basis of ability alone.

Bears Sign Thrower

EAST LANSING, Mich., April 23 (AP)—Willie Thrower, Michigan State College passing quarterback with the apt name, has signed a pro contract with the Chicago Bears of the National Football League.

Thrower, New Kensington, Pa. high school sensation, reported he had been signed by Bear Coach George Halas for $6,500 a year.

Campbell Goes To Semi-Finals

Galletta, Hyndman, And Cochran Score

PINEHURST, N. C., April 23 (AP)—Former Champions William C. Campbell of Huntington, W. Va. and Mal Galletta of St. Albans, N. Y. led the way to the semi-finals of the 53rd North and South amateur golf tournament today. Joining them were William Hyndman of Abington, Pa., and Bob Cochran of St. Louis.

Campbell, never trailing, was carried to 19 holes by Dick Chapman of Pinehurst, where Chapman three-putted to lose the quarter-final match to a par four by the 1950 champion.

Tomorrow over 18 holes Campbell meets Hyndman, whose three-under-par golf in his 3 and 2 victory over 56-year-old Maurice McCarthy of Muskegon, Mich. was the day's best performance.

Galleta, 1944 winner, beat two-time champion Frank Strafaci of Woodhaven, N. Y. 2 and 1. Strafaci yesterday eliminated Defending Champion Frank Stranahan. Galletta's opponent tomorrow will be Cochran, 40-year-old Missourian, who won from Harry H. Haverstick Jr. of Lancaster, Pa. 3 and 2.

Correspondent, Arcaro Up, Sets Record At Keeneland

Beats Coaltown Mark In Blue Grass Stakes

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 23 (INS) —Correspondent, ridden by Eddie Arcaro, broke a track record today as the California-bred colt won the $25,000 Blue Grass Stakes at Keeneland by five lengths over Straight Face.

The victory immediately stamped Correspondent as the chief threat to Native Dancer in the Kentucky Derby May 2.

The time for the one and one-eighth mile Derby test was one minute and 49 seconds, a fifth of a second faster than the record set in the same race in 1948 by Calumet Farm's famed Coaltown.

Arcaro put Correspondent in front at the start of the race. He repulsed a slight bid by Blaze in the early stages and fought off a challenge by Straight Face at the head of the stretch.

The famed jockey, who will be seeking his sixth Derby triumph aboard Correspondent in the classic, had the colt under wraps at the finish.

Money Broker, winner of the Florida Derby, finished five lengths back of Straight Face in third place.

Ace Destroyer, Blaze and Bimini Bay finished in that order behind Money Broker.

It was Correspondent's third straight victory at Keeneland.

The winning colt returned $5.60, $2.60 and $2.20. Straight Face returned $2.40 and $2.20, and Money Broker $2.40.

Lois G. Sheavly, Ellerslie, Maryland, Complainant, vs. Horace A. Sheavly, 1830 Beech St., McKeesport, Pa., Respondent. No. 23151 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this suit is to procure a decree divorcing the Complainant from the Respondent A VINCULO MATRIMONII.

The Bill states that the parties were married in Cumberland, Maryland, on March 12, 1936; that they lived together until December, 1948, on which date the Respondent abandoned and deserted the Complainant; that said abandonment has continued uninterruptedly down to the present time, if of at least eighteen months duration, is deliberate and final, and beyond hope of reconciliation.

That two children, H. Fremont Sheavly and Sherril Kay Sheavly, were born to the parties of this marriage, that Complainant has been a resident of Allegany County for more than one year last past, and that Respondent's last known address was 1830 Beech Street, McKeesport, Pennsylvania.

It is thereupon, this 8th day of April, 1953, ORDERED by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, that the Complainant causes this Order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County, Maryland, once a week for four weeks before the 11th day of May, 1953, giving notice to the said Horace A. Sheavly, absent Respondent, of the object and substance of this Bill and warning him to be and appear in this Court in person or by solicitor, on or before the 28th day of May, 1953, and show cause, if any he has, why a Decree ought not be passed as prayed.

Baltimore's Colts Sign Ken Jackson

BALTIMORE, April 23 (AP)—Ken Jackson, a 245-pound former Texas University tackle, today signed to continue his pro football career with the Baltimore Colts.

Jackson played last year for the Dallas Texans who are being replaced in the National Football League by Baltimore. The 24-year-old native of Austin, Tex., played in the Cotton and Orange Bowls with Texas and after graduation in 1950 put in a season with the San Diego Navy team.

STAG LINES for men

by Bert Bacharach

His scarf can't loosen

Built-In Ascot

FASHION: In the forefront of the fashions that bloom in the spring is the new sport shirt with the built-in Ascot. Called the "Ascoteer," it is a regular V-neck shirt with a permanently attached scarf matching the trim of the shirt. Among the first to wear this comfortable and non-mussable model is stage designer Nikki Eastman (left).

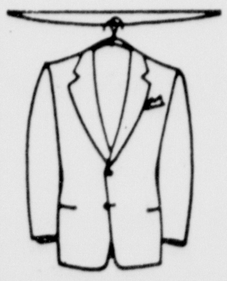
Handyman: Clean messy head of soldering iron by inserting it while hot into wad of steel wool and twisting. . . . If you wash your dog in the shower or tub, first put a little steel wool in drain opening—to catch dog hairs and avoid a clogged drain. . . . Handy phrase to remember, "Left is loose and right is tight"—for virtually all screws and bolts.

Health Hints: Plenty of milk and fresh vegetables—particularly carrots—are said to be helpful in halting falling hair. . . . The American Foot Care Institute urges you not to wear the same shoes two days in succession, if you want healthy feet.

Factuals: Chinese began playing cards in 1120 A. D. The pack was supposed to represent the year in quarters (four suits) and weeks (52 cards). . . . 140,000,000 movie-goers have patronized the Radio City Music Hall in the last 20 years.

Food Notes: Treat for the family—stir soft peanut butter into vanilla ice cream, re-freeze, serve—and listen to the raves. . . . If there's a spare boiled potato in the icebox, dice it and fry in a pan. Then pour in egg mix for a specialty known as "Peasant Omelet." . . . Three of New York's top steak houses claim they add no seasoning of any kind when cooking a steak. Good meat, they say, flavors itself.

Tips: If you're a traveler and if you plan to use an electric razor and other appliances in foreign countries, you can get a U. S. Department of Commerce pamphlet that will be mighty helpful. It is "World Electrical Current Characteristics," Industrial Series No. 83, 15 cents. Gives the current and voltage of any place you might visit. . . . If your fountain pen doesn't flow freely, try filling it with vinegar several times and shake well. It should start to work like new.



Clothes Care: When hanging clothing out to air in the breeze, you can prevent its blowing off the line by using two hangers—with the hooks facing each other (see drawing).

Dress Tips: If you find yourself without collar stays, trim off the borders of a pocket celluloid calendar. They'll fill the bill and you'll still have your calendar. . . . If you wear a squared off pocket handkerchief, you can turn it bottom-side-up when the top edge gets soiled. The bottom is just as square and this trick will give you double mileage before putting it in the laundry.

Pass the Cigars: This week to—Elmer Ward, president of Goodall-Sanford, Inc., who annually gives the New York City area its only major professional golf tourney—the one next month at Meadowbrook, L. I. When it is over, Ward donates the proceeds to worthy charities

ST. LOUIS, April 23 (AP)—A Negro is joining the St. Louis Cardinal scouting staff, which may mean the club will soon acquire some Negro players for the first time.

The Cardinals announced that Quincy Troupe, 37-year-old St. Louis Negro credited with helping other Negroes to an opportunity to play in the major leagues, had been signed as a scout.

Troupe thus becomes the first Negro to be associated with the club's player personnel.

August A. Busch Jr., Cardinal president, said recently that the Cardinals would sign players on the basis of ability alone.

Bears Sign Thrower

EAST LANSING, Mich., April 23 (AP)—Willie Thrower, Michigan State College passing quarterback with the apt name, has signed a pro contract with the Chicago Bears of the National Football League.

Thrower, New Kensington, Pa. high school sensation, reported he had been signed by Bear Coach George Halas for $6,500 a year.

Galletta, Hyndman, And Cochran Score

PINEHURST, N. C., April 23 (AP)—Former Champions William C. Campbell of Huntington, W. Va. and Mal Galletta of St. Albans, N. Y. led the way to the semi-finals of the 53rd North and South amateur golf tournament today. Joining them were William Hyndman of Abington, Pa., and Bob Cochran of St. Louis.

Campbell, never trailing, was carried to 19 holes by Dick Chapman of Pinehurst, where Chapman three-putted to lose the quarter-final match to a par four by the 1950 champion.

Tomorrow over 18 holes Campbell meets Hyndman, whose three-under-par golf in his 3 and 2 victory over 56-year-old Maurice McCarthy of Muskegon, Mich. was the day's best performance.

Galleta, 1944 winner, beat two-time champion Frank Strafaci of Woodhaven, N. Y. 2 and 1. Strafaci yesterday eliminated Defending Champion Frank Stranahan. Galletta's opponent tomorrow will be Cochran, 40-year-old Missourian, who won from Harry H. Haverstick Jr. of Lancaster, Pa. 3 and 2.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, April 23 (INS)—Hollywood had its heart torn out tonight when a film smuggled into this country in a casket from Europe was officially shown at the Academy Theatre.

I refer to "Blood Brothers," being presented by Mabel Walker Willebrandt and Al Rogell, showing the agonies, death and tortures of peoples living under the regimes of Stalin, Hitler and Mussolini.

No words of mine can begin to express the horror of scenes shot secretly, showing bodies being thrown into burning furnaces and human beings, still living but reduced to skeletons.

Mrs. Willebrandt and Rogell will show their violent expose feature in schools, churches and parent-teachers associations before booking general releases.

Academy Award Winning Director John Ford is staying right at Republic. This John told me himself. He says he's looking for a story and his plan to make a film in Ireland is just in the discussion stage.

I talked to Brian Desmond Hurst, and among the many things I never knew before is that he is John's cousin. Hurst has just finished "The Malta Pilot" with Alex Guinness, and he says it is the first time that Guinness has played a straight role. He's directing his next, too, "Farewell to Miss Julie Logan," the Sir James Barrie story.

This morning I received a letter from Reader's Digest with a $10 check for being the first to print Maxwell Shane's phrase, "Movies are suffering from dimension praecox." Never was I so surprised as when I opened the envelope and found the check. Thank you, Mr. Reader's Digest.

But now I'm wondering if Maxwell Shane will feel I ought to split the $10 with him. Think up some more, Maxwell, and we'll split the check next time.

Chatter in Hollywood:

The romance budding between Betty Clooney (Rosemary's kid sister) and Comic Robert Q. Lewis, will be temporarily interrupted when Lewis planes east from Las Vegas to take over Arthur Godfrey's TV show on May 4.

As you know, the popular Godfrey undergoes a major operation on his hip in a Boston hospital on this date and won't be back on his show until fall.

Lewis and Betty fell for each other when both were booked in the same show in Las Vegas.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Tyrone Power cancelled his sailing to Europe with Linda Christian to appear on the Airborne Symphony May 4.

Sterling Hayden and Mrs. Don as the prettiest girl in the Windy City.

Well, Myrna visited on the set of "All-American" at Universal-International a few days ago, and Aaron Rosenberg promptly put her Budge, ex-wife of the tennis champ, are getting around together.

Marilyn Monroe, looking very serious, lunching with Joe DiMaggio, the man of her heart, at the Brown Derby.

Lisa Ferraday's new boyfriend is a furrier named Milton Herman. They're around New York together.

About that gold band Marlon Brando wore on his left finger in a photograph, Marlon says, "It's a prop I picked up somewhere. If I were secretly married I wouldn't wear a ring."

The Pat Knight-Nils Larsen romance seems to be flourishing. He's the tall, blond, Swedish newspaper correspondent.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

PEACE BE WITH THEE

Went back to my 1945 notes on the opening of the UN in San Francisco. Switzerland and Sweden were not there because they didn't fight. Italy and Austria were not there because they did.

Nobody could understand what Molotov said until he started walking. Soong's sing-song sounded like a camel's valedictory in a sandstorm. Anthony Eden's teeth were smiling. But we didn't know whether he thought anybody's signature was worth the dots on the line.

There wasn't anything wrong with the conference except they were trying to imitate thunder by busting paper bags.

While it was in session Eisenhower ran Shickelgruber down and Mussolini up. Hodges, Patton, MacArthur and Nimitz oversold the factory.

That was the situation during the first UN meeting. The cards were on the table. But the chips were outside.

The UN could have wrapped up then. Another and bigger circus had stolen its elephants.

Hair problems get the limelight today in answers to questions sent in by charmers from everywhere!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

It takes a smart girl to ask smart questions. Look over the following and you'll see the evidence.

Q. I'm tired of my "little boy" hair cut. Isn't there some way to keep my hair attractive during the growing out period?

A. Decidely. Any short style should be tidied by professional scissors at the first sign of shagginess. Follow this up by a home or salon permanent and plenty of pin-curl, hair-brush and pomade persuasion.

In transition periods, models sweep their hair back from the face on the diagonal in as smooth a line as possible, turning ends up in a casual windswept fashion. Try this and see how it keeps hair looking neat until it is ready for a genuine restyling, needed the moment that ends are long enough to droop. Hair should be simple to manage from this point on. If more length is desired, a final styling will usually be necessary.

Glasses and Bangs

Q. Should lasses with glasses wear bangs?

A. For the forehead that is a mark of beauty, slick hair is a better choice. If the brow or hairline calls for screening, by all means make use of bangs. This goes for both those with and without glasses.

Q. Do electric dryers make hair brittle and dry?

A. No more than do sun and wind. With unusually dry scalp, apply a little scalp ointment before going under the dryer and regulate the heat to low or medium.

Depilatory Preferred

Q. During the play suit and swim suit season, is it advisable to remove fuzz on thighs by shaving?

A. A depilatory—wax or cream—will give a smother, longer-lasting result.

Quickie answers: 1. To stimulate the scalp and encourage a prettier hairline, change your hair-part frequently. 2 Liquid or fluid foundations and rouges can be thinned by adding a drop or two of cold water with an eye dropper and then shaking well.

What's your beauty puzzler? Send it to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper and you will find your answer in this space soon.

My New York

by Mel Heimer

NEW YORK — It took Benny Goodman to get Maurice Evans out of my innards, and if that sounds cryptic, read on.

It is a gray, raw spring afternoon, the kind of day on which a man who doesn't take his first martini before 5 o'clock needs cheering up in some way. I fold up the typewriter, take a cab up to the NBC television studio at 106th and Park, a big, seedy-looking old building, and go up to 2-A and watch Maurice Evans rehearse "Hamlet."

Watching Evans do "Hamlet" is like it used to be watching Babe Ruth hit a home run—the biggest man in the business doing the biggest thing in the business. This version of the wonderful old play, with its melody of words and its crescendo of drama, must be about the sixth that Evans has learned.

Maybe it'll be the best. He's doing it on the Hall of Fame TV show for two full hours Sunday, April 26, after three weeks of rehearsal, and it'll be the longest dramatic show in video's brief history.

The big, 60-foot studio has a hushed, barn-like silence about it, as fat, bespectacled young George Schaefer, who staked Evans' famous "GI" version of the play, quietly and colloquially makes suggestions here and there to his actors.

"You become a little more smoochy," he tells Joseph Schildkraut, playing the King, and you can hear old Will Shakespeare grumbling in his grave. Some of the actors are reading their lines from big leather-bound scripts, but Evans has none.

A pleasant girl named Mildred Freed Alberg sidles up to us. "He doesn't have to learn any lines," she says. "He knows every word in the play. All he has to learn is what words to leave out, in this cut version. And me"—she looked woebegone—"all I have to do is cut them. Cut Shakespeare. I should be hanged!"

The amiable Evans—here, surely must be the greatest English actor (now an American)—finally ends a scene and comes over, impeccably clad in sports jacket, gray slacks and the polished brogues of the Briton, and drops into a funeral-parlor chair. And how does it go Mr. Evans? How do you feel? "I'm scared stiff," he says pleasantly.

It's a long cab haul from 106th. East, to 48th, West, but when I enter the Fraternal clubhouse, I hear immediately that it was worth it. Mr. B. Goodman, who is to the clarinet as Mr. M. Evans is to Shakespeare, has gathered up as many of his original musicians as possible and is putting them through their ABC's in preparation for a six-week concert tour with Louis Armstrong, boy trumpeter.

They are in a ground-floor rehearsal room, a vaulted, gray, cathedral-type room, and I hear them through the door and go in and sit down, and sure enough, there I am back in the middle 30s.

Nobody is a bit older. They are rolling through a rock-and-sock version of "Blue Skies" — makes me a boy again, just for tonight—and Mr. Krupa, on the drums, looks the way he did 15 years ago. The dour Ziggy Elman, who blows out his cheeks and looks so bad playing the trumpet and sounds so good, hasn't aged a day.

Is that Mr. Teddy Wilson, expressionless as ever, playing the piano as beautifully as ever? It is. And Mr. Vernon Brown, the poet of the trombone, scratching his red crew cut? It is obvious these gentlemen all have been in the deep freeze, suspended in time. Dorian Gray would simply spit.

There is Mr. Goodman, looking a little shorter but just as preoccupied, a genius in a gray suit and blue sweater, playing that wonderful, fluid clarinet and making the boys go over and over a certain passage until they get it right. The Ray, they used to call Mr. G., a stern taskmaster whose angry eye would make his musical urchins meditate thoughtfully on their sins.

I look around at all the Huckleberry Finns — the shirt-sleeved, cigaret-smoking men to whom music is life and life is music ("How you talk," they would say)—and listen to them attack a thunderous, roaring, brass passage with the delicacy of a Reese-to-Robinson double play. Every foot in the room is tapping. And I wonder again the old question—why don't you hear stuff like this any more?

Then, reluctantly, I leave. Out in 48th Street, it is late afternoon and the Broadway area is stirring to life. My head is full of "Blue Skies" and I stop and think. Who was it I saw before this. Evans? Drums, Sax? Maybe a guitar player?

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, April 23 (INS)—Hollywood had its heart torn out tonight when a film smuggled into this country in a casket from Europe was officially shown at the Academy Theatre.

I refer to "Blood Brothers," being presented by Mabel Walker Willebrandt and Al Rogell, showing the agonies, death and tortures of peoples living under the regimes of Stalin, Hitler and Mussolini.

No words of mine can begin to express the horror of scenes shot secretly, showing bodies being thrown into burning furnaces and human beings, still living but reduced to skeletons.

Mrs. Willebrandt and Rogell will show their violent expose feature in schools, churches and parent-teachers associations before booking general releases.

Academy Award Winning Director John Ford is staying right at Republic. This John told me himself. He says he's looking for a story and his plan to make a film in Ireland is just in the discussion stage.

I talked to Brian Desmond Hurst, and among the many things I never knew before is that he is John's cousin. Hurst has just finished "The Malta Pilot" with Alex Guinness, and he says it is the first time that Guinness has played a straight role. He's directing his next, too, "Farewell to Miss Julie Logan," the Sir James Barrie story.

This morning I received a letter from Reader's Digest with a $10 check for being the first to print Maxwell Shane's phrase, "Movies are suffering from dimension praecox." Never was I so surprised as when I opened the envelope and found the check. Thank you, Mr. Reader's Digest.

But now I'm wondering if Maxwell Shane will feel I ought to split the $10 with him. Think up some more, Maxwell, and we'll split the check next time.

Chatter in Hollywood:

The romance budding between Betty Clooney (Rosemary's kid sister) and Comic Robert Q. Lewis, will be temporarily interrupted when Lewis planes east from Las Vegas to take over Arthur Godfrey's TV show on May 4.

As you know, the popular Godfrey undergoes a major operation on his hip in a Boston hospital on this date and won't be back on his show until fall.

Lewis and Betty fell for each other when both were booked in the same show in Las Vegas.

Maybe you've heard of Myrna Hanse, of Chicago. She's 18, she's pretty, and she's called "Miss Photoflash," a distinction handed her by the Chicago press photographers, when she was picked in the picture with Tony Curtis and Lori Nelson. That's how stars are born.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Tyrone Power cancelled his sailing to Europe with Linda Christian to appear on the Airborne Symphony May 4.

Sterling Hayden and Mrs. Don as the prettiest girl in the Windy City.

Well, Myrna visited on the set of "All-American" at Universal-International a few days ago, and Aaron Rosenberg promptly put her Budge, ex-wife of the tennis champ, are getting around together.

Marilyn Monroe, looking very serious, lunching with Joe DiMaggio, the man of her heart, at the Brown Derby.

John Barrymore, Jr., for the second time, had an argument with an employe of his mother's on her ranch at San Diego. John tried to throw the cowboy off the property but came out second best.

Lisa Ferraday's new boyfriend is a furrier named Milton Herman. They're around New York together.

About that gold band Marlon Brando wore on his left finger in a photograph, Marlon says, "It's a prop I picked up somewhere. If I were secretly married I wouldn't wear a ring."

The Pat Knight-Nils Larsen romance seems to be flourishing. He's the tall, blond, Swedish newspaper correspondent.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

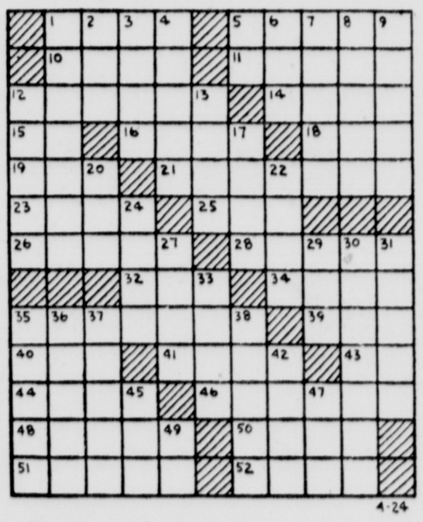
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

D J Q X S L Y E S A U Y L Y S X Z Q D E P U D L Z X D T E S X X L Y Z K M R Q L Y D L J S F D J P J S K X — L Z J J I X S J.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: I HEAR THEE SPEAK OF THE BETTER LAND, THOU CALLEST ITS CHILDREN A HAPPY BAND—HEMANS.

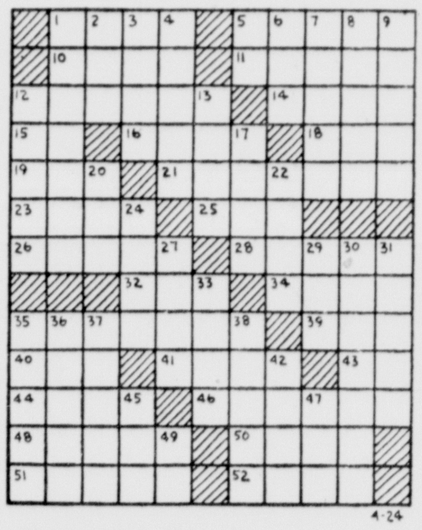
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

D J Q X S L Y E S A U Y L Y S X Z Q D E P U D L Z X D T E S X X L Y Z K M R Q L Y D L J S F D J P J S K X — L Z J J I X S J.

Charles Burkett Released To Custody Of Attorney

STATE ANTI-GESTAPO LAW SOUGHT

Freedom Gained After Six Days Of Grilling

Had Been Held Since Last Thursday

It's the most wonderful day of my life," said Mrs. Helen Burkett last night, a few hours after she had been reunited with her husband, Charles F. Burkett, following his release after six days of questioning in connection with the Meister murder investigation.

Burkett, 41-year-old house painter and dealer in ceramics figurines, was released from the County Infirmary yesterday morning on orders of State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher.

He went home immediately for a rest, and Mrs. Burkett said he planned just to relax for a few days.

It was indicated to newsmen last night that no new suspects were expected to be apprehended immediately in connection with the case.

Burkett was arrested last Thursday for questioning in the case. No charge ever was filed against him, and he never was booked as having been arrested, although he was held for a time in Washington County and had been at Allegany County Infirmary under police guard since last Saturday.

Had "Knowledge" Of Case

Fletcher declared Burkett had "knowledge and information" about the crime, but did not amplify that statement.

Burkett's release was arranged by his attorney, Harold E. Naughton, who conferred with Fletcher yesterday morning after threatening to go to court for a writ of habeas corpus to free his client.

Naughton and Mrs. Burkett went to the infirmary to get Burkett after Fletcher agreed to his release. Naughton said Burkett broke into sobs and seemed under terrific emotional strain.

Fletcher denied "Iron Curtain or Gestapo methods have been employed in any sense whatsoever."

Fletcher Denies His Office Used Gestapo Tactics

Deplores Criticism Of Murder Probe

State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher yesterday denied his office had used "Iron Curtain or Gestapo" tactics in the Meister murder case, and accused local newspapers of making too big an issue of the arrest and detention of a local man for nearly a week without a charge.

In his first prepared statement to the press since the discovery on January 16 of Mrs. Odessa Meister's body on McNamee's Hill, Fletcher said he had acted to protect citizens of the county "from the person who has committed a vicious, cruel and wanton murder."

His criticism of the newspapers specifically referred to publicity given the case of Charles F. Burkett, 41, who was arrested last Thursday and released only yesterday, although no formal charge ever was filed against him.

Reviews History Of Case

Fletcher's complete statement follows:

"On Saturday, December 20, 1952, a horrible murder was committed in our community. It was, of course, the duty of police officers to investigate this crime to the fullest extent. This has been done continuously from the time of the discovery of the body of Mrs. Odessa Meister on McNamee's Hill and has continued day and night without let-up to the present time.

"It is not the duty of the state's attorney to conduct investigations of this type, but despite that fact I have entered wholeheartedly into the investigation and have done everything that it has been possible for me to do to assist in and continue the investigation until such time as the party responsible for the crime is apprehended.

"In connection with the investigation, hundreds of people have been interviewed, many of whom have been in the office of the state's attorney. Special and careful effort has been made to protect any person being interviewed, either as a possible witness or as a suspect, to prevent them being unjustly accused of participation.

Says Burkett "Treated Fairly"

"In the course of the investigation it developed that Mr. Charles F. Burkett possessed information with reference to this crime. He was interviewed and it was confirmed that he did have such knowledge and information. He was treated fairly at all times by me and all officers in connection with the case. His wife was informed of his whereabouts, and anything that was done during the time he was investigated was done with his own consent and of his own free will. Mrs. Burkett has had full access to her husband at any time that she desired.

"The officers and myself, as state's attorney, have been conscientious in the discharge of our duties to the citizens of Allegany County to protect them from the person who has committed a vicious, cruel and wanton murder. The facts discovered in connection with Mr. Burkett were such as warranted and justified his investigation and partial detention. While the authorities, including myself, have been investigating Mr. Burkett, the newspapers have, for some reason unknown to me, built this particular situation into something far out of proportion to its merits.

Calls Charges "Unfounded"

"Mr. Burkett is being released in the custody of his attorney, Mr. (Harold E.) Naughton, at this time to be produced at such time as his presence may be required. The only interest of the authorities in this case is to honestly and conscientiously perform their duties in the investigation of this murder and to arrive at a proper solution.

"Iron Curtain or Gestapo methods have not been employed in any sense whatsoever and will not be employed. It is not fair to the officers and policeman of Allegany County, and from other communities who are assisting, to accuse them with such vicious and unfounded charges. We are simply trying to perform our duty to the public and to each and every citizen in the county.

"I consider it my duty to release to the press at the appropriate time any and all details concerning

Fire Destroys Dwelling Near Burlington

Family Of Six Left Homeless

A fire which apparently stemmed from a kitchen stove, destroyed a frame dwelling and its furnishings yesterday afternoon about one mile to the rear of the Van Myra Camp west of Burlington, W. Va.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Dove and their four children, Virginia, 16; Elsie, 11; Arnold, 8, and Edward, 7, were left homeless and found temporary lodging with neighbors.

Mrs. Dove, who was alone at home, sustained burns on her face, body, arms and hands when she tried unsuccessfully to save some of their belongings. Her burns were not serious and Mrs. Dove did not have to be hospitalized.

The housewife and mother of four children explained that she lighted a fire in the kitchen aronud 3 p. m. yesterday as she began to prepare for the evening meal. While she was waiting for the fire to get hot she went outside to feed the chickens. Suddenly she looked around and saw that the whole house was ablaze.

Volunteer firemen from both Burlington and Keyser responded. They managed to put out a blaze in the nearby woods but could not save the house. The house is owned by the Welch brothers of Burlington.

FBI Learns Identity Of Fire Victim

Stranger In Boxcar Is Iowa Native

The identity of a man found dead in a boxcar on a B&O freight train near Gay Street last Saturday has been learned by local authorities from Federal Bureau of Investigation records.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, who examined the body and established death caused by asphyxiation, said the man's name was Dean Edison Kimble, 35, a native of Davis City, Iowa.

According to a telegram received by County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya from the FBI, the stranger found here in a burning boxcar had no next of kin. His last address, according to the Bureau, was New York City, and he was born December 17, 1917.

Local authorities said they are continuing their investigation in an effort to locate any living relative in Davis City.

The FBI was asked to check on the man after Lilya sent fingerprints taken from the body, and a description of the victim to the Bureau. The FBI reported their findings to Lilya yesterday.

The body of the man was found last Saturday when a B&O conductor, F. W. Beck, of 740 Baker Street, noticed smoke pouring from the moving freight train. Later when the train stopped, Beck and other railroad employes discovered the body.

Officials theorized the man had built a fire inside the car to keep warm and in some manner was overcome by the fumes. Dr. Deming's examination showed the body was covered with second degree burns.

There were no marks of identification or papers in the man's clothing, but upon examination at Memorial Hospital, it was found the man had a tatto on his upper right arm, and an initial K below the elbow of the left arm.

Humidity at 6 p. m. was winddried to a 22.5 per cent. Today is expected to be a little cooler with high between 70 and 75. Tomorrow will bring showers and no change in temperature.

Area Soldier Is Freed By Communists

The first Cumberland area man to be released by the communists reached Freedom Village in Korea yesterday.

He is Pfc. Vernon Rohrbaugh, about 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Rohrbaugh, Bismark, W. Va.

Pfc. Rohrbaugh, is a nephew of Mrs. Frank C. Smith, Frantztown, and of Mrs. Rosanna Hutton, Fourth Street. He also has a brother, Arlie, at home, and another sister, Mrs. Hannah Phillips, near Scheer, W. Va.

The area soldier entered the Army on May 8, 1951, and was captured by the Chinese Reds. His family had heard from him fairly regularly until a few months ago.

Before entering the Army, he worked on the family farm. Deeply religious, he took an active part in Brethren Church work in that area.

Mrs. Smith called the Cumberland News last night, saying her daughter, Mrs. Dorothy M. Ross, Forest Park, Baltimore, had learned of Pfc. Rohrbaugh's release by television.

The Cumberland News was able to confirm the glad news from an Associated Press report.

Although Senator Butler has appeared in Cumberland on number of occasions, this will mark his first talk at Centre Street Methodist Church.

Boiler Repair Job Begins At B & O Station

Low Volatile Coal Will Be Secured

Baltimore and Ohio Railroad workers yesterday began modernizing boilers which heat the Queen City Station.

The action was taken after Charles F. Owens, deputy smoke inspector, notified B. and O. and city officials the boilers were worn out, obsolete and in a bad state of repair.

Yesterday, the workers began major repairs on one of the 1924 model boilers while the other is in use.

Major Overhaul Due

Accomplishments to date include cleaning and washing the boilers, cleaning the settling chamber and repairs to a firebox door. Slated are the replacement of overfired jets which shoot superheated steam above the firebox and the installation of a ring blower—similar to that used on Western Maryland locomotives, on the stack.

The company will also secure a supply of low volatile coal to mix with two carloads of high volatile fuel on hand.

Similar repairs will be made on the other boiler when the first is in top operating condition.

Defects Are Found

The station is owned by the B. and O. but is leased to the Murphy Company, which operates the hotel and furnishes labor to fire the boilers. Maintenance and fuel for the boilers is in charge of the B. and O.

The Smoke Abatement Department inspection Tuesday disclosed overfired jets which create turbulence in the firebox were burned out, that one firebox door was broken, the soot settling chamber dirty, flues in need of cleaning, suggested that the boilers be checked and scaled, found the main shutoff valve leaking, and the hot water pump out of operation.

Zoning Appeals Board Approves Four Permits

Edward L. Belfoure will build an addition to a home at 135 Polk Street.

I. W. Van Horn secured permission to build a porch along the entire rear of a home at 36 Wempe Drive.

Mrs. W. F. Westerfelt was granted permission to enclose a front porch at 701 Gephart Drive.

SS. Peter And Paul Enrollment Planned

Registration for all children who will enroll at SS. Peter and Paul Parochial School this fall will be held Monday, beginning at 9 a. m.

The registration will include all children who are to enroll in the first grade or new enrollments for higher grades. Physical examinations will be given at the same time.

Keyser Plant Operates Normal Despite Pickets

Union, Company Break Negotiations

The Keyser plant of the Perfection Garment Company continued to operate at normal yesterday although pickets were posted at the plant by the International Ladies Garment Workers Union (AFL).

The union called its members out on strike and threw up picket lines at all three of the Perfection Company plants after contract negotiations between company and union representatives broke down Wednesday night.

Employes of the Keyser plant are not organized although an attempt was made last December to enlist them into the union.

Mrs. Bernice Miller, manager of the Keyser plant, said yesterday only eight of the plant's workers failed to report for work yesterday, and that all of them had telephoned to report illness.

Two pickets were stationed at the plant yesterday morning. One of them said she was from Cumberland while the other, a man, reported he was from the union's main office in Martinsburg. In the afternoon another pair relieved the first pickets. Their names were not revealed.

Meanwhile, Keyser's two sister plants at Martinsburg and Ranson, W. Va., operated with reduced forces. Minor scuffles at the Martinsburg plant, the largest of the three in the area, led to two arrests yesterday.

A union organizer was charged with assault and a worker who tried to drive his car through the picket line, with reckless driving.

A company spokesman said about half of the 400 workers, mostly women, were on the job at the Martinsburg plant, about 60 of 100 at its plant at Ranson, and all but eight of about 100 at Keyser.

Negotiations that had been under way since the union won recognition at the Martinsburg and Ranson plants in a certification election December 12, broke down Wednesday.

William H. Atkinson, secretary of the company, said talks in New York were called off after the "union people introduced a union shop proposal at the last minute."

A union statement said it had been waiting for months for the company to come to a "decent agreement" but that "the company refused even to announce that they recognized the union."

"What we want," the statement said, "is a fair minimum wage, a decent yield for piece workers, paid holidays and decent sick and retirement benefits."

Engineering Staff Speeds Traffic Plan

The City Engineering Department reported yesterday that plans for the Frederick Street improvement project are being expedited.

The field survey of the project is complete and detailed plans for the work are about half finished.

The Frederick Street project is the major task to be accomplished with a $350,000 traffic improvement bond issue authorized by the recent General Assembly.

Estimated to cost about $500,000, it is planned as a federal aid project, with the government paying half of the costs. What the property owners along the route will pay has not been decided.

The department must also prepare plans for several other projects included in the traffic plan. They include the widening of one block of Franklin Street, extension of North George Street to Bedford Street and the widening of Orchard Street.

Meanwhile, data from the city's survey of the proposed Industrial Highway in South Cumberland, has been secured by the Maryland State Roads Commission.

The route is included in the 12-year-road improvement plan approved by the General Assembly.

A SRC engineer recently copied the city survey of the route so these plans may be incorporated in SRC plans for Cumberland.

Clinics Are Planned

The Health Department will hold a child hygiene conference next Tuesday at 1:30 p. m. in Cresaptown. A heart clinic will be held at City Hall Tuesday from 9 a. m. to noon.

Legislative Council Hearing Is Urged

Whitworth, Della, Sherbow Confer On Proposed Bill

Legislation to make it a criminal offense not to book any person taken into custody by law agencies is recommended in a letter to Senator George W. Della, chairman of the Legislative Council by Delegate Horace P. Whitworth, Jr.

Whitworth, who conferred in Baltimore with Della and former Judge Joseph Sherbow of the Supreme Bench of Baltimore City, asked in his letter, written at their suggestion, that the Legislative Council hold hearings and then draft remedial legislation.

He said he feels "greatly encouraged" after talking with Senator Della and Judge Sherbow.

Whitworth's letter follows:

Honorable George W. Della
Chairman of Legislative Council
Maryland Trust Building
Baltimore, Maryland

Dear Senator Della:

"During the Hitler-Nazi regime in many households there would come a knock on the door at an early hour of the morning, there would be an arrest, a member of the household would disappear and the family might or might not hear of him or her again. If he was heard of, it frequently was through a confession that the family knew had been extracted by torture or in some other form foreign to our American methods. The Communist regime seems to have taken over these methods and to have refined them to an extreme degree.

"I never believed that such methods could ever find their way into our system of Judicial Administration in the Free State of Maryland. There seems to have crept into our procedure in Baltimore City, in Allegany County, and some of the other counties of this state, certain instances where a person is taken into custody and instead of being taken to a jail and booked before a magistrate in accordance with our American judicial processes, and advised of the charges against him, is instead taken to a hotel or raced outside of the county to some secluded spot unknown to family or friends, where perhaps for days on end, including the nights, he or she may be subjected to incessant questioning.

"It is not enough to say that such people are involved in serious crimes or at least suspected of them, and it is not enough to say that they are unimportant people. It is not even sufficient to say that the confessions will be thrown out by the courts anyway in view of our latest United States Supreme Court decisions.

"What is important to me as a private citizen of Allegany County, and at the present time as a representative of our people in Allegany County, is the fact that this is unAmerican and completely foreign to our whole system of Judicial Administration. I realize the importance and the necessity of apprehending criminals but for the protection of all the people against a police state, our Constitution provided for the orderly democratic procedure in apprehending criminals in order to protect the innocent. It will not be an answer to say; take out a writ of habeas corpus; because all too frequently, such persons kept in such illegal custody and restraint are without friends, usually without money and have no knowledge of their rights, although the next time, it may well be your bank president, the neighborhood grocer or yourself.

"In order to stamp out such unAmerican practices it is necessary, in my judgment, to make such action a crime and to punish those who participate in such doings in the future.

"With this thought in mind, I have conferred with former judge Joseph Sherbow, who has considerable experience in Baltimore City with such Gestapo methods, and he too is of the opinion that such methods should never have found its way into our Judicial Administration.

"I therefore request that the Legislative Council at its first meeting consider this subject and make a complete study of the whole situation, hold hearings, and then draft such remedial legislation as may seem just and proper under the circumstances.

"It has been suggested by Former Judge Sherbow and I respectfully request you to invite to appear before the council at this hearing on the matter the following persons:

The Director of the Criminal Justice Commission, James Hepbron.

Former Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals, Charles E. Markell.

State's Attorney of Baltimore City, Anselm Sodaro.

State's Attorney of Allegany County, Paul Fletcher, and all other state's attorneys in Maryland who have had the same problems.

Thanking you and hoping that you will notify me as soon as possible if and when the Legislative Council could consider this matter, I remain,

Respectfully yours,
HORACE P. WHITWORTH JR.

Governor Plans To Sign Bills

BALTIMORE, April 23 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin plans to unlimber his pen next Monday morning and sign another batch of bills passed by the 1953 General Assembly.

The governor presently is on vacation in Florida and his aides set up the signing ceremonies for 11 a. m. Monday at the governor's office in Baltimore.

Senate President George Della and House Speaker John Luber will witness the signing.

The governor is due back Sunday morning and his aides said he probably will spend several hours that day going over bills with the attorney general's staff and his executive assistants.

Not included among those to be signed are three in which researchers have found apparent defects — authorizing Baltimore, Hagerstown and Allegany County to impose rent controls if they wish, revising the real estate tax assessment system, and scaling down the tax on mutual savings banks.

Different versions of the first two bills were passed by the separate houses of the legislature. Confusing language in the mutual savings bank tax bill may make it worthless.

The General Assembly passed 850 bills in the 90-day session that ended in a welter of confusion on April 7.

The governor already has indicated his stand on 581 of them.

Had Been Held Since Last Thursday

It's the most wonderful day of my life," said Mrs. Helen Burkett last night, a few hours after she had been reunited with her husband, Charles F. Burkett, following his release after six days of questioning in connection with the Meister murder investigation.

Burkett, 41-year-old house painter and dealer in ceramics figurines, was released from the County Infirmary yesterday morning on orders of State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher.

He went home immediately for a rest, and Mrs. Burkett said he planned just to relax for a few days.

It was indicated to newsmen last night that no new suspects were expected to be apprehended immediately in connection with the case.

Burkett was arrested last Thursday for questioning in the case. No charge ever was filed against him, and he never was booked as having been arrested, although he was held for a time in Washington County and had been at Allegany County Infirmary under police guard since last Saturday.

Had "Knowledge" Of Case

Fletcher declared Burkett had "knowledge and information" about the crime, but did not amplify that statement.

Burkett's release was arranged by his attorney, Harold E. Naughton, who conferred with Fletcher yesterday morning after threatening to go to court for a writ of habeas corpus to free his client.

Naughton and Mrs. Burkett went to the infirmary to get Burkett after Fletcher agreed to his release. Naughton said Burkett broke into sobs and seemed under terrific emotional strain.

Fletcher denied "Iron Curtain or Gestapo methods have been employed in any sense whatsoever."

Fletcher Denies His Office Used Gestapo Tactics

Deplores Criticism Of Murder Probe

State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher yesterday denied his office had used "Iron Curtain or Gestapo" tactics in the Meister murder case, and accused local newspapers of making too big an issue of the arrest and detention of a local man for nearly a week without a charge.

In his first prepared statement to the press since the discovery on January 16 of Mrs. Odessa Meister's body on McNamee's Hill, Fletcher said he had acted to protect citizens of the county "from the person who has committed a vicious, cruel and wanton murder."

His criticism of the newspapers specifically referred to publicity given the case of Charles F. Burkett, 41, who was arrested last Thursday and released only yesterday, although no formal charge ever was filed against him.

Reviews History Of Case

Fletcher's complete statement follows:

"On Saturday, December 20, 1952, a horrible murder was committed in our community. It was, of course, the duty of police officers to investigate this crime to the fullest extent. This has been done continuously from the time of the discovery of the body of Mrs. Odessa Meister on McNamee's Hill and has continued day and night without let-up to the present time.

"It is not the duty of the state's attorney to conduct investigations of this type, but despite that fact I have entered wholeheartedly into the investigation and have done everything that it has been possible for me to do to assist in and continue the investigation until such time as the party responsible for the crime is apprehended.

"In connection with the investigation, hundreds of people have been interviewed, many of whom have been in the office of the state's attorney. Special and careful effort has been made to protect any person being interviewed, either as a possible witness or as a suspect, to prevent them being unjustly accused of participation.

Says Burkett "Treated Fairly"

"In the course of the investigation it developed that Mr. Charles F. Burkett possessed information with reference to this crime. He was interviewed and it was confirmed that he did have such knowledge and information. He was treated fairly at all times by me and all officers in connection with the case. His wife was informed of his whereabouts, and anything that was done during the time he was investigated was done with his own consent and of his own free will. Mrs. Burkett has had full access to her husband at any time that she desired.

"The officers and myself, as state's attorney, have been conscientious in the discharge of our duties to the citizens of Allegany County to protect them from the person who has committed a vicious, cruel and wanton murder. The facts discovered in connection with Mr. Burkett were such as warranted and justified his investigation and partial detention. While the authorities, including myself, have been investigating Mr. Burkett, the newspapers have, for some reason unknown to me, built this particular situation into something far out of proportion to its merits.

Calls Charges "Unfounded"

"Mr. Burkett is being released in the custody of his attorney, Mr. (Harold E.) Naughton, at this time to be produced at such time as his presence may be required. The only interest of the authorities in this case is to honestly and conscientiously perform their duties in the investigation of this murder and to arrive at a proper solution.

"Iron Curtain or Gestapo methods have not been employed in any sense whatsoever and will not be employed. It is not fair to the officers and policeman of Allegany County, and from other communities who are assisting, to accuse them with such vicious and unfounded charges. We are simply trying to perform our duty to the public and to each and every citizen in the county.

"I consider it my duty to release to the press at the appropirate time any and all details concerning

Fire Destroys Dwelling Near Burlington

Family Of Six Left Homeless

A fire which apparently stemmed from a kitchen stove, destroyed a frame dwelling and its furnishings yesterday afternoon about one mile to the rear of the Van Myra Camp west of Burlington, W. Va.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Dove and their four children, Virginia, 16; Elsie, 11; Arnold, 8, and Edward, 7, were left homeless and found temporary lodging with neighbors.

Mrs. Dove, who was alone at home, sustained burns on her face, body, arms and hands when she tried unsuccessfully to save some of their belongings. Her burns were not serious and Mrs. Dove did not have to be hospitalized.

The housewife and mother of four children explained that she lighted a fire in the kitchen aronud 3 p. m. yesterday as she began to prepare for the evening meal. While she was waiting for the fire to get hot she went outside to feed the chickens. Suddenly she looked around and saw that the whole house was ablaze.

Volunteer firemen from both Burlington and Keyser responded. They managed to put out a blaze in the nearby woods but could not save the house. The house is owned by the Welch brothers of Burlington.

FBI Learns Identity Of Fire Victim

Stranger In Boxcar Is Iowa Native

The identity of a man found dead in a boxcar on a B&O freight train near Gay Street last Saturday has been learned by local authorities from Federal Bureau of Investigation records.

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, who examined the body and established death caused by asphyxiation, said the man's name was Dean Edison Kimble, 35, a native of Davis City, Iowa.

According to a telegram received by County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya from the FBI, the stranger found here in a burning boxcar had no next of kin. His last address, according to the Bureau, was New York City, and he was born December 17, 1917.

Local authorities said they are continuing their investigation in an effort to locate any living relative in Davis City.

The FBI was asked to check on the man after Lilya sent fingerprints taken from the body, and a description of the victim to the Bureau. The FBI reported their findings to Lilya yesterday.

The body of the man was found last Saturday when a B&O conductor, F. W. Beck, of 740 Baker Street, noticed smoke pouring from the moving freight train. Later when the train stopped, Beck and other railroad employes discovered the body.

Officials theorized the man had built a fire inside the car to keep warm and in some manner was overcome by the fumes. Dr. Deming's examination showed the body was covered with second degree burns.

There were no marks of identification or papers in the man's clothing, but upon examination at Memorial Hospital, it was found the man had a tatto on his upper right arm, and an initial K below the elbow of the left arm.

Area Soldier Is Freed By Communists

He is Pfc. Vernon Rohrbaugh, about 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Rohrbaugh, Bismark, W. Va.

Pfc. Rohrbaugh, is a nephew of Mrs. Frank C. Smith, Frantztown, and of Mrs. Rosanna Hutton, Fourth Street. He also has a brother, Arlie, at home, and another sister, Mrs. Hannah Phillips, near Scheer, W. Va.

The area soldier entered the Army on May 8, 1951, and was captured by the Chinese Reds. His family had heard from him fairly regularly until a few months ago.

Before entering the Army, he worked on the family farm. Deeply religious, he took an active part in Brethren Church work in that area.

Mrs. Smith called the Cumberland News last night, saying her daughter, Mrs. Dorothy M. Ross, Forest Park, Baltimore, had learned of Pfc. Rohrbaugh's release by television.

The Cumberland News was able to confirm the glad news from an Associated Press report.

Boiler Repair Job Begins At B & O Station

Low Volatile Coal Will Be Secured

Baltimore and Ohio Railroad workers yesterday began modernizing boilers which heat the Queen City Station.

The action was taken after Charles F. Owens, deputy smoke inspector, notified B. and O. and city officials the boilers were worn out, obsolete and in a bad state of repair.

Numerous complaints from the neighborhood prompted Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, street commissioner, to urge action at Monday's council meeting.

Major Overhaul Due

Accomplishments to date include cleaning and washing the boilers, cleaning the settling chamber and repairs to a firebox door. Slated are the replacement of overfired jets which shoot superheated steam above the firebox and the installation of a ring blower—similar to that used on Western Maryland locomotives, on the stack.

The company will also secure a supply of low volatile coal to mix with two carloads of high volatile fuel on hand.

Similar repairs will be made on the other boiler when the first is in top operating condition.

Defects Are Found

The station is owned by the B. and O. but is leased to the Murphy Company, which operates the hotel and furnishes labor to fire the boilers. Maintenance and fuel for the boilers is in charge of the B. and O.

The Smoke Abatement Department inspection Tuesday disclosed overfired jets which create turbulence in the firebox were burned out, that one firebox door was broken, the soot settling chamber dirty, flues in need of cleaning, suggested that the boilers be checked and scaled, found the main shutoff valve leaking, and the hot water pump out of operation.

Legislative Council Hearing Is Urged

Whitworth, Della, Sherbow Confer On Proposed Bill

Legislation to make it a criminal offense not to book any person taken into custody by law agencies is recommended in a letter to Senator George W. Della, chairman of the Legislative Council by Delegate Horace P. Whitworth, Jr.

Whitworth, who conferred in Baltimore with Della and former Judge Joseph Sherbow of the Supreme Bench of Baltimore City, asked in his letter, written at their suggestion, that the Legislative Council hold hearings and then draft remedial legislation.

He said he feels "greatly encouraged" after talking with Senator Della and Judge Sherbow.

Whitworth's letter follows:

Honorable George W. Della
Chairman of Legislative Council
Maryland Trust Building
Baltimore, Maryland

Dear Senator Della:

"During the Hitler-Nazi regime in many households there would come a knock on the door at an early hour of the morning, there would be an arrest, a member of the household would disappear and the family might or might not hear of him or her again. If he was heard of, it frequently was through a confession that the family knew had been extracted by torture or in some other form foreign to our American methods. The Communist regime seems to have taken over these methods and to have refined them to an extreme degree.

"I never believed that such methods could ever find their way into our system of Judicial Administration in the Free State of Maryland. There seems to have crept into our procedure in Baltimore City, in Allegany County, and some of the other counties of this state, certain instances where a person is taken into custody and instead of being taken to a jail and booked before a magistrate in accordance with our American judicial processes, and advised of the charges against him, is instead taken to a hotel or raced outside of the county to some secluded spot unknown to family or friends, where perhaps for days on end, including the nights, he or she may be subjected to incessant questioning.

"It is not enough to say that such people are involved in serious crimes or at least suspected of them, and it is not enough to say that they are unimportant people. It is not even sufficient to say that the confessions will be thrown out by the courts anyway in view of our latest United States Supreme Court decisions.

"What is important to me as a private citizen of Allegany County, and at the present time as a representative of our people in Allegany County, is the fact that this is unAmerican and completely foreign to our whole system of Judicial Administration. I realize the importance and the necessity of apprehending criminals but for the protection of all the people against a police state, our Constitution provided for the orderly democratic procedure in apprehending criminals in order to protect the innocent. It will not be an answer to say; take out a writ of habeas corpus; because all too frequently, such persons kept in such illegal custody and restraint are without friends, usually without money and have no knowledge of their rights, although the next time, it may well be your bank president, the neighborhood grocer or yourself.

"In order to stamp out such unAmerican practices it is necessary, in my judgment, to make such action a crime and to punish those who participate in such doings in the future.

"With this thought in mind, I have conferred with former judge Joseph Sherbow, who has considerable experience in Baltimore City with such Gestapo methods, and he too is of the opinion that such methods should never have found its way into our Judicial Administration.

"I therefore request that the Legislative Council at its first meeting consider this subject and make a complete study of the whole situation, hold hearings, and then draft such remedial legislation as may seem just and proper under the circumstances.

"It has been suggested by Former Judge Sherbow and I respectfully request you to invite to appear before the council at this hearing on the matter the following persons:

The Director of the Criminal Justice Commission, James Hepbron.

Former Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals, Charles E. Markell.

State's Attorney of Baltimore City, Anselm Sodaro.

State's Attorney of Allegany County, Paul Fletcher, and all other state's attorneys in Maryland who have had the same problems.

Thanking you and hoping that you will notify me as soon as possible if and when the Legislative Council could consider this matter, I remain,

Respectfully yours,
HORACE P. WHITWORTH JR.

Keyser Plant Operates Normal Despite Pickets

Union, Company Break Negotiations

The Keyser plant of the Perfection Garment Company continued to operate at normal yesterday although pickets were posted at the plant by the International Ladies Garment Workers Union (AFL).

The union called its members out on strike and threw up picket lines at all three of the Perfection Company plants after contract negotiations between company and union representatives broke down Wednesday night.

Employes of the Keyser plant are not organized although an attempt was made last December to enlist them into the union.

Mrs. Bernice Miller, manager of the Keyser plant, said yesterday only eight of the plant's workers failed to report for work yesterday, and that all of them had telephoned to report illness.

Two pickets were stationed at the plant yesterday morning. One of them said she was from Cumberland while the other, a man, reported he was from the union's main office in Martinsburg. In the afternoon another pair relieved the first pickets. Their names were not revealed.

Meanwhile, Keyser's two sister plants at Martinsburg and Ranson, W. Va., operated with reduced forces. Minor scuffles at the Martinsburg plant, the largest of the three in the area, led to two arrests yesterday.

A union organizer was charged with assault and a worker who tried to drive his car through the picket line, with reckless driving.

A company spokesman said about half of the 400 workers, mostly women, were on the job at the Martinsburg plant, about 60 of 100 at its plant at Ranson, and all but eight of about 100 at Keyser.

Negotiations that had been under way since the union won recognition at the Martinsburg and Ranson plants in a certification election December 12, broke down Wednesday.

William H. Atkinson, secretary of the company, said talks in New York were called off after the "union people introduced a union shop proposal at the last minute."

A union statement said it had been waiting for months for the company to come to a "decent agreement" but that "the company refused even to announce that they recognized the union."

"What we want," the statement said, "is a fair minimum wage, a decent yield for piece workers, paid holidays and decent sick and retirement benefits."

Engineering Staff Speeds Traffic Plan

The City Engineering Department reported yesterday that plans for the Frederick Street improvement project are being expedited.

The field survey of the project is complete and detailed plans for the work are about half finished.

The Frederick Street project is the major task to be accomplished with a $350,000 traffic improvement bond issue authorized by the recent General Assembly.

Estimated to cost about $500,000, it is planned as a federal aid project, with the government paying half of the costs. What the property owners along the route will pay has not been decided.

The department must also prepare plans for several other projects included in the traffic plan. They include the widening of one block of Franklin Street, extension of North George Street to Bedford Street and the widening of Orchard Street.

Meanwhile, data from the city's survey of the proposed Industrial Highway in South Cumberland, has been secured by the Maryland State Roads Commission.

The route is included in the 12-year-road improvement plan approved by the General Assembly.

A SRC engineer recently copied the city survey of the route so these plans may be incorporated in SRC plans for Cumberland.

Governor Plans To Sign Bills

BALTIMORE, April 23 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin plans to unlimber his pen next Monday morning and sign another batch of bills passed by the 1953 General Assembly.

The governor presently is on vacation in Florida and his aides set up the signing ceremonies for 11 a. m. Monday at the governor's office in Baltimore.

Senate President George Della and House Speaker John Luber will witness the signing.

The governor is due back Sunday morning and his aides said he probably will spend several hours that day going over bills with the attorney general's staff and his executive assistants.

Not included among those to be signed are three in which researchers have found apparent defects — authorizing Baltimore, Hagerstown and Allegany County to impose rent controls if they wish, revising the real estate tax assessment system, and scaling down the tax on mutual savings banks.

Different versions of the first two bills were passed by the separate houses of the legislature. Confusing language in the mutual savings bank tax bill may make it worthless.

The General Assembly passed 850 bills in the 90-day session that ended in a welter of confusion on April 7.

The governor already has indicated his stand on 581 of them.
